FEAR IS BLAMED BY KNUDSEN FOR NEW RECESSION

Senators Hear Story of Auto Slump.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—William S. Knudsen, president of the General Motors corporation, explained to the senate committee investigating relief and unemployment today that a 55 per cent slump in new car sales during November and December—the greatest in the company's history—forced him to lay off 30,000 men.

The towering Danish born industrialist, who is 57 years old, said the only explanation he could offer for the sudden and disastrous slump was a lack of confidence in the future.

"Naturally, I have hopes of a comeback in the spring and I hope that the lay-offs will be temporary," he testified. "We don't want to lay people off. We can't make money that way."

Hits U. S. Policies.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.], asked Mr. Knudsen whether he believed the policies of the government contributed to "the fear psychology."

"Yes, sir," the witness replied. When Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], chairman of the committee, asked him what he would have the government do, Mr. Knudsen laughed and said he was "not in a position to tell you that."

"This undefinable fear of which you do not know the explanation—now something like that feeds on itself," said Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.].

"Can you think of anything more calculated to accentuate that psychology than the precipitate laying off of 30,000 men by General Motors?"

Goes to White House.

After the senate hearing, Mr. Knudsen went to the White House with John D. Biggers, director of the unemployment census, for a discussion of the automobile industry. Presumably they discussed Mr. Roosevelt's recent informal suggestion that government and industrial leaders get together around a conference table and adjust production to meet demand in order to level off the peaks and valleys.

At the committee hearing Mr. Knudsen indicated that he didn't think this plan would work. "If you want to level out the curve," he said, "you will have to control the sales, not production."

Senator Byrnes ascertained that the surplus of General Motors at the end of November, 1937, was $452,547,000, or $54,000,000 above the previous year. He wanted to know whether this wasn't a reply to critics of the punitive tax on undistributed profits. Knudsen explained that the surplus included plant inventories, and that the amount of cash and securities, which totaled 211 million dollars, was $30,000,000 below the previous year. The yearly pay roll amounts to about 400 million, he said.

Mr. Knudsen introduced into the record a statement compiled by the Automobile Manufacturers' association showing that although hourly wage rates throughout the industry are 30 per cent above 1929 and all direct manufacturing costs are equal to 1929, the average auto prices per pound are still 13 per cent below 1929. Automobile prices have increased only 15 per cent above the depression lows of 1933, the statement showed.

Employment for the industry averaged 517,000 during 1937, a new record, 16 per cent above 1929. At present dealers have on hand about 400,000 new cars, highest stock in history, and manufacturers have very large inventories of parts and subassemblies.

Despite these figures showing that wage and material costs have increased far more than automobile prices, Senator Byrnes wanted to know why the company didn't reduce prices in an effort to increase sales.

"If the demand should fall off another 20 per cent, let us say, would you still keep your prices at the same level?" he asked.

"Well, we'd have to sit down and

ASK HOUSE QUIZ ON SOL BLOOM'S PATRIOTIC WAYS

Racket Charged by His Colleague.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The house was called upon today to investigate the patriotic activities of Congressman Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], director general of the United States constitution sesquicentennial commission.

Representative Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire demanded the inquiry, charging that the constitution has been used to cloak a racket. Bloom thereupon declared that Tobey was getting a little bit too personal, and invited his colleague outside to pursue the matter further. The invitation was not accepted. Tobey said he would let the house pursue the subject for him.

In great detail Tobey recited the charges which have been made in connection with Bloom's promotion of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the constitution, which has cost the taxpayers $300,000 thus far. These included allegations that two Tammany Hall sponsors of Bloom shared in the profits from the sale of shrines, tokens, and paintings indorsed by the sesquicentennial commission.

Calls Charges Political.

In reply, Bloom, who insists in the face of overwhelming evidence to the contrary that he bears a visual resemblance to George Washington, told the house that the accusations were political in character. He went even further.

"I had not meant to say this," he declared. "But the real reason for this contemptible conspiracy shall be disclosed. This is a plot to get rid of me as director general of the commission and put Bruce Barton [new member of congress and well known advertising man] in."

"The commission has spent a third of a million dollars," Tobey asserted. "It is time to inquire into these matters. Last year we discovered that the gentleman had copyrighted in his own name the book 'The Story of the Constitution.' After protest from members he transferred his right and title to the commission.

"I was astonished to find upon investigation that there are a number of other copyrights in his name on publications put out by the Washington bicentennial commission, of which he is also director general."

Lists Bloom Copyrights.

Tobey put into the record a compilation of copyrights garnered by Bloom as he pursued his patriotic path. The record showed also one copyright obtained by William Solomon, one of the Tammany leaders whose name was linked to Bloom's in the recent charges. The list of copyrights follows:

1. "The Music of George Washington's Time," by John Tasker Howard, copyrighted Nov. 21, 1931, by Sol Bloom.

2. "The George Washington Play and Pageant Costume Book," compiled by United States George Washington bicentennial commission, copyrighted by Sol Bloom, Jan. 2, 1932.

3. Painting, "We, the People" [an allegorical picture depicting the signing of the constitution, 1787-1937], by Howard Chandler Christy, copyrighted Nov. 15, 1936, by William Solomon.

Other Paintings Included.

4. Painting, "Boy Scout and the Constitution of the United States of America," by Howard Chandler Christy, copyrighted Dec. 3, 1936, by Sol Bloom.

5. "Album of Military Marches; music from the days of George Washington," copyrighted Nov. 21, 1931, by Sol Bloom.

6. "Music from the days of George Washington in Dance Music," copyrighted Nov. 21, 1931, by Sol Bloom.

7. Painting, "Washington, the Mason" [showing Washington dressed in the Masonic regalia], by Hattie E. Burdette, copyrighted Jan. 23, 1932, by Sol Bloom.

8. Print, "George Washington," copyrighted Oct. 9, 1931, by Sol Bloom.

Mrs. McGrath Sees an Item in the Paper

Mrs. Bertha McGrath has been reading the newspapers a long time and if you should ask her what sections she likes best she would most likely tell you she likes them all. But if you should grow chatty with Mrs. McGrath you probably would learn that, though she glances over the headlines, reads the Gumps, and looks at the back page pictures, she really gets the most comfort out of the obituaries.

And Mrs. McGrath has needed comfort the last few months, since her husband, Robert, quit coming home. Every now and then, when she has read an item about a runaway husband being brought to account, she has gone over to the Sheffield police station to prod the sergeant about not finding Robert.

And the Sergeant Said "No."

The sergeant would always tell her that Robert was a mighty hard boy to find. They might look up some relatives. There was a chance Robert might seek solace in the presence of some of his kin. Then Mrs. McGrath would go home and read the Gumps, look at the headlines, and settle down to the obituaries again.

It was like this Wednesday morning. She was reading comfortably, murmuring occasionally at some bit of sentiment, and she was almost half way down the column when she sat abruptly upright. She carefully reread one of the brief items and put on her hat. There was a glint of determination in her eye.

"I am going to the police station!" she told a neighbor in the building at 836 Cornelia avenue.

She Goes, but Not to Mourn.

That evening, accompanied by Detectives Justin McCarthy and Robert Thompson, Mrs. McGrath emerged from an automobile in front of an undertaker's chapel at 2346 Madison street. She was very unlike a mourner as she strode in, and even less so when she strode out beckoning to the detectives.

Yesterday in the Domestic Relations court Robert McGrath, who is 37 years old, heard Judge John T. Zuris sentence him to serve thirty days in the Bridewell on a charge of nonsupport.

"I quite often read the obituary notices, judge," said Mrs. McGrath, "and yesterday morning I saw that John Leary was dead. It told where the wake was going to be, so I just took the police down there with me. I knew we would find Robert. John Leary was his favorite uncle."

HIDES N. Y. FAIR AD ON LICENSE PLATES; WILL FIGHT IN COURT

Armonk, N. Y., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Martin McBohin didn't like the legend New York World's Fair—1939 printed across the bottom of his automobile license plates, so he painted it out. Last night he was stopped in North Castle on a charge of defacing the plates.

McBohin, a White Plains mechanic, who formerly was a sergeant in the marines, was firm. He said the state was not paying him to carry advertising on his car. Vigorous language passed between him and Police Sergt. John Hergenhan and McBohin was taken before Justice of the Peace Julius Raven.

The justice continued the case until Tuesday to look up the law and let McBohin hire an attorney. His counsel, John J. O'Connor, declared McBohin was within his constitutional rights. He was emphatic today in his contention the state cannot force any one to advertise a private enterprise, such as the World's Fair corporation.

O, LOOK, SU-LIN! HERE'S A SISTER FROM OLD TIBET!

HANKOW, China, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Diana, a baby giant panda which will become the playmate of Su-lin, the panda in the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield, was flown here from the interior today by Mrs. William H. Harkness Jr., American explorer.

Mrs. Harkness, who captured Su-lin near the Tibetan border last year, said she searched three months on her second expedition into the jungle country before she found Diana, two months old. She will fly to Hongkong with the panda, which then will be shipped to Chicago.

The rare, bearlike little animal—which is fed with a nursing bottle—experienced its first air raid here and reacted with bored indifference to the explosions of Japanese bombs.

Nervous Bandit Trades Gun for $65 and a Shoe

A nervous young man added a new touch to the old business of banditry last night. Entering the automobile of Isadore Gottlieb at 26th street and Sacramento avenue, he forced his victim, an insurance man living at 4322 17th street, to hand over $65 and to remove one of his shoes, with which the bandit fled. But in his excitement he left his gun in Gottlieb's car. It will be examined for finger prints.

'Sit' Strike Threatened in C. I. O. Office

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—International officers of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers' union were threatened by a sitdown strike in their own offices today when employés protested the discharge of two organizers.

Homer Martin, international president, said that the organizers, Michael L. Beck and Ernest Labrecque, were laid off as an economy measure. Martin had announced last week that the international officers were considering drastic reductions in office and organizing personnel because economy of operation was demanded by the business recession.

Demand Reëmployment.

Following the discharge, stenographers, clerks, switchboard operators and organizers demanded and obtained an immediate hearing with George Addes, secretary-treasurer of the union. They threatened to suspend work and stage a sitdown if Beck and Labrecque were not reëmployed.

Labrecque is a former vice president and Beck is a former organizer for the independent association of Chrysler employés. Along with Philip De Falco, former secretary of the independent union, they recently resigned and were hired as organizers by the U. A. W.

At that time they charged that the independent union was sponsored by the Chrysler corporation, and declared that the "future of labor lies with the C. I. O."

Complaint Based on Charges.

On the basis of their charges, the U. A. W. filed a formal complaint against Chrysler with the National Labor Relations board and demanded an election to determine sole bargaining rights.

Angered by their discharge today, Beck and Labrecque said they would not testify for the U. A. W. at an NLBR hearing unless they were rehired. Both claimed that they had one year contracts with the U. A. W. which were violated by Martin's action.

Slip of the Lip Painful; Hair on Chest Set Afire

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A slip of the lip cost Henry Blunk, 27 years old, second degree burns and a trip to the hospital. Blunk forgot he had a lighted cigaret in his mouth and yawned. The cigaret fell inside his open shirt collar and set fire to the hair on his chest.

100 Planes, 24 Warships Scan Pacific

San Pedro, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Three hundred United States navy planes, all the aircraft of the United States fleet participating in current maneuvers in the Pacific, were ordered into the air at dawn tomorrow to search for a large bombing plane with seven men aboard that has been missing at sea since yesterday afternoon.

With fog hampering the search in certain areas, every facility of the navy was mobilized in an effort to find the ill-fated ship, if it still is afloat, before a storm dashes it to pieces.

Twenty-four warships and more than 100 planes were engaged in the hunt tonight. They were concentrated off Santa Barbara, in which vicinity it was believed the bomber disappeared some 100 or more miles at sea.

Aircraft Carriers in Search.

Sixty patrol planes from San Diego, with all battleship and cruiser base planes, searched the navy drill grounds between Santa Barbara and San Diego without success. The aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, with seventy-two planes each, were en route to the north end of the drill grounds to throw their squadrons into the hunt.

Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, commander in chief of the United States fleet, took personal charge of the search, which was declared to be of the largest proportions ever dispatched for a missing plane.

Circumstances under which the bomber vanished were veiled in mystery.

On Routine Flight.

"The plane was on a routine flight when we lost radio contact with it about 5 p. m. yesterday," said Capt. Alva D. Bernhard, chief of staf of the navy aircraft scouting force. "I am not at liberty to say where it was bound or where it was believed to be when we lost contact.

"We believe the plane will be found. It is one of the flying boats capable of alighting in any kind of sea."

Observers said that unless the bomber crashed into the sea and was damaged in alighting, it would be able to remain afloat on ordinary seas for an indefinite period.

Crew May Be Safe.

Unless its occupants were injured by a fall into the sea, it was expected they would remain safely in the cabin until found, barring the possibility of a storm arising in the meantime.

From Washington it was learned that Lieut. Truman E. Carpenter was in command of the bomber and Aviation Cadet Philip O. Browning was co-pilot.

Also in the crew were William Erbe, 52 years old, of San Diego, and Edgar Anglin, 37, of Norfolk, Va., chief machinists mates; C. C. Creech, 22, of Richland, N. Y., a machinist, and Joe D. Adair, 21, of Caruthersville, Mo., and G. A. Miles, 22, of Prescott, Mich., radio operators.

The bomber was among numerous sea and air craft that have been patroling the Pacific coast line ever since the United States gunboat Panay was sunk in Chinese waters.

PANIC SEIZES CROWDS AS JAPS BOMB HANKOW

Police Whips Drive People to Shelter.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HANKOW, China, Jan. 6.—Terror-stricken crowds increased their own peril as Japanese air bombers today made their second attack of the week on Hankow, the new capital of China.

I saw women and children run over and vehicles piled on top of each other as panic ruled the streets during the bombing. Police used clubs and whips freely to drive citizens to shelter.

The first alarm was sounded at 12:15 p. m. and, in a city not hardened to bombing raids, the people started slowly for their homes and places of safety. Then the excitement gained momentum and developed into pandemonium.

Fourteen Known Dead.

Known casualties were fourteen persons killed and twenty-one wounded, but Chinese officials believed the deaths would number more than fifty when reports were received from the surrounding area. Several of the injured were taken to the American Mission Union hospital.

Thirty bombers, in formation, and escorted by six fast pursuit planes, appeared at 12:40 p. m. They flew over the city proper and dropped part of their cargoes at 1 p. m. They then went on to attack the air fields at Hanyang and Wuchang, which, with Hankow, compose the great tricities center of population in central China.

[Tokio spokesmen said the raids were made on Hankow "to crush" the new air fleet the Chinese were said to be receiving from soviet Russia.]

Aim at Radio Station.

Besides the air fields the raiders' objectives were the Hankow radio station and the Hanyang arsenal. Several persons were killed in the vicinity of the radio station.

No Chinese planes went up to battle the invaders, but Chinese antiaircraft guns opened fire immediately. The barrage was spectacular, but did not interrupt the raid. The guns' aim was poor and their range 1,000 feet short of the targets. The shell bursts were considerably in the rear of the Japanese planes.

Chinese officers suggested that the raid was in reprisal for yesterday's Chinese bombing of the Japanese air base at Wuhu, where six Japanese planes were reported destroyed. Hankow is about 300 miles up the Yangtze river from Wuhu and is about 500 miles inland from the sea.

Japs Move on Railway.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 7 [Friday].—(AP)—Japanese forces estimated at 60,000 well equipped men were reported today to be moving from the north and south toward the Lunghai railroad—China's "jugular vein." Control of that main east-west trunk line would open the way for a Japanese drive into the interior and against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Driving north from Pukow along the Tientsin-Pukow railway and south through Shantung province along the same line the two wings of the Japanese army were aimed at Suchow, junction of the Tientsin-Pukow and Lunghai lines.

Opposing the Japanese, Chinese reports said, were 100,000 of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers along the Lunghai railway, between Suchow, Kiangsu province, and Kweiteh, Honan province, a stretch of about ninety miles.

U. S. Embassy Opened.

The United States embassy at Nanking, closed since before the Japanese captured China's capital on Dec. 13, was reopened today.

The United States cruiser Augusta, which stood by for protection of Americans during the months of Shanghai warfare, steamed out of the Whangpoo river today for Manila. Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet who used the Augusta as his flagship, took up new headquarters on the naval yacht Isobel.

Expect Peace Overtures.

TOKIO, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A Japanese government statement today declared that the Chinese government "have come to show increasing evidence of their intention to sue for peace."

The statement, signed by Akira Kazami, chief secretary of the cabinet was issued after a conference of the premier, war, navy and foreign ministers to discuss conduct of Japan's war against China.

It declared that "it appears the Chinese government have been affected by the power of the Japanese forces and the united determination of the Japanese people."

[Hankow dispatches last week reported an outline of Japan's peace terms had been communicated to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, China's war leader, through the German ambassador to China, Dr. Oskar Trautmann. In Hankow it was said Chiang had rejected the overture].

PLAN HUGE WAR GAMES

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Details about the naval, army, and air units which will take part in the biggest combined sea, land, and air maneuvers ever staged at Singapore were disclosed today. Ten thousand troops, twenty-five warships and the largest number of airplanes ever assembled in the far east will participate, it was revealed. The maneuvers will be held from Jan. 31 to Feb. 5 about the powerful Singapore base.

The 1st battalion of the Royal Inniskilling fusiliers and the 2d battalion of the Gordon highlanders, garrisoned at Singapore, will be reënforced by the 1st and 2d Punjab regiments and by a Malay regiment. The bulk of the Punjab units was transferred from Taiping, Malay States, to Hongkong soon after the Chinese-Japanese war started.

In addition four local air force squadrons, two bomber squadrons from India and another from Iraq will be included.

Aircraft Carrier to Be on Hand.

The British aircraft carrier Eagle and other ships will go to Singapore from China for the exercises. The new 15 and 18 inch batteries in Singapore—claimed to be the most powerful land batteries in the world—will be brought into action for the first time during the maneuvers.

The vast Singapore naval base built by the British at a cost of $45,000,000 will be inaugurated officially on Feb. 11, it was announced by Sir Shenton Thomas, governor of the Straits Settlements, who will open the new graving dock.

Britain Stresses Importance.

The opening ceremony will be attended by Col. J. J. Llewellin, civil lord of the admiralty in London; Vice Admiral Sir Alexander Ramsay, commander in chief in the East Indies, and Vice Admiral L. G. E. Crabbe, acting commander in chief in China. Representatives from Australia, New Zealand, and Hongkong also were invited, signifying the importance the British government attaches to Singapore in the defense of Great Britain's Pacific interests.

While these operations are taking place in the far east, some British air force units in the near east, it was revealed, are preparing to move to stations nearer the Suez canal which the British now recognize is vulnerable to attacks from Italian controled Ethiopia.

REPORT REVOLT ON GUATEMALA'S DICTATOR RULE

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—A revolt against President Jorge Ubico's dictatorship in Guatemala broke out last night, reports in Tapachula, state of Chiapas, Mexico, near the Guatemalan northern frontier, said today.

Army garrisons in northern Guatemala were said to be taking part in the movement. Although details were few, it was said Guatemalan exiles here had slipped over the border and promoted an uprising.

Gen. Ubico has generally been regarded as the strongest of the Central American dictators, who have an agreement to protect each other from communist influences.

March on Railroad

Japanese troops are reported marching from two directions (see small arrows) along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad toward the important Lunghai railway which it intersects at Suchow. Possession of the Lunghai line would open for the Japanese a new avenue to the interior of China. Hankow (marked by large arrow) was bombed a second time yesterday by Japanese war planes. The ruled area is held by the Japanese.

JAP CENSORS PUT IN SHANGHAI CABLE OFFICES

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Japanese censors and communications officials yesterday established themselves in the offices of three foreign cable companies in Shanghai's international settlement.

Earlier Japanese censors had been stationed in the International Radio office, a new international organization which took over the functions previously exercised by the Chinese government radio administration.

The actions followed notice served early last month by the Japanese consul general in the city that Japanese authorities would take over all Chinese communication functions, including censorship. The arrival of Japanese censors had no immediate apparent effect on news dispatches to the United States.

DRAKE'S DRUM, BRITONS' 'GUARD,' SAVED IN BLAZE

PLYMOUTH, England, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The famous "Drake's Drum," which legend says rolls whenever danger threatens England, was saved today when fire consumed timbered Buckland abbey, once the residence of Sir Francis Drake.

The drum was used to sound the warning of the Spanish Armada's approach to England in 1588, and it has been heard several times since, according to legend.

The last time was after the world war, when the drum was aboard the battleship Royal Oak. Sailors said they heard the strange rumbling during a tense period of waiting before the German fleet came into sight to surrender at Scapa Flow.

Churchill Pays 6 Hour Call on Windsor and Duchess

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

CANNES, France, Jan. 6.—Winston Churchill, British statesman, paid a long call on the duke and duchess of Windsor here yesterday. Churchill, a guest at Château L'Horizon in Golfe Juan, went to Villa Lou Viei, where the former King Edward VIII. and the duchess are staying, and remained for six hours.

BRITAIN LEADING U. S. TO JAP WAR, SAYS MAGAZINE

Struggle Half Won, Boasts English Weekly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Under the heading "Can We Rope in America?" G. K.'s Weekly—a magazine founded by the late Gilbert K. Chesterton, noted British writer—declared in an article today that the British have half won the struggle to get the United States into a war against Japan in the far east.

Getting the United States lined up to fight for British interests in the orient is the most immediate practical question in English politics today, the article said.

The article asserted that the Japanese want the revenue England has enjoyed from the orient and are in a fair way to get it. The only way for England to stop the Japanese is to fight them, it continued, adding that England is not strong enough to wage the war single handed.

U. S. Termed Last Hope.

The article then said:

"The French, though they have similar interests in the far east, are not to be relied upon. The hopes we had of Russian interference have failed. There remains the United States.

"It is commonly said up and down Europe that we can make the United States do what we like.

"We got the United States into the great war on our side, and, what was more extraordinary, we managed in the debt business to make France the villain of the piece. We have got them [the United States] to feel with us against modern Italy, and we have got them to talk of ourselves as a 'democracy'—which is prodigious."

After this admission the article continued: "Can we rope them in to fight or threaten the Japanese? It is a question of most poignant interest and it is a question that will be answered in a comparatively short time in one way or another.

"The advantages we have in working American opinion and policy are very great, and they have been used in the past with so much success that those who think we shall win the trick have much to say for themselves.

"We are the only people of the old world who still use the same printed word and largely the same spoken word as the Americans.

Depend on Moral Views.

"Vastly different as we are from the Americans, we have in common with them moral ideas proceeding from the men who dominated the English in the 17th century. We know what will move American indignation and enthusiasm even when it does not move our own.

"American opinion is inflammable, and just as we got up the cry 'to hell with the Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs,' so we might get up a slogan for the Pacific.

"We are about half way to our goal. Shall we be able to reach it? As things now stand, our chances are—to put it in American—about fifty-fifty."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Four Mayfair playboys went on trial today, accused of robbing a jeweler of diamond rings valued at $80,000 in a London hotel after beating him and fracturing his skull. The trial was continued until Jan. 13 in the hope the victim would be well enough to testify.

The defendants, all habitués of west end night spots, are Robert Harley, 26 years old; David Wilmer, 24 years old; Christopher Lonsdale, 24 years old, and Peter Jenkins, 23 years old.

The prosecution said Jenkins rented a suite in the hotel Dec. 20 and telephoned Cartier's, a jewelry firm, asking for a salesman to show him some $20,000 engagement rings. Etienne Bellenger, director of Cartier's, went to the hotel, and was attacked while showing the rings. After the assailant beat him repeatedly, inflicting the fracture and twelve severe scalp wounds, Bellenger surrendered the gems.

DUAL OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED ALONG TERUEL SECTOR

Fresh Spanish Troops Sent Up Through Snow.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The insurgent and government armies attacked simultaneously today in the Teruel sector. Both sides claimed advances, although the main outline of the fifteen mile front remained unchanged.

The double offensive for control of that important provincial capital intensified the battle. Fresh troops were moved up and tractors hauled additional guns along snow-filled roads into firing positions.

Insurgents Pound Two Points.

The renewed offensive the insurgents began two days ago apparently had made little, if any, progress against the reënforced government lines.

The insurgents pounded two points, Celadas, north of Teruel, and the Villastar sector to the south, trying to force two spearheads toward the capital.

Government leaders sent picked troops to follow up a heavy artillery barrage in an effort to drive a wedge along the Teruel-Saragossa highway and separate the insurgent troops north of Teruel from their main forces west and south of the city.

Snowfall Continues.

Except for an interlude yesterday, the weather has given no indication of immediate improvement. Snow fell intermittently today over the countryside, already blanketed knee deep in places.

War planes, earthbound most of the time, took advantage of yesterday's letup and government flyers machine gunned insurgent concentrations at San Blas, Concud, and Celadas.

An insurgent communique said five government scouting and three pursuit ships were shot down.

Economy Pinches Madrid.

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 6.—Madrid shivered today as drastic steps were taken to enforce war economy measures to conserve coal and restrict the use of electricity.

JAP WAR FORCES SEEK OVER BILLION DOLLARS FOR WARFARE IN CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 6.—The Japanese diet will be asked to appropriate extraordinary army and naval funds in excess of 4 billion yen [about 1 billion 200 million dollars] when it reconvenes Jan. 26, it was understood today.

It was said the fighting services decided to demand this lump sum on the assumption that an extra session is not likely and in order to insure the necessary funds to combat prolonged Chinese resistance in the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war.

The 2 billion 500 million yen budget [about 750 million dollars] already appropriated for the war in China is regarded as insufficient. The finance ministry, it was reported, has decided to increase taxes this year to raise an additional 300 million yen [about 90 million dollars] and to float a new bond issue. The government will stick to this policy despite the expected opposition, it was said.

Nazis Turn to Coffee Dregs in Search for Needed Fat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—A new chemical process will be utilized to extract fat from coffee dregs to help make up Germany's lack of fats, the newspaper Der Angriff revealed today. It said a factory will be built in Berlin in which fat, as well as wax, resin and cellulose will be taken from nine tons of coffee dregs daily. Coffee houses, hotels and restaurants will furnish the raw materials, the newspaper said. The extracted fat will be used principally for soap.

ONE-THIRD OF GERMAN INCOME GOES TO TAXES AND 'GIFTS' FOR NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—One-third of Germany's national income in 1937 was absorbed by national and local taxes and many "voluntary" contributions demanded by the Nazis, an annual survey revealed today. The survey was made by the Reichskredit Gesellschaft, a state owned bank.

It found that payers of national taxes contributed 5 billion 600 million dollars to the government in the past year, an increase of a billion dollars over the preceding year. National indebtedness at the end of October was 7 billion 30 million dollars, an increase of 1 billion 22 million in twelve months.

The survey showed that the bill portfolios of public and private banks—made up largely of government obligations—increased 720 million dollars in 1937. Banks' bond holdings increased during the last three years by an amount almost equaling issues of governmental national consolidation loans.

SALES TAX GRAFT EXPOSED; STATE PUSHES INQUIRY

15 Agents Fired; Bribes Total "Thousands."

Following the news that the state of Illinois collected $6,000,000 more in sales taxes than had been expected during the last six months came these further revelations yesterday:

1. That Chicago, which pays most of the sales tax, does not benefit proportionately with downstate counties.

2. That while sales tax sleuths were collecting taxes by putting businesses into receiverships—

3. State tax sleuths also were using their positions to collect bribes from these same merchants, and that—

4. In at least one instance a merchant who had been swindled by one tax sleuth to evade payment, had been thrown into receivership by another, and that—

5. Sam Nudelman, state director of finance, has discharged fifteen of the investigators in his Chicago office for soliciting or accepting bribes, for laxity or inattention to duty.

Prosecutor to Get Evidence.

Nudelman's announcement was the first manifestation of an inquiry which began in February, 1937, and is by no means ended, he said. The evidence will be turned over to State's Attorney Courtney with the expectation that indictments will follow.

In the meantime, Nudelman will shift 30 or 40 of his downstate investigators into the Chicago district to investigate both the bribing retailers and the bribed agents, and also to improve tax collections.

The finance director said the bribes passed would total thousands of dollars, but he would not even hazard a figure on the total evasions.

"We aren't collecting 100 per cent of what is due the state; this we know," he said. "We will recover a lot, but we can't get it unless we have people working for us whom we know aren't chiseling."

Spy System Set Up.

The grafting political appointees were persistent and not easily frightened, Nudelman revealed during a long interview in his Chicago office, 105 West Madison street. First hints of the bribe taking reached the department last February and a warning was issued by Robert T. Stowers, Chicago department head.

During the spring and summer the rumors persisted, with suspicions cast freely upon the agents. One so placed under a cloud was a former bailif for Gov. Horner when he was judge of the Probate court of Cook county, Nudelman said.

Eventually the director established an intelligence unit to spy on the employés and they were so notified in a long talk by Stowers on last Sept. 16. Trade associations, individual taxpayers, and anonymous communications, he said, had informed the department that chiseling was going on and bribes were being solicited. Stowers issued another and sterner warning.

Phone Calls Trap Agents.

Several former operatives of private detective agencies were hired to aid this intelligence unit. With them came the latest apparatus for tapping telephone lines. Into an innocent appearing bookcase in Stowers' third floor office went a large telephone monitor, which could listen in on any of the 50 telephones used by the investigators or other employés in the office.

For hours each day a former detective sat in front of the monitor wearing headphones and listening to conversation after conversation between retailers and tax sleuths. From time to time he caught such phrases as "It'll be worth $300 to you," or "I might be able to take care of that matter for you." These calls were traced quickly and admissions generally followed, either from the retailer making the proposition or the agent who accepted or solicited it.

While Nudelman said that only 15 investigators have been discharged to date, evidence is being gathered against others including some former employés of the department who know the routine and represent themselves as still employed by the state.

Caught Coming and Going.

One merchant was solicited for a bribe by an agent and paid it, thereby thinking he was evading payment of several thousand dollars in taxes. But the state department, when the bribe became known to it, sent auditors into his concern, determined the amount of the evasion, and threw the firm into receivership until the receipts of the business equaled the amount of the tax owed. Caught coming and going — by the bribed agent and the receivership—this merchant also faces indictment for conspiracy.

Fifteen concerns have been thrown into receivership in recent months for evasion of the sales tax and about $150,000 thus has been recovered. Nudelman credits these actions for the unexpected $6,000,000 increase in collections since July 1, 1937. The total for the six months was about $42,000,000, whereas only $36,000,000 had been expected.

Figures issued in Springfield show that Chicago pays more than half of the sales tax — last November the Cook county collections were 57 per cent of the state total—but Chicago officials and legislators protest that the city does not get its money back, either in state improvements or for the relief load. Downstate counties, which contribute less than half the tax, received a disproportionate share in return, the Chicagoans declare.

Gov. Horner Backs Inquiry.

Gov. Horner issued a statement in Springfield last night saying that the bribery investigation will not terminate until every offender has been brought to justice.

"Chiselers will be dealt with as law violators and public enemies," he added. "We will fight corruption in every form."

Ranee Visits Chicago

RANEE OF SARAWAK.

Sylvia of Sarawak, whose husband, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, rules a large portion of northern Borneo, arrived by plane yesterday from New York for a visit with friends. The ranee [queen] said she plans to fly back to New York Sunday and sail for London. Her daughter, Princess Baba, otherwise Valeria Brooke, married Bob Gregory, a professional wrestler, on Nov. 22 at Marylebone, England. The ranee, who is staying at the Seneca hotel, said the rajah would join her in England in March. Known as the white rajah, Sir Charles governs a territory as large as England and Wales which an ancestor was given by the sultan of Borneo in 1840 for suppressing a rebellion.

Court to Guide the Hand of a Youthful Marksman

Lesley Riordan, 17 years old, 6350 Drexel avenue, will be under the supervision of the Boys' court until next Dec. 6, Judge Gibson E. Gorman decided yesterday. Riordan was charged with disorderly conduct after he was said to have practiced his accuracy with an air rifle on the electric sign of the Tivoli theater, 6329 Cottage Grove avenue. Two younger marksmen were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Civil Service Secretary Gets $3,776 in Back Pay

City Controler Robert B. Upham yesterday paid James S. Osborne, civil service commission secretary, $3,776 in back pay and $23 court costs in accordance with a ruling made by the Superior court last week which said that Osborne's $4,500 salary is fixed by statute and could not be reduced by the city council in 1932, when economy cuts were made.

HOW TO REDUCE RELIEF SHELTER ROLLS IS TOLD

Finger Printing and Ban on Drunks Urged.

The population of 2,100 single men receiving shelter relief from the Chicago Relief administration could be cut in half by instituting three simple rules, S. N. Geal, superintendent of the shelters, said yesterday. He outlined the rules as follows:

1. Finger print every inmate of the shelters and all future applicants.

2. Stop giving relief to transients who look upon Chicago as one of the hobo havens of the country.

3. No shelter care for drunken bums.

"If word got into the line [at the shelter] that a finger print taker had arrived, we'd lose half of our population immediately," Geal said. "The idea wasn't mine originally—it was suggested to me by a police officer.

No Honest Man Need Fear.

"I brought the idea up in a CRA meeting and the social workers threw up their hands in horror. It seems to me the honest man, who was really in need and had nothing to fear from the law, would have no objection to being finger printed."

Men who have established a legal residence in Chicago are sent to the shelter when the CRA is unable to pay rent for them in a rooming house or low cost hotel. Thomas Lavin, supervisor of the CRA's transportation office, said any transient who applies at his office is given a ticket admitting him to the shelter for a restricted stay.

"Last summer the transients were limited to 30 days," Geal said. "Then last fall we had a series of strong arm robberies and Mr. Lyons [Commissiner Leo M. Lyons of the CRA] cut the time to seven days. The time recently was raised to 15 days."

Get Three Meals a Day.

The transients, like the Chicago men, are given three meals a day and a cot in one of the shelters. One of the shelters is in an old school building at 1426 South Newberry avenue. A second old school building at 1310 South Ashland avenue was opened for the same use last month, but both are so crowded that 350 men are being kept in low cost hotels and fed at the shelters.

Geal said a count on Tuesday showed that transients made up 299 of the 2,121 men being cared for by the shelters on that day.

Geal said the anti-drunk ruling of the CRA is enforced, but not strictly, at the shelters. He said a permanent resident is given a chance to behave himself before being sent back to the district office from which he came.

Some Are Habitual Drunks.

"Certainly all of the men in these places are not bums," Geal said. "We do, however, have some who are habitual drunkards and who have the disease so strongly that they will never be anything else. On a cold night we do let the drunks into the basement."

Geal said these men obtain money for liquor by panhandling. Asked if the drunk would not leave town if they knew that they could not gain entrance to the shelter and if panhandling were stopped in the city, Geal replied:

"Yes, in about two days the word would be out through the city and in two weeks it would spread all over the country that Chicago is a bad spot for bums. But, if we turn away a drunk on a cold night the social workers would come down on us like a ton of bricks, so we haven't been able to put such a system into operation."

KERNER MOVES FOR QUICK TEST OF BOOKIE LAW

Holds Ordinance Void in Opinion.

A quick test in the State Supreme court of Chicago's ordinance to license pari-mutuel brokers was assured last night by Attorney General Otto Kerner, who earlier in the day had sent Gov. Horner an opinion holding the ordinance to be in conflict with the state law and therefore invalid.

Kerner's study of the ordinance, which resulted in yesterday's adverse opinion, was made at the request of the governor, who had declared since the measure was first proposed that it would be a nullity and unenforceable. The attorney general's promise to speed the ordinance to a decisive test was made at the request of Mayor Kelly.

May Start Action Tomorrow.

Kerner announced he would probably go into court tomorrow and institute quo warranto proceedings, under which the city would have to attempt to prove valid the measure allowing brokers to accept race horse wagers for transmission to the pari-mutuel machines at the tracks. Under quo warranto proceedings public officials and heads of corporations must show by what right they do certain acts.

This would put the burden of proof upon the city. After a hearing before the Superior or Circuit court, with the city in the rôle of defendant, the court would uphold or reject the city's answer. If the city should be upheld the attorney general would appeal to the Supreme court and if the state should be upheld the city would appeal.

Kerner said last evening the issue probably could be put before the State Supreme court at its February term.

Goes Into Effect Monday.

The betting ordinance, which was signed by Mayor Kelly on Dec. 24, becomes effective next Monday. It provides license fees of $5,000 for loop brokers, $3,000 in certain designated business districts, and $1,000 for brokers in outlying sections.

Though the city collector will be authorized to begin accepting fees and issuing licenses Monday, it was the opinion along Randolph street last night that few prospective brokers would apply. They are holding off because, under the law, there could be no refund of fees paid to the city if the ordinance should eventually be held invalid.

Robert B. Upham, city controler, expressed no concern last night at the expected delay in putting into effect the measure which was championed not only as a check on secret gambling and crime, but as an important revenue source. Upham said income from license fees had not figured in his budget estimates.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the council finance committee, said last night that the delay would not affect the budget. Action already has been taken to trim it heavily, he asserted, adding that the city had not been depending on licensing betting brokers to get through the year.

Mayor Kelly was reached late in the day at Tropical Park, near Miami, Fla., where he was attending the races. His request that Kerner bring quo warranto action speaks for itself, he said.

Based on Race Track Law.

Attorney General Kerner's opinion yesterday was based upon the state race track law, which, he declared, seems to limit the right to bet on the horses to those who actually go to the track where a recognized race meeting is in progress. Further, he said, betting is limited to the places on the grounds provided specifically by the management for that purpose. Finally, the opinion read, there is serious doubt that the city of Chicago under the state constitution has the right to pass such an ordinance.

Sponsors of the measure contend that if it is legal to place a bet at a race track it is legal also to commission a broker to place a bet. This is the essence of the ordinance.

FEAR IS BLAMED BY KNUDSEN FOR NEW RECESSION

In response to another question by Senator Byrnes, the witness revealed that the earnings of General Motors for 1937 were $4.48 a share, compared with $5.35 for 1936.

Disclosing that the company now has about 200,000 new cars on hand, about 60,000 more than normal, the witness said that personnel is adjusted primarily on a production basis rather than according to financial considerations.

Knudsen attributed the drastic decline in new car sales to glutting of the used car market. The present ratio of sales is about two used cars to one new car, he said.

"We don't feel that prices are a factor," he added. "The average man simply feels that work is going to be slack and he won't commit himself to buy a car."

Increased Costs Cited.

In a prepared statement Mr. Knudsen said:

"Costs have increased sharply during 1937. Labor rates are 25 per cent higher than in 1936, and material costs rose sharply during the first half of 1937. The over-all increase in car costs amounted to 13½ per cent in 1937. General Motors elected to carry this burden without increasing prices, until the period of August to October, 1937, when price increases of 8½ per cent were put in force on all cars.

"Shop efficiency suffered in the first half of 1937 to a considerable extent through strikes and unauthorized stoppages, the actual man-hour loss being about forty million. The loss in manufacturing efficiency has, however, shown considerable improvement since the new models were announced, and both quality and costs are at the present time up to expectation, and can be expected to remain in that position, since strikes have stopped and labor relations are much improved.

Wages at Record High.

"Wage rates are at an all-time high, and, despite time lost in strikes, the average annual wage in 1937 was about $1,650 for the 80 per cent of the men who worked full time.

"Capital expenditures appropriated for 1937 amounted to 100 million dollars, of which about 75 million ha been spent and 25 million will be spent in 1938, plus the usual tool expenditures, amounting to an additional 20 million dollars. The expansion was provided to take care of the shorter work week agreed to with labor and in the expectation of business equal to 1937.

"The corporation's policy is to keep the maximum number of people working consistent with the demand for its product. Sharing of the work is practiced down as far as 24 hours per week when demand is low, and 40 hours per week is the standard work week when demand is normal. The corporation employs no child labor.

Sales Decline Rapidly.

"The present situation, necessitating a reduction in the working force, is about as follows: Sales in 1937 were excellent both on new and used cars, and despite the handicap of the strikes were at a point where it looked as if 1936 figures would be reached or bettered. Consequently, the factory schedules were set to equal the last quarter of 1936 and employment arranged accordingly on a forty hour week basis.

"October and November retail deliveries in the United States were 225,109 new General Motors cars, against 199,630 in 1936, and 379,657 used cars, against 357,124 in 1936. During the last ten day period in November, however, the total dropped to 70 per cent of 1936.

"We still hoped that this would be the low point and expected to keep the men working, on shortened hours, but when the second period in December showed a drop to 45 per cent of 1936 it became necessary to adjust the working force, which was done by retaining all the men we could take care of on a 24 hour basis and laying off the balance."

Tells Business Ills

STUDY TEN YEAR PLAN TO BUILD SUPERHIGHWAYS

A ten year plan for construction of eight superhighways in Chicago, financed from current revenue by local and state governments, and possibly the federal government, was discussed yesterday by a citizens' committee headed by Robert Kingery, secretary of the Chicago Regional Planning association, at a luncheon at the Chicago Bar association.

The ten year plan was suggested because of legal difficulties of floating bond issues which local governments now face. Most of them are bonded to their constitutional limit, with the exception of the county, which because of the constitutional limit on its tax rate would have difficulty in levying taxes to service additional bonds.

The superhighways being studied would consist of seven radial routes, two to the west and one each to the southeast, south, southwest, northwest and north, and a belt or distributor circling the central business district.

ASK HOUSE QUIZ ON SOL BLOOM'S PATRIOTIC WAYS

Racket Charge Hurled by Congress Colleague.

the sesquicentennial commission, there have been brought to light two features worthy of comment," Tobey continued. "The first concerns the painting, 'We, the People,' by Artist Christy. It is reported that Mr. Solomon, Tammany leader of Harlem, was given opportunity to make a little money from royalties derived from the use of copies of this official painting.

"The painting was purchased by Solomon for $1,400 and copyrighted by him. Two corporations were formed who offered sale of the rights of the painting to stores and manufacturers and others who were interested.

"In addition, one of these corporations offered a full list of sesquicentennial merchandise, including letherbound copies of Mr. Bloom's 'Story of the Constitution,' flags, desk sets, picture albums and various articles which could be sold during the sesquicentennial celebration.

Describes Promotion Methods.

"A catalog was sent out with the statement that all merchandise was authorized and approved by the commission. There was added the injunction in glowing terms, 'Sell the constitution.' The slogan offered was 'Patriotic participation presents profitable promotion possibilities.'

"The second feature is that one Mr. Schenker [Joel Schenker, playwrighting Tammany politician], submitted to Mr. Bloom plans for educating the school children about the constitution. He suggested the building of metal shrines displaying facsimilies of the constitution, and the scheme was worked out to sell these shrines to schools throughout the country for $25 each. The investigation indicates that $2.50 from each sale went to Messrs. Hines [James J. Hines], Tammany leader, and Schenker.

"To me there is much that is reprehensible in the whole matter. The constitution has been used to cloak a racket and if the house does not look into the matter and satisfy itself as to the truth or falsity of these allegations, I and the members of the house are guilty of being accessories after the fact."

BARE TAMMANY PROFITS

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Hundreds of constitutional shrines at $25 each and numerous books, flags and desk sets bearing patriotic insignia have been sold by Tammany henchmen through the United States sesquicentennial commission, of which Congressman Sol Bloom, New York Democrat, is director general and President Roosevelt is a member. Sponsors of the selling campaign hope to make a profit running into hundreds of thousands of dollars

The commission was formed by congress in 1935 to commemorate the signing of the constitution by the founding fathers. To date the commission has spent about $300,000 from the United States treasury, and Mr. Bloom has his hat out for another appropriation. There is belief in some quarters that Bloom has received more advertising than George Washington.

Tammany Leaders Involved.

Two Tammany leaders who figure in the sale of paraphernalia are James J. Hines, chief dispenser of federal patronage in Manhattan, and William Solomon, Democratic leader in Harlem. By a coincidence the territories under Hines and Solomon make up the district in which Bloom has been elected to congress since 1923.

The constitutional shrines consist of three swinging bulletin boards, bearing the constitution and declaration of independence, attached to a 6 foot pillar. They go best in schools and libraries, although Bloom and his associates are willing to sell them anywhere. The shrines are manufactured by Seal, Inc., located at Shelton, Conn.

$5 Spread in Price.

T. H. Kreuger, president of Seal, Inc., said at his office today that the sesquicentennial commission purchases these shrines from the company for $20 each and sells them for $25. Somewhere in this spread of five dollars is a commission, the amount of which Kreuger refused to divulge.

The commissions on sales, according to Kreuger, go to one Joel Schenker, a member of the firm of Hines & Schenker, a metal equipment sales concern. The Hines referred to is Eugene Hines, son of the Tammany leader. Schenker is an enrolled Democrat and lives in Bloom's congressional district.

Solomon's part in the sesquicentennial observance centers about a picture of the signing of the constitution, done by the artist, Howard Chandler Christy. The commission asked Christy to do the painting, according to Solomon's story, and then discovered that it had no authority to pay for it. Solomon then bought the work for a sum reported to be $1,400.

Denies Making Profit.

"I bought it for the commission's use," declared Solomon. "I haven't made a nickel in royalties out of it."

Copies of the Christy painting, "We, the People," for which Solomon holds the sole rights, have appeared on millions of pieces of merchandise, including the front cover of Bloom's pamphlet, "The Story of the Constitution," which has been selling at 10 and 15 cents per copy in enormous numbers. Bloom claims the pamphlet is selling in its third million. He franked hundreds of them to his New York constituents and got a bill passed to supply 2,000 copies for each senator and representative.

The Christy insignia also appears on flags, desk sets, balloons, jewelry, book ends, and other articles which are sold through the Sesquicentennial Merchandise corporation, headed by one Joseph Friendman. The corporation distributes a catalog bearing the President's sesquicentennial proclamation on the front cover, asking stores to be patriotic and buy its wares.

Christy also has done a portrait of Sol Bloom.

Inquiry Demanded

Representative Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire (left) yesterday asked the house to investigate activities of Congressman Sol Bloom (D., N. Y.) (right) as director general of the United States constitution sesquicentennial commission. He charged the institution had been used to cloak a racket.

COCKY BANDITS MAKE A DATE; THEY'LL KEEP IT

One of the bandits was very cocky the morning of Dec. 23, when a dress shop at 4811 North Damen avenue was robbed. While his pal took $113 from the till and stole several dresses worth $250, he turned to the clerk, Miss Mabel Greiner, and remarked:

The robbers fled in a car. A passerby, noting the pile of dresses, took down the automobile license number, which was traced to Thomas David Rix, 2944 Mildred avenue. Rix had fled. Warnings issued by Chicago police resulted in the arrest of two men yesterday at Waverly, Miss., who had been picked up while transporting a lot of dresses in an automobile.

The men were Rix and a companion, Charles Ickes. They were identified through finger prints as police characters, and Miss Greiner identified their photographs as those of the bandits.

They will be returned to Chicago and appear at the police showup a week from Sunday.

Court Refuses to Pardon Curtis in Lindbergh Hoax

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Court of Pardons refused today to clear the record of John Hughes Curtis by granting him a pardon. Curtis was convicted of claiming falsely that he was in contact with the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. in 1932. Except for Curtis' reputation, the court's action is academic, since he has paid a $1,000 fine and his suspended sentence of a year in jail has expired.

JUDGE FINDS EVIDENCE IS LACKING IN PASTOR'S $25,000 SLANDER SUIT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Circuit Judge William B. Brown directed a verdict of no cause for action today in the $25,000 slander suit which William J. Van Vliet, former Kalamazoo, Mich., pastor, brought against twenty members of the Chicago synod of the Reformed Church of America.

Van Vliet asked damages for statements he alleged were made against him when he sought reinstatement in the church after having been removed from the pulpit of the Fourth Reformed church in Kalamazoo for misconduct. Judge Brown directed the verdict after Defense Counsel Jay W. Linsey argued that Van Vliet had failed to show evidence of malice.

TAUNT LEWIS IN FILIBUSTER OVER ANTI-LYNCH BILL

Senator's Proposal Brings Southern Protests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—An apparently determined filibuster against the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill opened in the senate today with much mirthful twitting of Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] about efforts of the proponents to exclude gangster and labor violence from the penalties of the measure.

The bill makes lynching a federal offense and provides punishment of not more than five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for any peace officer who fails to protect a prisoner from a mob. It also contains a provision under which the relative of a lynching victim could recover from $2,000 to $10,000 from the governmental subdivision in which a mob operated. A mob is defined as three or more persons.

Sees Reflection on Chicago.

Lewis offered an amendment to strike out a provision of the bill which specifically exempts labor violence and lawbreakers designated as gangsters and racketeers. Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] and Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], co-authors of the measure, had agreed that this specific exemption was superfluous because the bill was drafted in such a manner as to exclude gangster and labor violence, anyway.

Senator Lewis wanted the provision out because, he said, "It reflects upon the city of Chicago." He said his amendment was both desired and consented to by Senator Wagner on information from sources.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], field marshal of the filibustering southerners, told Senator Lewis that there was nothing in the provision of which he complained that would reflect upon Chicago unless he numbered among his constituents a great many gangsters and racketeers.

Asks for an Unmasking.

"I care not who is influencing the senator from New York and the senator from Indiana, but the senator from Illinois ought to unmask himself legislatively," said Connally. "He ought to tell us who it is who can pull a string in some dark chamber and immediately have the senator from Illinois pop up in his place to modify the bill without knowing the names of the individuals who thus exert this potent, insidious and, let me say, dangerous influence on the senator from Illinois.

"What form of death ray is it—death ray to sincerity of purpose—when some one in a chamber somewhere, by calling up the senator from New York and telling him, like a mannikin, to express to the senator from Illinois the wishes of these gentlemen, and then the senator from Illinois, by one degree still removed from the source of the power, like another mannikin, leaps to his feet on the floor of the senate and offers to emasculate the bill without debate?"

Norris and Barkley Perturbed.

Senators George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] and Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], the Democratic leader, were horrified by Lewis' suggestion that the protection for labor mobs be removed.

"It would be a sad mistake, in my judgment, if we should enact this measure and find afterward that we had made it impossible for an organization of labor men to strike without being subjected to the penalties of the law which it is provided shall be inflicted upon a mob," said Norris.

At this suggestion Lewis then modified the amendment to exclude only labor violence.

"The purpose of this amendment," said Senator Lewis, "is to strike this provision out so that we may leave it to the jurisdictional power of the sovereign state of Illinois and her peace officers at Chicago, if it be at Chicago, to take care of themselves under the law. It reflects on the city of Chicago."

Many Devices Employed.

There was much taunting of Senator Lewis about his solicitude for the sovereignty of Illinois and the capacity of the state to deal with its own law violators while supporting a measure to extend federal authority into southern states.

The southern senators employed all the devices of a determined filibuster such as frequent demands for quorum calls, roll calls, and other dilatory tactics. There had been reports that the southerners would not make a serious effort to prevent passage of the bill, but the situation apparently has changed. Some of them believe that by prolonging the discussion they can force the leaders to lay the bill aside for other pressing business. About sixty-five senators favor the measure, which is similar to one passed by the house last year.

ENVOY SHAKEUP GIVEN APPROVAL OF WHITE HOUSE

Davies Is Scheduled for Brussels Post.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Over White House luncheon teacups with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Undersecretary Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt this afternoon put his seal of approval on the long expected shakeup in the American diplomatic ranks.

Within a few days the following recommendations will go to the senate:

Transfer of Joseph Davies, ambassador to Russia, to Brussels to assume the ambassadorship to Belgium.

Appointment of Joseph P. Kennedy, former head of the securities and exchange commission and now head of the maritime commission, to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Armour Going to Chile.

Transfer of Norman H. Armour, now minister to Canada, to be ambassador to Chile.

Appointment of Assistant Secretary of State Hugh Wilson to be ambassador to Germany.

No action was taken on the posts at Paris and Rome. It had been reported that William Bullitt, ambassador to France, would be asked to accept a post in the state department and that his place would be taken by former Undersecretary of State William Phillips, who is now ambassador to Italy.

The replacement of Hugh Gibson in Belgium was seen as strengthening reports of the impending change at Paris and Rome. Mr. Gibson, able veteran career man, would be acceptable to Italy. The state department dodged confirmation of the reports by hinting that Gibson will resign, although he is but 54 years old and in excellent health.

Find Moscow Life Dull.

The confirmation of the transfer of Ambassador Davies, apostle of the "simple life," from soviet Russia was no surprise to friends here. Mr. Davies, wealthy lawyer, and his wealthier wife, the former Marjorie Post Hutton, one of the ten wealthiest women in the country, found Moscow boring because of the lack of social life there.

When Ambassador Davies heard that Robert Worth Bingham, late ambassador to London, and William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, were planning to resign a few weeks back, he raced home to put in a bid for either post. He arrived too late.

Neither the White House nor the state department has yet been able to find a successor to Mr. Davies at Moscow.

Dodd Reaches U. S.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—William E. Dodds, retiring United States ambassador to Germany, declared upon his return tonight that he doubted if any American envoy who held his ideals of democracy could successfully represent his country among the Germans at the present time. He returned on the United States liner Washington.

Met by reporters, the ambassador responded to their questions by handing out a prepared statement, notable for its careful wording. It was a strong indictment of countries where, he declared, a new order of government had arisen and freedom had ceased to exist.

He said war would be a logical outcome of the vast armament programs now in effect in the world.

DEFEATED TAMMANY CANDIDATE ADVOCATES DESTRUCTION OF HALL

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Jeremiah T. Maloney, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for mayor of New York in last November's election, tonight advocated the utter smashing of historic Tammany Hall, of which he long has been an outstanding member.

He said the Democratic party of the borough of Manhattan, headed up by Tammany for a century and a half, must be reorganized under a new name, new rules, and new leadership because the word Tammany has become a national symbol for all that is crooked, slimy, unpatriotic, and sinister in politics in any machine-ridden city.

The suddenness of the attack by Mahoney, a former state Supreme court justice, was surprising and led to quick speculation as to whether other and perhaps higher Democratic leaders had encouraged him to take the step.

NEBRASKA FARMERS OPPOSE COMPULSORY CROP CONTROL BILL

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Nebraska farm revolt against compulsory crop control spread today. A nonpartisan meeting at Weeping Water, in Cass county, south of Omaha, voted 242 to 42 against compulsory features of proposed federal farm legislation. A show of hands revealed that more than a majority of them wanted no farm bill at all.

Carl Tefft of Avoca, Republican county chairman, was chairman of the meeting and Marvin Carr, Democratic county chairman, was secretary. They announced the vote.

Similar meetings will be conducted at Malmo, in Cass county; Fullerton, Nance county, and Syracuse, Otoe county. A meeting is scheduled Saturday at Palmyra, Otoe county.

Police Asked to Search for Magazine Editor

Police were asked last night to search for Artford B. Carson, 56 years old, former newspaper man and trade magazine editor, who disappeared yesterday morning from his home at 7200 Princeton avenue. Mr. Carson has been suffering from a nervous ailment for several months.

COUNTY REHIRES EXPERT TO STOP HOSPITAL WASTE

At the insistence of the five Republican members from the country town districts, the county board yesterday acted to employ Anton C. Negri, business management expert, for an additional year's service as adviser on the administration of the County hospital and other county institutions.

Mr. Negri was employed last year at a fee of $25,000, out of which he paid his own staf. Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell, one of the Republicans, credited him with having saved approximately $150,000 at the hospital. Commissioner William N. Erickson charged that many hospital employés feel that they can resume former wasteful habits once Mr. Negri's employment ends.

Van Nuys Opposed by Ft. Wayne Lawyer for Senate

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Samuel D. Jackson, 42 years old, Fort Wayne attorney, tonight announced he would oppose Senator Frederick Van Nuys for renomination to the United States senate in the Democratic state convention next June. Van Nuys was one of the most vigorous foes of the President's Supreme court reorganization program.

ASKS CONGRESS TO LEAD WAY TO BUDGET BALANCE

Ohioan Says Roosevelt Plan Is Failure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—As the house today began the long grind of appropriating seven billion dollars to finance the government in the next fiscal year there were unmistakable signs that part of the big Democratic majority is moving away from President Roosevelt in the direction of balancing the budget.

The first bill taken up today provided for an appropriation of approximately one and one-half billion dollars to carry on the independent offices, including various federal commissions and the Tennessee Valley authority.

Responsibility with Congress.

Representative Arthur P. Lamneck [D., O.] sounded the keynote for dissatisfied Democrats with a speech in which he insisted that the responsibility was upon congress to meet the country's problems. Congress has too long depended upon the President for a program, he said.

"For approximately five years congress has yielded a leadership that rightfully belongs to it to other hands and that leadership has failed in many major respects," he said. "I make that statement with the deepest regret. I am a Democrat and I followed that leadership until it departed from the tried and true principles upon which our government was founded. I still am a Democrat, but first of all I am an American citizen."

"Need Balanced Budget."

"The outstanding need of the country is to balance the budget," Lamneck continued.

"This can be done, and it is the duty of this congress to see that it is done. Unless this congress takes this situation in hand fearlessly the nation probably will wind up with a larger deficit than the 949 millions indicated in the President's message.

"The budget can be balanced by two methods. The first and most needed and most promising one is to so encourage business by giving it definite assurances of fair treatment that incomes will increase rapidly and bring more money into the treasury. The other is to slash expenditures to the bone."

Strife Laid to Labor Board.

He assailed the national labor relations board and predicted that an inquiry would develop astounding revelations as to the lengths to which the board has gone to foment industrial strife in the country.

The outstanding reduction in the office appropriations bill was $123,669,000 in the appropriation for the Civilian Conservation corps. CCC camps are to be cut from 1,600 to 1,200 in the next fiscal year. This reduction was more than offset by increases of 70 millions for the social security board and other increases.

PROFIT SHARING SURVEY SOUGHT BY VANDENBERG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], who contends that the government's tax policy should be used to encourage and reward desirable business methods, and not to punish, today introduced a senate resolution calling for an investigation of all existing systems under which profits are shared with employés. The resolution was referred to the committee on finance, of which Senator Vandenberg is a member.

The proposed investigation would be conducted with a view [a] to the preparation of an authentic record of experience which may be consulted by employers who are interested in voluntarily establishing profit sharing plans, [b] to the consideration of what advisable contribution, if any, may be made to the encouragement of profit sharing by the federal government, including the grant of compensatory tax exemptions and tax rewards when profit sharing voluntarily is established, and [c] to the consideration of any other recommendations which may prove desirable in pursuit of these objectives.

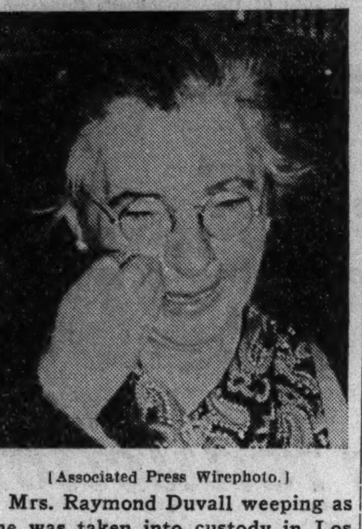
Cook Beats Actress

FAY WRAY.



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Raymond Duvall weeping as she was taken into custody in Los Angeles on a charge of beating her employer.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Raymonde Duvall, 57 years old, a cook in the home of Fay Wray, movie actress, ran amok today and beat Miss Wray and Ethel Jackson, a nursemaid. After 30 minutes of terrorism the cook was arrested by police on a charge of drunkenness.

The trouble started shortly before noon when Miss Wray decided to discharge the cook and wrote out a check for her salary, said an agent of the actress.

"The cook took the check," said the agent, "and lunged at Miss Wray, saying, 'Do you want to take a good licking?'"

The actress dashed upstairs to ask Miss Jackson to get the star's daughter, Susan, sleeping in a crib in the yard, preparatory to fleeing the enraged cook. The cook seized the actress and the nursemaid as they were fleeing, police said.

AUTO KILLS MAN OF 74 YEARS.

BOOST SUMNERS FOR VACANCY ON SUPREME COURT

House Committee Sends Petition to President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The name of Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, was proposed today by fellow members of his committee as successor to Associate Justice George Sutherland of the United States Supreme court, who yesterday announced he will retire Jan. 18.

Hatton W. Sumners.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The members of the committee, in the absence of Chairman Sumners, drafted and sent to President Roosevelt a letter strongly indorsing the Texan, who is 63 years old, for the post. Some smiled broadly as they scratched their names on the petition, recalling that Sumners, in a militant speech to the house in the closing days of the prolonged regular session last summer, gave the death blow to Mr. Roosevelt's court packing plan.

Sumners' Qualities Recited.

In asking consideration for Chairman Sumners in making the new court appointment, members of the committee said:

"In so doing we bespeak your thought upon his ability, his achievements, his records in both private practice and public service, his poise, judicial temperament, erudition, clarity, brilliance, and broad humanity."

The White House had no public comment on the petition. Privately it was made clear that Sumners had about as much chance of being appointed as D. C. Stephenson, once powerful Ku Klux Klan leader of Indiana, who is now in prison.

Status Question Raised.

The petition was sent to the White House as Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged Justice Sutherland's resignation in a letter which was construed as acknowledging the contention that retired justices retain their status as members of the court. The President's letter invited the justice to the dinner for the Supreme court at the White House Jan. 20, two days after Justice Sutherland retires. The question has been raised in challenges to the seating of Justice Hugo Black, Alabama Klansman.

As the capital speculated on the probable successor to Justice Sutherland it was announced that Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, regarded one of the leading candidates for the post, was to be a White House luncheon guest tomorrow. It was said, however, that the appointment had been made several days ago before it was known that there would be another vacancy in the court.

FRANK ACCEPTS LEADERSHIP OF G.O.P. COMMITTEE

Sees National Action Plan as His Task.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, tonight accepted the chairmanship of the Republican party's committee of 150 on policy.

In a telegram of acceptance to John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, Frank said he was accepting the post without any prior obligation to groups within the party and called for nonpartisan coöperation to relieve grave social and economic difficulties now confronting the nation. The message was sent from Chicago, where he is editor of the magazine Rural Progress.

Outlines Committee Policy.

Frank, who is considered a potential Republican dark horse in 1940, said that it will not be the business of the committee to promote the candidacy of anybody for any office or to write platforms for the 1938 congressional and the 1940 presidential campaign.

"As I sense the spirit of the members who already have written to me," he said, "this commission will not be an agency of petty fault finding or vindictive attack.

"It will seek to play its full part in a sincere, open-minded responsible search for the principles and lines of national action that will keep America a growing concern—with its business, its industry, and its agriculture ministering effectively to the human needs of the whole people—and insure a way of life congenial to the American spirit."

In Keeping with Spirit.

In reply Hamilton wired that the high purpose with which Frank accepted the chairmanship of the committee was in keeping with the spirit which prompted his selection and was in accord with the earnest desire to serve the party expressed by the 150 men and women who will serve on the committee.

The offer of the post to Frank last month was hailed as a wise step by party leaders. When Frank took over the conduct of the University of Wisconsin he was considered a dangerous radical within his party. In conflict with Roosevelt policies, as practiced in Wisconsin by the La Follettes, Frank was ousted from his post. The clash revealed him as a true liberal, according to party leaders.

WISCONSIN BAR DEFENDS GEIGER IN JURY DISPUTE

15 Page Letter Sent to House Committee.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The text of a communication to the house judiciary committee in Washington in defense of the action of Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger in recently discharging a federal grand jury investigating unfair trade practices of three big automobile manufacturing companies and affiliated finance companies, was released here today.

The communication was prepared by committees of the Wisconsin and the Milwaukee Bar associations. It contends the Milwaukee jurist was within his rights in discharging the jury when he learned the department of justice was negotiating consent decrees with the automobile concerns at the time the jury was making its investigation.

Cummings Takes Action.

Attorney General Homer Cummings insists that the Milwaukee judge had been guilty of "arbitrary" and "unfair" conduct which obstructed administration of justice, and asked that the house judiciary committee consider the evidence and "initiate impeachment proceedings against him."

"Far from being an obstruction of justice, Judge Geiger's ruling was plainly in furtherance of justice," the Wisconsin document said.

The contribution of the Wisconsin lawyers to the investigation which the house committee began informally today is a fifteen page communication. It goes extensively into the circumstances which caused the Milwaukee judge to discharge the grand jury.

"By enlisting the jury in his efforts to force a deal the prosecutor disabled it from discharging its duties," said the bar statement.

Points to Question at Issue.

"The question of the guilt or innocence of the persons under investigation or the propriety of their practices was not involved in the court's ruling," the letter said. "The question at issue was the propriety of the conduct of the assistants to the attorney general.

"The attitude of the judge was not to prevent relief, either criminal or civil. His definite attitude was that he would not permit the court to be made a party to a deal wherein alleged law violators would be released from criminal responsibility upon compliance with stipulated conditions; whereby an arm of the court would be used as a means of compelling compliance with these conditions and whereby criminal processes of the court would be abused."

The bar letter disputes the attorney general's statement that the department of justice canceled all conferences on learning of Judge Geiger's position.

Tells of Various Letters.

"The department was informed of the court's position on Nov. 22, the statement said. "A letter from the department shows that on Nov. 29 a renewal of discussions was invited from a manufacturer who had withdrawn from the conferences. Two of the companies wrote the department of justice Dec. 6 refusing consent to the proposed decree and it was on the evening of Dec. 7 that the department wired the companies canceling further negotiations."

The Wisconsin letter then reminded the house committee that it is the duty of the court to see that proceedings before it be kept above suspicion.

A MAE WEST DANCES BIG APPLE AND CASEY WALTZES OUT OF COURT

Casey Jones, 67 years old, colored minstrel man of 3235 South State street, depended on his four educated chickens to free him of charges of disorderly conduct and cruelty to animals yesterday, and they did. Appearing before Judge Samuel Heller in the Chicago avenue Municipal court, Jones turned to his chickens and told them to show the court what they could do.

"Your honor, I raised these chickens myself, and I love them and am kind to them. I taught them all their tricks," Jones said.

Whereupon Mae West, as he calls one of his hens, danced the Big Apple and trucked and strutted before the court. The others [Good Looking Lady, her son, Baby Lady, and another rooster, Gold Mine] joined in the performance, hopping over bars and through hoops, wiggling their toes, and fluttering their feathers to swing rhythm from Jones' harmonica. They had spent the night in a cell with their master after he was arrested at Clark street and Diversey parkway by Hudson avenue police.

LEWIS SUGGESTS COMMUNISM AS WORTH A TRIAL

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 6.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, in an interview here today criticized business and governmental leadership and suggested "perhaps it is time something else is tried."

"I cannot say what may happen," he said, "but I do know that some people have found they could live happily, successfully, in a communal form in which the whole and not just a few were given consideration."

He did not elaborate on this statement, which he made after declaring "democracy is on trial today in this country, as it is over the whole world."

Prevent Spread of Fire to Temple Isaiah Israel

Firemen early today successfully prevented a spread of fire from the community house to Temple Isaiah Israel, 5035 Greenwood avenue. The fire started from unknown causes in the basement of the community house. It was discovered by Erwin Wahl, the janitor. Wahl was trapped by smoke on the third floor and was carried down ladders to safety.

Progress
Must Go On

This has been an era of great improvements in railroad service. Such improvements as streamline trains, air-conditioned travel, new power, high-speed schedules, pickup and delivery of package freight.

Progress must continue. Railroads need to give better service today than yesterday, still better service tomorrow than today.

It takes research, invention and determination to make continued improvements. These the railroads have.

Three things more are needed. One is adequate rates. Another is patronage. The other is freedom from handicaps. These the public must provide.

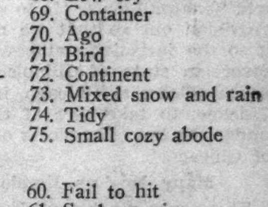
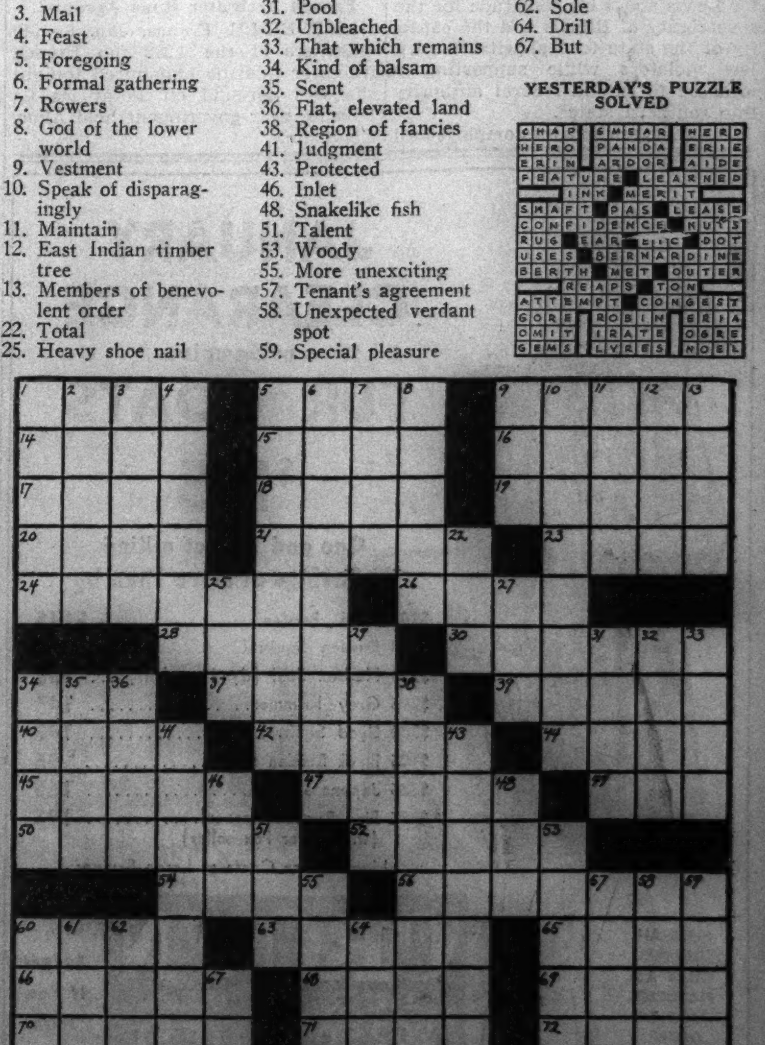
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





JURY DISCLAIMS CRIME CHARGES OF EX-FOREMAN

Makes Its Own Raids in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The long awaited report of a Hennepin county grand jury was made today at the conclusion of two months' inquiry into crime and labor conditions.

It virtually whitewashed the city of charges made by the jury's erstwhile foreman that crime is rampant in Minneapolis, and that public officials are doing nothing about it.

A few hours before the findings were made public, six members of the jury led early morning raids on nine liquor clubs and brothels. They found seven of the places closed. Although the jury's report commended authorities on their coöperation, the present jury foreman, Val Ness, expressed the opinion the closed places were tipped off either by policemen, sherif's deputies, or grand jurymen.

Reject $100,000 for Inquiry.

As the jury disbanded it was revealed it had voted down a challenge by its ousted foreman, Peter F. Herrly, to sponsor a sweeping independent prosecutor's investigation of conditions here. Herrly offered to raise $100,000 to defray the cost of such an inquiry, but the jury would have none of it.

Herrly, who was ousted as head of the jury two weeks ago when he made public his sensational charges, rose in court when the report was brought in today and told Judge Levi M. Hall that he dissented. He declared he had been refused the privilege of so stating in the report itself.

The spirited Herrly, a fuel company executive, continued steadfast in his earlier statement that other members of the jury had subscribed to the report he made public Dec. 22 and then got cold feet and ran out when the heat went on.

Report Assails Herrly.

The jury's report specifically disclaimed Herrly's statements about Minneapolis night life and official laxity. In fact, it spent more than half of its nearly 2,000 word statement criticizing Herrly, praising public officials for coöperation, and making introductory remarks.

Although Attorney General Homer Cummings once called this city a "breeding place of crime," the grand jury found no evidence during its two months' work of any law violations that would warant recommendations for indictments.

It did call for uniform liquor closing laws, a larger police force, periodic changes in the police morals squad, and revocation of licenses of any place where gambling paraphernalia is found.

The report mentioned, in passing over the labor trouble, the killing of Patrick J. Corcoran, prominent labor leader, on Nov. 17. The grand jury quiz grew out of this wanton and still unsolved slaying, but it had no recommendation to make in the matter.

Blames Both Sides.

Taking up the labor problem the jury came to the conclusion that both employers and workers were responsible for controversies. However, it did have a suggestion here.

"We are convinced that if you could eliminate the undesirable elements who are interested in keeping these controversies alive, both on the side of the employer and employé, that they could by coöperation solve their controversies amicably," the jury opined.

As to gambling operations, which Herrly had charged were widespread, the jurors limited themselves to one paragraph. They said:

"The grand jury recommends that the city council pass an ordinance revoking the license of any licensed business that permits gambling paraphernalia."

The jury admitted it had fallen down on its liquor investigations. It explained: "Although we have made every effort, assisted by the police, to get witnesses involved in these cases, we have not been able to do so."

Mayor Praises Report.

Mayor George E. Leach praised the report. He said: "That is the most consistent and intelligent grand jury report I have seen in the nine years I have served Minneapolis as mayor." But he emphatically resented the implication of Foreman Ness that a policeman might have tipped off the places raided this morning.

Despite his argument that policemen didn't know where they were going until they were on their way in the raids, it was learned from employés of several places that they had been sent home shortly after midnight when telephone calls told proprietors that raids were to be made.

Ten policemen and twenty deputy sherifs participated in the raids in which seven persons were arrested and liquor and gambling devices seized. More than 100 persons were found in a black and tan café with whisky bottles on tables and waiters serving setups, although it was several hours past the prescribed closing hour.

A CHAMBERMAID BY DAY AND AN HEIRESS BY NIGHT

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Helga, a young and pretty chambermaid, was tidying a suite in a fashionable midtown hotel when the room guest returned. She looked at him and gasped. He was a prominent engineer with whom she had dined the night before without revealing her menial rôle.

Her face crimson and eyes downcast, she told him her story. She was not the lady of leisure he had thought her to be. Making a dozen beds a day, changing towels, cleaning rugs, listening to guests' complaints—that was her lot.

But she couldn't keep a straight face as she related her tasks. Caught a second time, she confessed her real identity. She is Helga Gundersen, 22 years old, of Oslo, Norway, daughter of a wealthy engineer. Her chambermaid job is merely the first step in studying for a career as a hotel director. When her day's drudgery is done she retires to a costly suite in the same hotel.

VAN ZEELAND TO OFFER PROPOSALS ON WORLD TRADE

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Paul van Zeeland, former premier of Belgium, arrived in London tonight with what were said to be specific proposals for a five-power economic pact among the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy.

Such a pact was understood to be the keystone of a comprehensive program for stimulating international trade the Belgian statesman will lay before British officials tomorrow. Van Zeeland was reported ready to recommend:

1. That the five powers abolish in concert their trade quotas and restrictions on international currency movements;

2. That they establish a general gold stabilization fund to be used to prevent foreign exchange fluctuations. Each conutry would contribute a fixed percentage of its gold reserves to the fund.

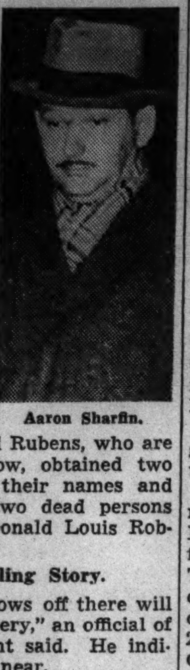
KEY MAN TELLS PASSPORT FRAUD MYSTERY STORY

Reason for Scheme Still Is Puzzling.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Identity of the key man in the Rubens-Robinson international passport mystery was revealed today after he had been held for nineteen hours by state department agents.



Aaron Sharfin.

He is Aaron Sharfin of the Bronx, an employé of the Egyptian consul.

Through him the government investigators expect to learn the whole story of the manner in which Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Arnold Rubens, who are prisoners in Moscow, obtained two passports here in their names and in the names of two dead persons as Mr. and Mrs. Donald Louis Robinson.

Expect Startling Story.

"When the lid blows off there will be a startling discovery," an official of the state department said. He indicated a break was near.

Sharfin was identified by Harry Zukerman, another of the men involved in the issuance of the Robinson and Rubens passports, as the principal in that transaction, but the investigators would not say whether Sharfin admitted this.

After hours of stubborn silence, it was learned from an authoritative source, Sharfin finally answered some questions and promised to tell more.

As a result he was released this afternoon with a subpena to return to the office of Assistant District Attorney Francis A. Mahony for another examination tomorrow.

Others to Be Quizzed.

It was understood several other persons were subpenaed and all will be put through intensive questioning.

No charge was made against Sharfin, but it was indicated there will be prosecutions for conspiracy to obtain fraudulent passports in which several persons will be involved.

Mahony refused to say anything about Sharfin's position as secretary to the Egyptian consul, which involves a third country in the international tangle caused by the imprisonment of Mr. and Mrs. Rubens.

The state department has renewed its efforts to obtain information about the couple, and particularly about Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, who has been identified definitly as Mrs. Robinson.

Wife Is an American.

The nationality and real name of her husband still are unknown to American officials, but Mrs. Rubens, a former New Yorker, is an American citizen and as such is entitled to the protection of the government.

Sharfin is of Russian extraction, but is an American citizen. He is not active in politics, but it was said he may be associated with a radical group. His motive for assisting Rubens to get passports and Rubens' motives in going to Russia under a false name remained unrevealed.

Zuckerman told the agents that he had received a number of passports from a man named Epstein and had given them to Max Schwartz, secretary of the Young Men's Democratic club, of which Zuckerman was a member.

Schwartz said he gave the passports to Abe Katz, secretary of Congressman James O'Leary. Katz took them to the office of former County Clerk Albert Marinelli, where they were certified. They were then passed back along the same chain.

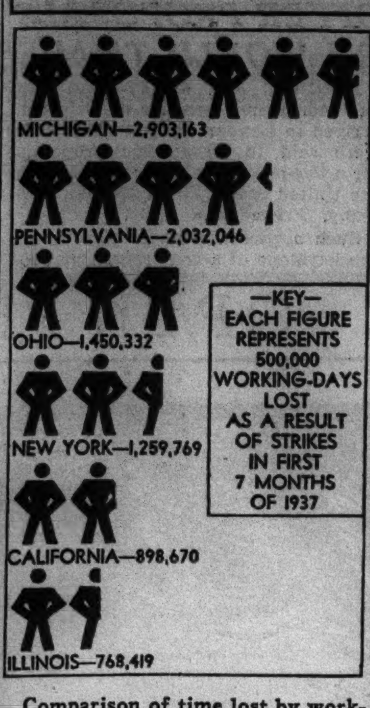
U. S. JURY FREES PIRATE SLAYERS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Unanimously voting against an indictment, the federal grand jury today freed Robert Horne and George Spernack for their part in ending the piratical career of Jack Morgan on the recent ill-fated cruise of the yacht Aafje.

The jury's verdict was returned after two days of testimony during which the federal jurors again heard of the reign of the man who killed Dwight Faulding, pirated his yacht and terrorized the six other persons aboard the vessel until he was slugged and thrown overboard by Horne and Spernack.

Following recommendation of the United States district attorney's office, United States District Judge Harry Hollzer ordered the release of Mrs. Lillian Morgan, the pirate's common law wife, who announced that she would return to her father in New Orleans. She had been held as a witness.

Days Lost in Strikes



Comparison of time lost by workmen in six states because of strikes.

Illinois workmen lost less time due to strikes in the first seven months of 1937 than those in five other leading industrial states, according to the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

In Michigan the loss of time was nearly four times as great as that in Illinois and about equal to the total for Illinois, California and New York. The loss of time in Michigan was equivalent to 2,903,163 working days compared with 768,419 in Illinois, 2,032,046 in Pennsylvania, 1,450,332 in Ohio, 1,259,769 in New York, and 898,670 in California.

RUMANIA'S DRIFT TOWARD FASCISM FEARED BY PARIS

London Also Worried Over Swing.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Rumania's fluctuating foreign policy under the new régime of Premier Octavian Goga tonight aroused growing fears in Paris and London that France's eastern European ally was leaning toward Germany and Italy.

An announcement in Rome that Rumania would recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia heightened the concern already reflected in mild British and French representations against Goga's apparent policy of anti-Semitism.

Link in French Chain.

France especially was worried about the effect of this trend toward the Rome-Berlin axis on her old alliance with Rumania, which forms a strong link in her chain of defensive arrangements in eastern Europe.

Jugo-Slavia, Rumania's eastern neighbor and another French ally, also has shown more friendliness for Italy than France likes. Shortly after the Goga cabinet took office France was reported to have halted arms shipments to Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.

Hope Flirtation Is Temporary.

London and Paris, however, hoped Rumania's apparent flirting with Premier Benito Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler only was temporary. Some sources expressed belief the need for money might drive Rumania back into the Anglo-French camp.

Goga has assured France that Rumania intends to hold firm to her old friendships, no matter how her internal policy develops. This assurance was received with some skepticism in France because of Goga's seeming efforts at the same time to gain favor with Italy and Germany.

BOY, FREED ON ZION FIRE CHARGE, HELD IN INDIANA

Thomas Griffith, 19 years old, who was held in the Waukegan jail from April to November in connection with the $600,000 fire that razed Zion tabernacle, has been arrested at Mount Vernon, Ind., on a charge of drunkenness and resisting an officer. He was freed Nov. 3 on a charge of malicious burning by a second jury, after a first had disagreed.

Chief Deputy Sherif Thomas E. Kennedy yesterday received a letter from police of Mount Vernon saying that Griffith, alias Roy Stanley, was being held and that he told "wild stories" of having wriggled out of trouble in Illinois, Arkansas, and California. Cox wanted finger prints of the former Voliva parishioner.

REJECT FRENCH PREMIER'S PLAN TO END WALKOUT

Both Sides Ask Showdown in Labor Strife.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Following the holiday lull, labor conflicts in France reached a critical point today. Both workers and employers seemed more inclined toward a general showdown on questions of principle than a settlement of existing strikes.

The reluctance of both sides to accept an arbitral decision handed down last night by Premier Camille Chautemps in a strike of Goodrich Rubber company employés was responsible for the crisis.

The Goodrich workers were dissatisfied with Chautemps' judgment because he upheld the right of the management to discharge a Russian telephone operator named Rivinov, who was accused of tapping office wires.

They objected also because their complaints over conditions under which the Bedaux system was applied in the factory were not settled directly, but were shelved for further arbitration.

Chautemps recommended that government engineers supervise application of the Bedaux system of industrial production developed by Charles E. Bedaux, an American engineer.

Employers Dissatisfied.

Striking Goodrich workers held a meeting in the municipal gymnasium late today and decided, after a tumultous session, to designate 200 of their number to begin picketing the plant doors tomorrow to prevent the entrance of workmen unwilling to participate in the strike. They claimed they have assurance from Minister of the Interior Marx Dormoy that no police will be sent.

The Goodrich management — and employers' organizations generally — were unwilling to accept Chautemps' recommendation that they refrain from firing fifty-two strike leaders and agitators.

The French General Confederation of Labor considered that the attitude of the Goodrich management involved a principle interesting labor as a whole. They charged that employers throughout the country are taking advantage of the lapsing of the 1936 labor laws to fire employés for union activities.

Asks for Labor Peace.

This afternoon the confederation announced it would place this problem officially before the government and urged the convocation of the national committee of the Popular Front to take up the question.

[The recent strikes have threatened a breach in the Popular Front government, since the communists, one of its elements, supported the strikes and the moderate Socialists and Chautemps' own Radical Socialists supported government efforts to restore industrial peace.]

Premier Chautemps, in an official communique, said that the state is ready to begin settling the labor issues on the principle of social peace. He appealed to labor and capital to agree and to hold a joint conference under the auspices of the government to work out a new labor code. Chautemps declared that he would ask parliament to give an agreement thus reached the force of law.

HAIL HAGUE FOR JERSEY CITY WAR ON COMMUNISTS

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—More than 15,000 men and women crowded the Jersey City armory tonight and roared their approval of Mayor Frank Hague's methods in stopping what he called the communist invasion of the city by the C. I. O. recently.

Mayor Hague received an ovation when he entered the hall and later when he delivered an address denouncing the C. I. O. leaders as communists and reiterating his intention of keeping all un-American Reds and radicals out of this city.

The mayor was backed up in speeches by Senator and Governor Elect A. Harry Moore, former Judge Robert Carey, an erstwhile Republican opponent of Mayor Hague's Democratic organization, and others. Representative Edward T. Hart said the meeting was not a demonstration against union labor, but a declaration that labor of Jersey City stands unitedly behind Mayor Hague to maintain law and order.

Baby Boy Finds Acid on Floor; Drinks It; Dies

The electric train which made this Christmas a happy one for his elder brother and sister brought death last night to Edward Stocking, 19 months old, in the Children's Memorial hospital. The train broke a few days after Christmas. His father, Robert, brought some acid home to 3738 Wilton avenue to use in soldering it. Edward found the bottle on the kitchen floor and drank from it that night.

MALONE LOSES APPEAL; COURT SCOFFS AT PLEA

Two Year Sentence for Tax Evasion Upheld.

Scoffing at his story about getting $700,000 to influence the 1920 presidential election, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a jury verdict convicting William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, of income tax evasion.

William H. Malone.

Malone, 60 years old, was sentenced to serve two years in Leavenworth penitentiary and to pay a fine of $5,000 by Federal Judge William H. Holly last July. He now has twenty days to file a petition for a rehearing before he may be imprisoned.

Fugitive for Three Years.

Long a prominent resident of Park Ridge and a power in Republican state politics, Malone took refuge in Europe for three years before facing the income tax indictment in 1936. He was charged with defrauding the government of $59,574 in income taxes in 1929 and 1930.

The opinion handed down by the appellate court declared that the evidence amply supported the jury's decision, and that there were no errors requiring a new trial. Judge J. Earl Major wrote the ruling with the concurrence of Judges Evan A. Evans and Walter C. Lindley.

During the trial Malone told for the first time a story that he received $700,000 from the late Col. William Procter, Cincinnati soap manufacturer, for services in behalf of the candidacy of Gen. Leonard Wood for the Republican presidential nomination in 1920. He said that $500,000 was for his work in South Dakota and $200,000 was for Cook county efforts.

Court Calls It "Sordid Secret."

"We are unable to perceive why the divulging of such a sordid secret could not have been made with as much propriety and even more, before two revenue agents in a private office in 1930, rather than before a jury and the world, a few years later," the court stated.

"It is more reasonable to conclude that the explanation now offered [relating to the $700,000] was not in existence at that time.

"The fact is, there is evidence to support the conclusion that the defendant had a rather lucrative income in connection with his membership on the tax commission. From such source, it may be concluded, he received $32,500 in 1927; $31,000 in 1928; $15,000 in 1929, and $41,000 in 1930."

Malone was asked about the court decision at his home, 201 Grand boulevard, Park Ridge.

"I don't know what to say, but I know I am absolutely innocent," he said. "I have just talked to my attorney in Washington and we will file a petition for a rehearing. Soon I will issue statements that will startle the public, if my attorneys are willing. These will show new evidence to vindicate me."

BROKER FOUND A SUICIDE IN HIS EVANSTON HOME

Ends Life with Razor; Illness Blamed.

Wife Tells of Illness.

Mrs. Freeman told the police that her husband's health had been failing for several months and for two days he had been unable to go to his office because of a cold. She said that there were no financial difficulties. No notes were found.

A coroner's physician reported that the broker had nearly decapitated himself with the razor.

Mrs. Helen Kivlin, 320 Wisconsin avenue, Freeman's secretary, said that he had been handling municipal bonds for years and that his business was in good financial condition. Walter W. Freeman Jr., his son and business partner, was at the office at the time.

Daughter in High School.

In addition to his son and widow, the broker is survived by a daughter, Miss Marilyn Freeman, 17 years old, a senior in the Evanston High school. He was a member of the Evanston Golf club. An inquest will be held today at 3154 North Clark street.

PLAN TO REFUEL PLANES IN FLIGHT PROVES SUCCESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—A new system of refueling long distance passenger airplanes in the air, devised by Sir Alan Cobham, British flyer, is being tested at Southampton by Imperial Airways, it was reported in aviation circles in London today.

So far the tests have been reported to be successful, and refueling from a flying tanker while traveling 130 miles an hour or more may become a standard practice on Great Britain's trans-Atlantic and empire services, it was said.

Details of the new system were not disclosed, but it was described as "simple, safe, and extremely fast." All the new empire boats are being equipped for the new refueling process, it was said.

Mrs. McLaughlin Uses Her Money to Repair Furnace

Judge John J. Lupe ruled yesterday that Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, and not her estranged husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, would have to repair the oil burner in their home at 1360 Old Mill road, Lake Forest, where she complained of no heat. A few hours later Mrs. McLaughlin had the furnace fixed, and last night said she was quite comfortable, except for a bad head cold. Mrs. McLaughlin is suing for divorce.

HELD TO GRAND JURY.

James Schumacher, 24 years old, arrested for the robbery of a drug store, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $2,500 bond by Judge Oscar S. Caplan in felony court.

DU PONT FIRM ACTS TO SUE AUTHOR AND PUBLISHER OF BOOK

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Notice of a libel action in behalf of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company against Ferdinand Lundberg, author of the Book, "America's Sixty Families," and the Vanguard Press, publishers, was filed in federal court today.

The complaint in the action has not been filed, but it was learned at the office of William H. Button, attorney for the plaintif, that the suit would ask damages of $150,000 for an alleged libel in the book.

The du Pont family was one of the sixty listed in the book as exerting control over American business and industry.

Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes mentioned the book in a recent speech.

BRITISH JOBLESS TOTAL UP 27 PCT. IN FOUR MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Unemployment in Great Britain increased 27 per cent in the last four months of 1937, a ministry of labor survey showed today. The increase in December was the largest ever recorded for that month.

Newspapers favorable to the government declared that the statistics—showing 1,655,407 to be jobless on Dec. 13—were inconclusive and said no cause for concern existed. The opposition press, however, took a different view and urged an immediate public works program similar to that in the United States.

The survey showed unemployment increases during the four months were: September, 30,000; October, 51,000; November, 109,000, and December, 166,000.

FORMER JUDGE'S SLAYER GUILTY; GETS 18 YEARS

Jury Out Four Hours in Chicharevich Case.

A jury last night found George L. Chicharevich guilty of the murder of former Judge Frederick W. Elliott of the Municipal court and fixed his sentence at eighteen years in prison. The jurors spent five minutes voting the killer guilty and the rest of the four hours of their deliberation determining his punishment.

Chicharevich shot Elliott to death Sept. 15 in Elliott's office at 77 West Washington street. The former judge had been one of the killer's attorneys and Chicharevich, who is 57 years old, blamed him for delay in gaining possession of a $60,000 estate left by Chicharevich's wife, eighteen years his senior, whom he married in 1934.

On the witness stand in Judge George Fred Rush's Criminal court Chicharevich repudiated a thirty-seven page unsigned confession. Reenacting the events preceding the killing, he tried to show that Elliott ordered him from the office and threatened him with a letter opener, and that Elliott was accidentally killed in a struggle over a revolver he had taken from Chicharevich's hip pocket.

Before killing Elliott, Chicharevich had gone to the office of his other attorney, George A. Mason, and stabbed Mason and two woman employés. The stabbing victims recovered.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

A CUSTOMER REGAINED

By CALEB

ALMOST thirty years ago, someone in our employ did something to offend a customer and he closed his account.

A Marshall Field man recently heard of this longstanding grievance and told our credit department. A search of our records revealed nothing as to what had gone wrong. Perhaps no executive of the store ever knew, even at the time the incident occurred. Through the failure of some individual to play his part well in this large team of ours, the customer may never have been asked to relate why his account was closed, and he may never have been invited back.

At any rate, one of our credit department executives got in touch with the man in question. He explained that he had just learned that Marshall Field & Company had somehow failed to fulfill his expectations of service more than twenty-five years ago. And although we did not know what the trouble had been at that time and therefore could not be very specific in our apologies, nevertheless, thus tardily, we were very anxious to apologize for the original occurrence and it would make us very happy to have our overture accepted in order that we might serve him once more.

The customer replied, "Mr. H——, my daughter has been born, raised, and married since I last did business with you. Nevertheless, your present action makes me feel there is something very human about your big company, and under the circumstances I will be pleased to have you re-open my account and register my daughter to buy on it."

When a customer of any large business is inconvenienced or otherwise discommoded or disappointed by a salesperson or other employe, it is a very natural thing for that customer to feel that he has been failed by the company in question. In the event that no responsible executive of the company hears of the incident, it may be that a mutually very agreeable business association will be terminated.

If, on the other hand, a responsible executive does hear of the incident, it is more than likely affairs can be adjusted and straightened out so that the offended customer can continue to enjoy the satisfactions that particular business can render—and the business can continue to enjoy serving its full and rightful quota of customers.

SCIENTISTS HOLD STETHOSCOPE ON MARY AND JOHN

What Are Their Chances of Happy Marriage?

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

What chance have Mary and John, who have been engaged for a year and a half and who expect to get married as soon as John gets out of college and gets a job, of a successful marriage?

In the language of science the integration which they have manifested during the engagement relationship forecasts the nature and degree of integration in marriage. Integration in this sense means a successful social unit.

Predicting the adjustment in marriage of engaged couples is a study now in progress by Ernest B. Burgess, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, and P. I. Wolinsky, research associate. Dr. Burgess discussed this prediction method yesterday as tentative and stimulating, subject to conclusions perhaps in three or four years.

Will Study 1,000 Couples.

On the assumption that the problems of adjustment in engagement are basically similar to those of married life, an attempt will be made, Dr. Burgess said, to compare the expectation of marital adjustment of one thousand couples, as determined before marriage, with the outcome as determined three or four years afterward. In this way the feasibility of the construction of an expectancy table of marital adjustment will be determined, something which young people may consult to get an idea of their own chances in the matrimonial lottery.

The data for the project are being obtained from engaged couples, mostly college students living in metropolitan Chicago. Eight page schedules are given them to fill out independently and Dr. Burgess hopes to get interviews with 300 couples.

The study of the process of adjustment in the engagement period involves five aspects of the person. These are given by Dr. Burgess as follows: 1—impress of cultural background; 2—psychogenetic traits; 3—life organization; 4—economic status and expectations; 5—response patterns.

Introducing Mary and John.

To translate these terms means giving practically a life history of each person. To take the case of Mary and John, which is a real case, their cultural backgrounds are different. Mary rates her family as superior and they have had disagreements on matters of social distinctions. John is patient, serious, kind, ambitious. Mary is inclined to be domineering, impatient, sensitive to criticism. They are both liberal and somewhat skeptical in religion. She loves to dance and play cards and he does not. They both want a happy family life. Mary intends to work a year or two after graduation. Love with them was a gradual process growing out of companionship.

With regard to sex, they have discussed this freely and have decided they have no right to intercourse before marriage.

The analysis of this case is that while they may disagree as to who is to be head of the family and over the social status of the fiancé's family, the mutual dependence of their fundamental personalities on each other, their ideas of life and work, and their attitude toward sex, indicate on the whole marital happiness.

Husband Must Make Progress.

The hypotheses are made in these studies that there must be agreement between the couple as to whether the woman will work after marriage, that the failure of the man after marriage to make measurable progress toward fulfilling the expectation of the woman will react adversely upon adjustment.

Other assumptions are that marriages based upon love developing out of companionship are more successful than those of romantic love; and that sexual adjustment is an important condition for happiness in marriage.

"In the majority of cases," Dr. Burgess states, "sexual desire and affection are associated in the response pattern. When, however, sexual desire becomes disassociated from the affectual component of the larger relationship, it appears to make for sexual maladjustment in engagement and in marriage, leading sooner or later to conflict if not to disintegration of the response relationship. This dissociation seems to result more frequently in women from sex shock or inhibitions, and more often in men from sexual promiscuity."

Rebound Marriages Fail.

It may be expected, he says, that marriages without love will end in unhappiness. He includes in this marriages on the rebound from broken engagements, marriages for pecuniary reasons, marriages to escape home, and marriages resulting from resignation to expectations of fiancé, family, and friends. The strength of the love may be measured by the degree in which it makes for accommodation and integration in the other aspects of the person.

COL. GUGGENHEIM AND 4TH WIFE ON HONEYMOON TRIP

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—In a ceremony performed aboard the bridegroom's yacht, Mrs. Rebecca Pollard Van Lennep, member of an old Virginia family, and Col. M. Robert Guggenheim, copper magnate of Washington, D. C., were married today.

Guggenheim gave his age as 53 and the bride gave hers as 34. It was Guggenheim's fourth marriage. He was divorced in Reno last Oct. 26 by Mrs. Elizabeth Eaton Guggenheim. When the bride obtained a divorce here Tuesday from William Van Lennep of New York and Malverne, Pa., she denied reports she would be married to Guggenheim.

After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Elisha King, rector of the Miami Beach Community church, the couple sailed aboard Guggenheim's yacht Firenze for a honeymoon cruise to California.

CHARLES OLSEN.

He was pretty tough, the swaggering 13 year old cowboy, when police found him trying to get warm in the lobby of the central station early yesterday. But when Charles Olsen went back home to Milwaukee last night with his stepfather he seemed to have lost some of his wanderlust. Clad in a sombrero, fleece lined corduroy jacket, blue scarf, high boots, and jingling spurs Charles finally admitted he had bought the outfit with $29 belonging to his mother. She said he had run away several times before, always heading for the wild west.

PAROLED BANDITS GET LONG TERMS FOR CAFE HOLDUP

Two paroled bandits who made the mistake of attempting to hold up a restaurant in which a policeman was eating his lunch were sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in the Criminal court yesterday. Anthony Pangonis, 24 years old, who was wounded in an exchange of shots with Lieut. Joseph Beronsky, got four terms of one year to life, to run concurrently. John Jenisch, 24 years old, was sentenced to twenty years as an habitual criminal. Both men were sent to prison for attempted robbery in 1934 and were paroled last April. Lieut. Beronsky made the capture Nov. 23 in a restaurant near the Hyde Park police station.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Julius Leavitt, robbery, sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary under the habitual criminal act; Eddie Rubin and Morris Kreitzman, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Florsheim Gives Inhalator to Libertyville Firemen

In appreciation of the services of the Libertyville fire department following an explosion and fire at Red Top farm, south of Libertyville, July 16, 1936, Irving A. Florsheim, president of the Florsheim Shoe company, yesterday presented the department with the latest type inhalator and resuscitator. The gift was accepted by Chief Edward Schneider. The explosion, caused by a faulty electric motor in a pump house, severely burned Florsheim and two employés.

SENATOR FALLS OUT OF CHAIR AS HE'S PRESIDING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Senator H. C. Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] became today perhaps the first man ever to fall out of the presiding officer's chair in the senate.

Sitting in the chair temporarily and leaning too far backward, he toppled over with a crash. Senator R. R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], who was speaking against the anti-lynching bill, paused and said:

"I'm sorry if I have disturbed the gentleman."

"The gentleman should not be so eloquent," Lodge replied, hastily regaining his feet.

WEIGH CHANGES TODAY IN JUNIOR COLLEGE STAFS

Plans to improve the faculties of the city's three junior colleges—Wilson, Herzl, and Wright—will be discussed at a meeting today of a committee of educators from the University of Illinois and the state department of instruction with Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson.

Dr. Johnson said the committee members have recommended that selection of instructors should not be restricted to teachers in the public school system, but should be open to all accredited teachers. The committee, he said, also was critical of the fact that 40 per cent of the present instructors are graduates of the University of Chicago, with other colleges haveing less representation.

5 POLLS JUDGES FINED $168; JAIL TERMS REVERSED

In accordance with a recent decision of the Illinois Appellate court, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of County court yesterday imposed total fines of $168 on five election judges convicted of fraud. The higher court reversed jail sentences totaling four years. Those fined were Joseph Wolf and James Foley, Democratic judges of the 22d precinct of the 4th ward, and Anderson Williams, colored, Democratic judge; William Wheeler, colored, and Mrs. Elizabeth Sockel, Republican judges of the 37th precinct of the 20th ward.

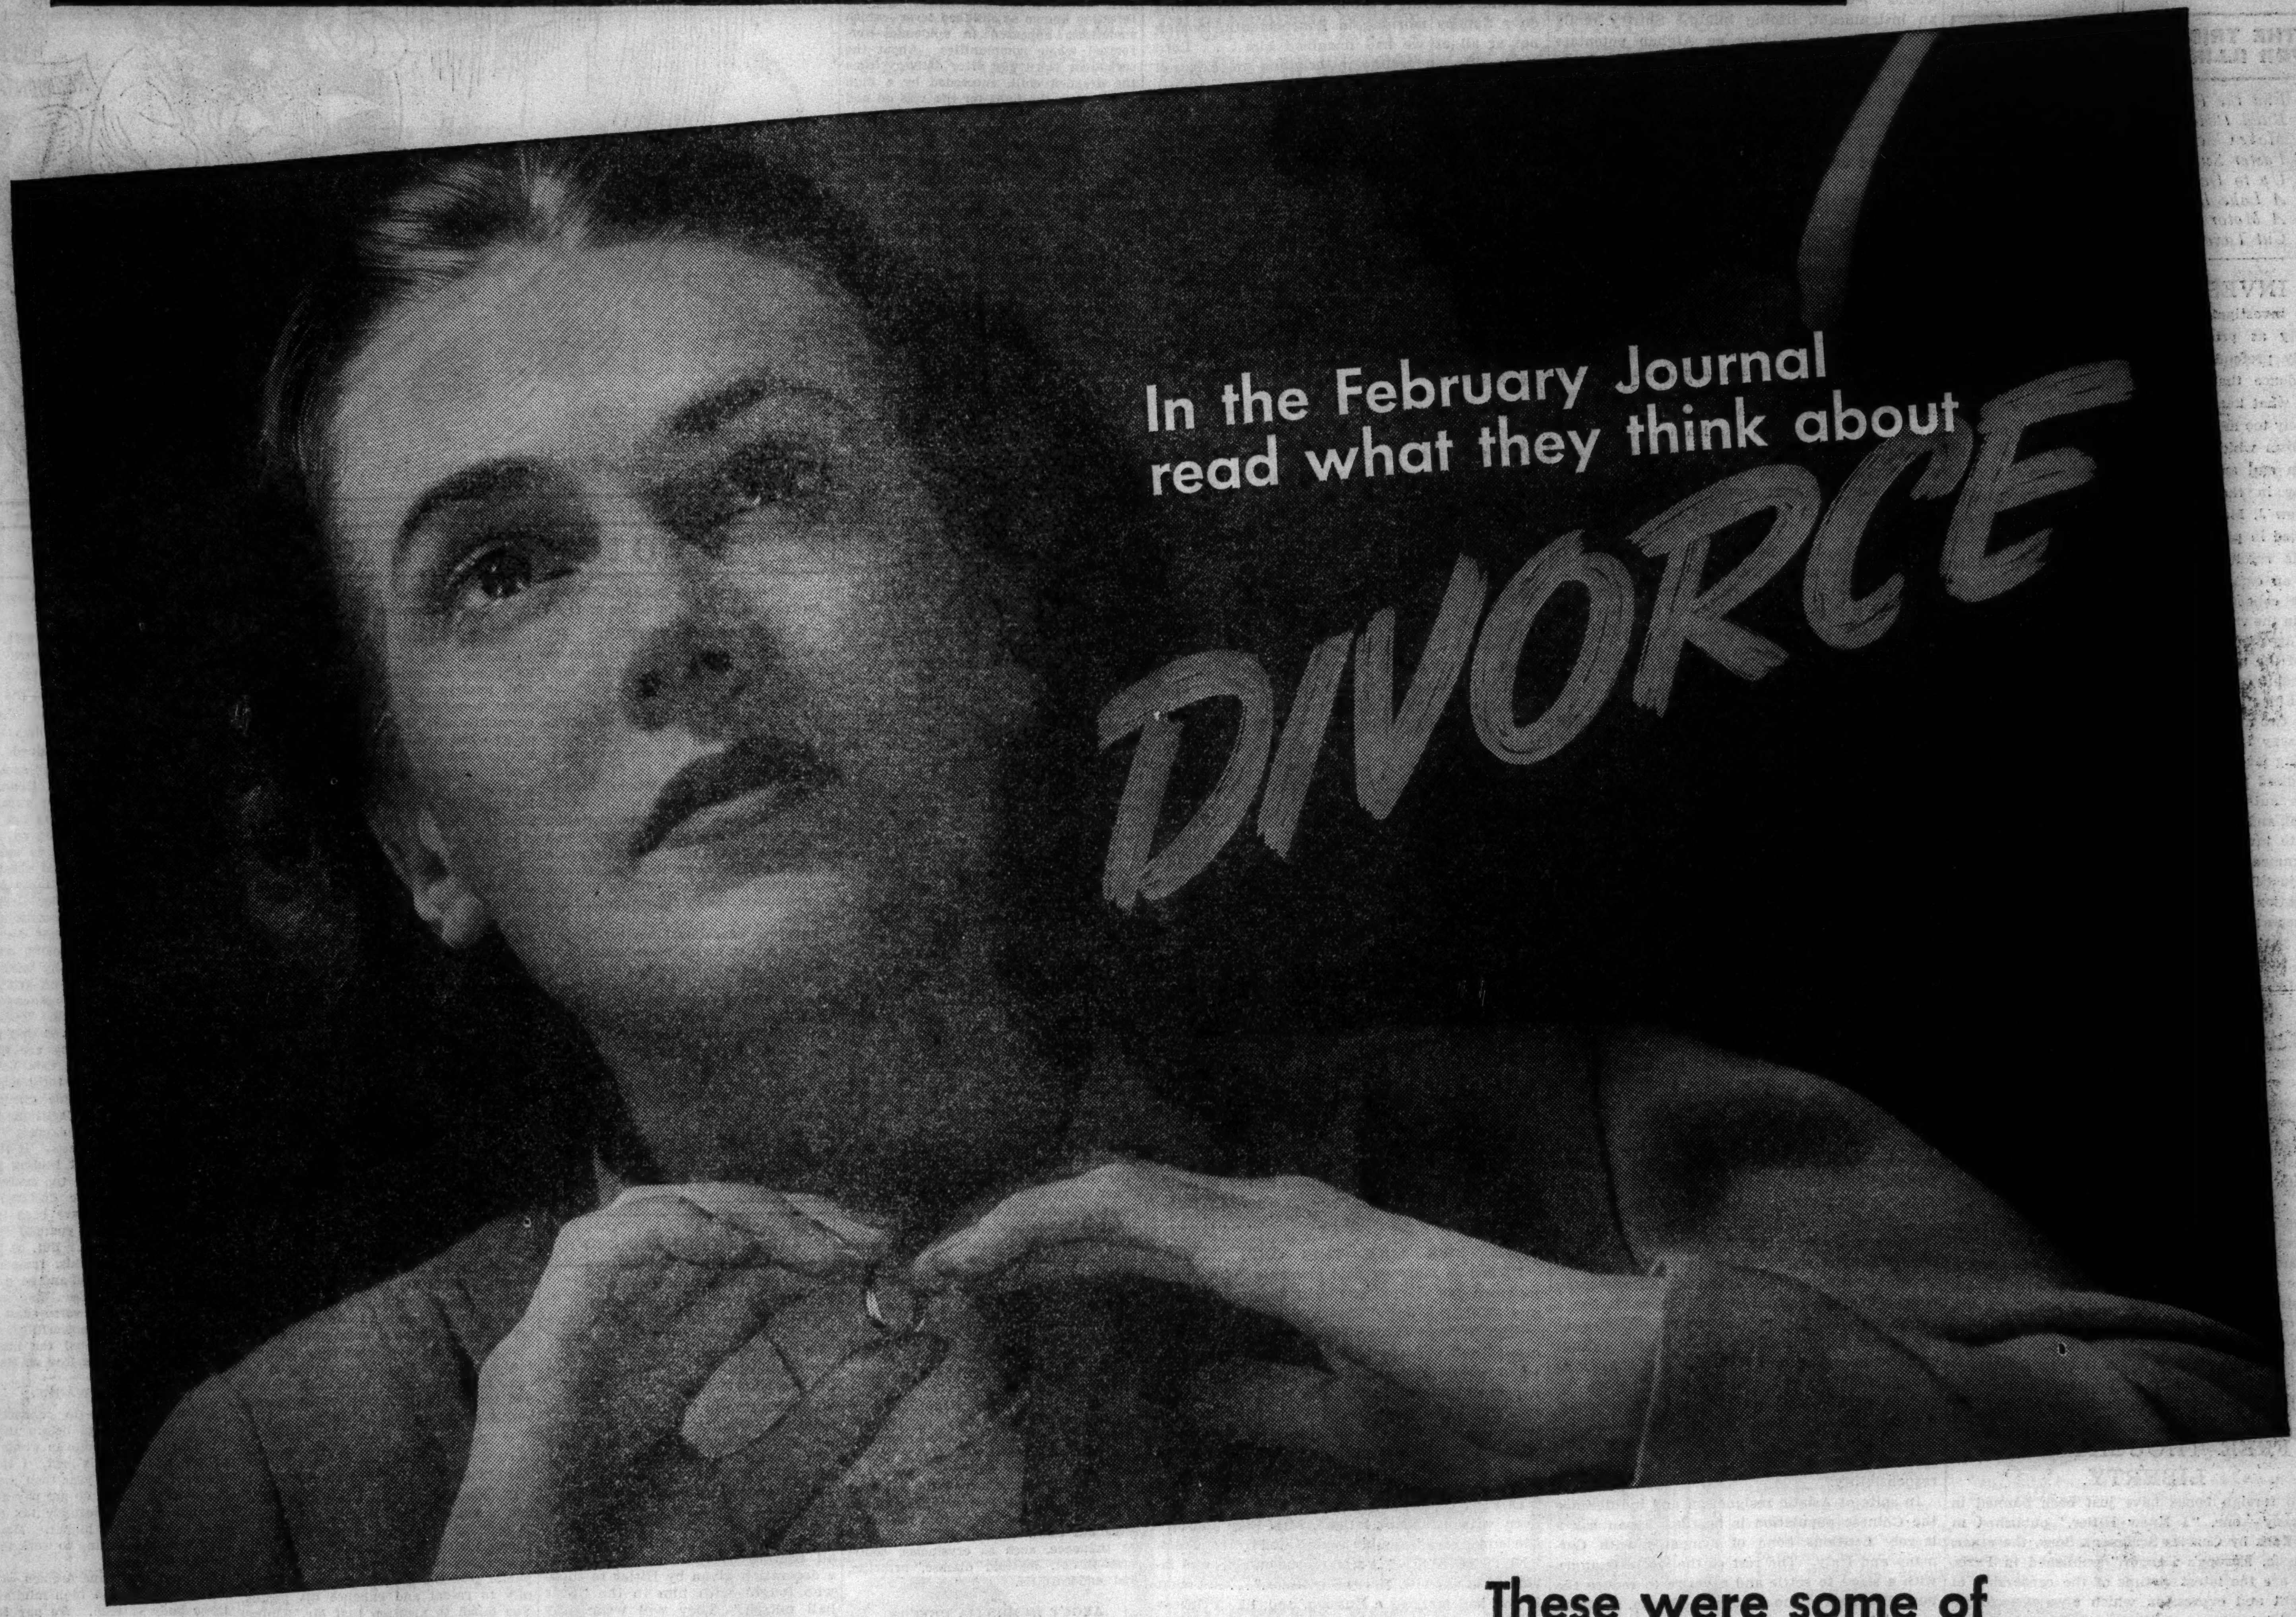
A Nation-wide survey — cross-sectioning 37,000,000 women — reporting month by month — what the women of America think...



There is a report that has never been written, and the Journal is writing it.

It is a report about women; and in all the history of writing, and in all the history of women, it has never been written.

IT WILL TAKE A YEAR TO WRITE IT It will mean thousands of miles to travel, thousands of patient hours of inquiry; it will mean cold shoulders and rebuffs, as well as heartening help and understanding.

But the Journal feels that no time or labor or determination is too great to put into the great task of getting down on paper, for the first time anywhere, a complete and lucid summary of what the women of America think . . .

What they think about marriage . . . about divorce . . . about sex and birth control. What they think about war and peace and should their sons go fight in the next European war . . . what they think about the laws being made and the strikes being called and the schooling their children get.

To find the answers, the Journal has been making a nation-wide survey—a scientific cross-sectioning of that curiously human, unpredictable thing: public opinion. The method is the same that foretold with stunning accuracy the results of the Roosevelt-Landon battle in 1936. You can trust the answers.

* * *

Again the Ladies' Home Journal leads the field, breaks new ground in creating a vital contemporary journalism for women.

These were some of the questions...

Do you believe in divorce?

Do you think that divorce laws should be the same in every state?

What do you believe husbands and wives quarrel about most frequently?

What do you consider justifiable grounds for divorce?

Do you think young people should be taught more about sex?

INVESTIGATING TVA.

An investigation of the Tennessee Valley authority as proposed by Senator Norris could hardly pretend to be impartial or inspire any confidence that it was intended really to disclose what has been going on. Senator Norris is entirely too much the friend of this piece of state socialism which masquerades as an aid to navigation and as flood control while using public money in the power business. Representative Andrew J. May, Kentucky Democrat, is entirely justified in protesting that an inquiry under the Norris resolution would be a cover-up rather than an exposure.

The collectivists, whose pet project is under way in the valley of the Tennessee, probably want nothing more than to get Dr. Arthur Morgan out of the authority. He not only has a dangerous habit of candor but has been suspected by Mr. Lilienthal and Dr. Harcourt Morgan, the other two members, of occasionally trying to play half way fair with the private companies now fighting for their lives against TVA and its cheap subsidized power.

The authority has been notoriously reckless, willful, and destructive. Its operations against the private investors have been unconscionable. Its governmental appropriations have only a fraudulent justification. They are supposed to be for navigation and flood control, but every engineering report has emphasized the fact that only a small part of the money which has gone into the dams would have been needed if navigation and flood reservoirs had been the only purposes to be served. It is only when the authority is brought to court that it pretends its purpose is anything but the production and sale of electric power. It uses the public money to drive the private companies out of business. No company paying taxes and using private money can meet the rates of this subsidized governmental corporation.

There is much deserved criticism directed against its accounting methods and its financial reports to the government. There are intimations of great scandal connected with its condemnation proceedings. If the administrators of the authority have nothing to hide they should demand an inquiry entirely impartial and make a public showing of what they are doing. The administration wants to extend this socialistic system over the entire country and bills creating seven more of the districts are in congress. Before this proposed legislation is even considered there should be a full disclosure of everything that has been done in the Tennessee valley.

FREE THOUGHT AND LIBERTY.

Two foreign books have just been banned in Germany—one, "I Knew Hitler," published in New York by Charles Scribner's Sons, the other, "Prussia, Europe's Danger," published in Paris. They are the latest victims of the censorship of thought and expression which always accompanies dictatorship and all forms of authoritarian government.

The map published in last Monday's TRIBUNE, made up by Dean Carl Ackerman of the Columbia school of journalism, has called our readers' attention to the growth and present extent of government domination over freedom of utterance. It presents a disheartening picture of the state of civilization in the third decade of the 20th century, and it is not pleasant to note that the western continents, so long dedicated to liberty, if not wholly attaining it, are not immune from what Dean Ackerman calls "The Black Plague of the Twentieth Century." In Quebec and Alberta censorship laws inconsistent with the Anglo-Saxon ideal of liberty of thought and utterance have been enacted, and in Latin America Dean Ackerman finds only Mexico, Colombia, Chile, and Argentina free from government regulation of publicity.

Even when censorship is imposed with the best of motives and with the highest ends in view, it is a mistake. No man is wise enough to say what other men may not read. "Give me liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties," said John Milton. Authoritarian governments and all despotisms have denied this liberty. All free peoples and peoples aspiring to be free have jealously guarded it or sought unceasingly to establish it. It is an unending struggle to maintain it even when it is won. But, as the founders of our liberties have realized, it is the most essential of all liberties.

HOLLYWOOD AND THE EMPIRE.

The other day an English aviation expert reported that the United States had the best air force in the world. That's interesting, and might be read in Hollywood profitably. Another report from England is that Hollywood has a major opus which is to be a film of life in the British royal air force—what is described as one of the more majestic movie projects to glorify the life of the British eagles and again fill the eye with the grandeur of the empire. Hollywood is the much better Kipling. It is the empire's best friend.

The British government was to give the enterprise official coöperation. British officialdom would be particularly muddle-headed if it didn't and add another smash hit to the long list of Hollywood productions which save the imperial prestige as often as British statesmanship seems to dim it. Every time Mr. Chamberlain, as Mr. Baldwin before him, Mr. Eden as Sir Samuel Hoare before him, confesses a weakness and shrinks before a bluff Hollywood gives the world some spectacular exhibition of the breed that rules the world and millions of people who know little or nothing of Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Eden have their notions of imperial indomitability and invincibility refreshed.

The glorification of the royal air force is said to be held up temporarily by a controversy between the genius of Hollywood and the authorities of the air ministry. The producers had Clark Gable cast as the British hero of the story. The air ministry demands a British actor, and upon the rock of that difference the production halts. Hollywood knows that Clark Gable as a British air hero will tell the world just as effectively as Shirley Temple in "Wee Willie Winkle." Hollywood's "Wee Willie Winkle" made Kipling's child an insignificant, lisping infant. Shirley really showed the empire how an Afghan potentate should be conquered, and no doubt Clark Gable would do as well. The air ministry probably agrees but reflects that after all everybody would know that the bounder was an American, and shall it be confessed that the empire has to borrow stage heroes when it really goes to town?

PROGRESS AGAINST CRIME.

The records of the police, the state's attorney and the Criminal court for 1937 show another decline in serious crime in Chicago.

Thanks to the spirit which Mayor Kelly has instilled in the force, the police are doing a better job of crime prevention and detection than this city has known in more than a generation. Mr. Courtney's efforts have been no less commendable. He has surrounded himself with able assistants and has insisted upon speedy trials. The underworld has learned that indictment in this jurisdiction means prompt trial and a high probability of conviction. The consequence has been that professional criminals are now operating in cities which offer fewer hazards.

The weak spot is the state's parole system. If that avenue of escape from deserved punishment could be closed, the alliance of crime and politics would be broken and the safety of life and property in the community would be greatly enhanced.

JAPAN IN CHINA.

The war in China seems to have completed one phase and to be settling down to another. The main objectives of Japan have been reached, unless Canton is to be brought into the war area, as appears probable. The Japanese aims are such as to make satisfactory peace proposals to China almost impossible. It is not a war in which defeat can be acknowledged and the terms of the winner taken into a council room for discussion and negotiation. Usually when the military outcome has been what it is now in China, the combatants can come to terms. The victor has gained his point and the matter in controversy can be adjusted. The defeated country has to make the best of its losses.

What Japan wants is control of the Chinese government. When it took Manchuria and set up an administration controled by it and acting for it, China reluctantly could accept the fact that it had lost that territory, but a Chinese government can hardly accept terms which mean its extinction unless it has been so defeated as to be powerless and will take a peace which is tantamount to suicide. Apparently Chiang Kai-shek has not reached that desperate state.

Experience must have taught many people to be skeptical when theory relies on economic factors to stop wars. The endurance of a fiscal system is remarkable. Japan by all reasoning from cause to effect is in bad shape. It has a badly exploited population and is regarded as the sweat shop of the world. In the ratings of national wealth and resources it is low. It is a semi-feudal imitation of a modern nation. It now is extended widely over a country which it is slowly conquering. The conquest is uneasy. The Japanese army cannot leave a military police force and go home. Every success adds a new responsibility.

In spite of Asiatic resignation and indifference the Chinese population is hostile. Japan has a largely fictitious bond of sympathy with Germany and Italy. The rest of the world is angry with a score to settle and a desire to reduce the bumptiousness of the disturber. Russia, stultified as it is by its internal disorders, is, nevertheless, an ever-present menace. The soviet government is not viewing the situation in China with unconcern. There is nothing in Spain half so important to the soviets as the fate of China.

Japanese patriots may well be disturbed by the adventure on which the military clique has embarked their country. If the militarists have guessed wrong they may have guessed their nation into one of the world's historic flops.

MODEL HOMES—WITHOUT DOGS.

[Boston Transcript.]

It will now be in order to declaim Senator George Graham Vest's eulogy of the dog—"The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog." Or, perhaps, on the present occasion it would be more appropriate to quote Berton Braley—

> Give a boy a dog and you have furnished > him a playmate
> Always true and faithful as can be.

More than 100 residents of the federal low-priced housing center at Greenbelt, Md., have signed petitions asking that dogs be no longer exiled from that collection of supposedly happy homes. They who laid down the rules to govern life in a model community decided that it was not for dogs. Perhaps these home-planners had never read the Missouri senator's tribute. The men among them may have become so absorbed in housing theories as to forget the love they felt for their dogs in boyhood days.

In advocacy of the government projects much stress is laid upon them as blessings to children. But to the boy living in the model apartment with all the modern improvements there is likely to be yearning for the dog that is denied him. And so with the older boys and the women folks. More is involved than the love for the dog. To possess a dog has been regarded as one of the inalienable rights of human kind. It is a right not to be denied because of residence. It places on a par the penthouse on the avenue and the dead-end tenement. Is the appearance of the government as a philanthropic home builder to cause an exception to the rule? The Greenbelt dwellers may be raising a question that will yet trouble the theorists.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

PHILIP GUEDALLA'S collection of caricatures by Max Beerbohm, now on exhibit at the Arts club, brings to mind a story Ben Abramson told after a visit to London. Beerbohm was stopping with Guedalla at the time, back from Rapallo, Italy, where he had lived for thirty years, because of the British sanctions applied against Italy after the invasion of Ethiopia. He was too old to risk an internment camp, he told Guedalla and Abramson over their sherry.

"The most drastic application of the sanctions on England's part—your return," commented Guedalla.

SO MANY OF THEM are pictured in the exhibit—those geniuses who gave distinction to the end of the century and the early 1900's. Lord Byron shaking the dust of England from his shoes . . . J. M. Barrie, looking as if he were about to address St. Andrew's . . . Aubrey Beardsley, looking as one expected him to look . . . Paul Verlaine, ushering a group of private school boys on a Sunday morning in Bournemouth, looking not at all as we had imagined him . . . Lord Northcliffe suggesting a headline to Edmund Gosse . . . Swinburne and Jowett . . . George Moore, morose in white tie and tails . . . J. M. Sargent, in tights, cruelly satirized as the "Strong Man of the Royal Academy." . . . We saw Lewis Bernays, the British consul, chuckling—but with a touch of nostalgia, no doubt—over the drawing captioned "London in November and Mr. Henry James in London." A thick London fog obfuscates the figure of Mr. James, and beneath, in Mr. Beerbohm's handwriting, is written, "It was therefore, not without something of a shock that he, in this, to him, so very congenial atmosphere, now perceived that a vision of the hand which he had, at a venture, held up within an inch or so before his face, was, with an almost awful clarity, being adumbrated."

THE KNITTER SAW THE NOTICE.

"To the La Salle street gambler:

"You win the fifty cents. A blouse it is and it will be wearable shortly. Suggest you use your winnings for chances on a made-to-order hand knit hat,

"Leonore J. Mossler,
"The knitter of the 'L.'"

REMINISCENT OF THE old "I thought it was the spinach yarn": The dean of a teacher's college in southeast Missouri met with a committee of students to arrange the imminent holiday dance. It was suggested that balloons for decorations could be purchased at a penny each provided at least a gross was purchased.

"A gross," said the dean. "That's a thousand isn't it?"

Informed that a gross was 144, the dean murmured, "O yes, I was thinking of pencils."

WE'VE STARTED SOMETHING, WE FEAR.

"I became speechless yesterday when you suggested no pseudonyms. How could you? It just isn't done, you know. The Line wouldn't be the same. . . . Something will go out of the Line if pseudonyms go. Teede."

WE ARE SURE OF IT.

"Please, O, please, don't change our Line o' Type by making contribs sign their names or 'Anonymous.' Half the fun has been the pseudonyms. Here's for the same old Line which needs no improving or reorganizing.

"Deek of DePauw."

THEY'RE IN FULL CRY.

"Please, please, do not be an iconoclast! After all, you did inherit a tradition when you inherited the Line, started so long ago by B. L. T., and the fanciful signatures of people well known to many old contribs and faithful readers. There are many of us and after all, only one of you. . . ."

WE LIKE THIS ONE.

"When in those magical moments between my nightcap and my pillow I drift beyond mortality and think the poets' thoughts, when the heart wrings a little at the vision of youth yet unspoiled and my love is not Another Dark Lady, when ambrosia is ripe Camembert and nectar a noggin of stout ale, when I in spirit am Ishmael or Kubla Khan, Ben Jonson, or the lividly scarred Ahab must I bow to an editor's whim and flatten me with a dull surname instead of, perhaps:

"Son of Dante."

CUFF NOTES: Now that the holiday fuss is over, with attendant fatigue, Mrs. Clay Judson's Christmas card is doubly appreciated by recipients. "NUTS TO NOEL" it read on the outside, and inside, "but anyhow, Merry Christmas." . . . But what if you had married a Russian, and, like Princess Galitzine, a little tired from the holiday festivities with her own family, had to start in again yesterday observing the Russian holidays, which end with their New Year's eve Jan. 13! . . . Prettiest evening gown of the week, Mrs. Pauling Donnelly's smoke gray heavy silk with copper stripes. . . . Mrs. John Carey Murphy gave a party for young children the other day, all of whom started telling stories on their daddies. When Mary MacArthur, small daughter of Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur, began, "Now I'll tell you about my daddy . . ." Mrs. Murphy hastily initiated a new game, apprehensive as to what prank of her spectacularly madcap father's Mary might choose to relate. . . . Line from the movie "Rosalie"—"He's so mean he eats fish on Thursday so some one else can't have it on Friday." . . . Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, which performed in Chicago Wednesday night, is a minnie-camera-carrier. He calls his photo-snapping "knipsing." Another of his pastimes is ping-pong. Of interest to Chicago trafic officials perhaps is Mr. Ormandy's large collection of trafic tickets for his fast tempo while driving through Chicago streets. . . . Somebody just sent in that old tailor shop sign, "Trousers Pressed. 7½ cents a leg. Seat Free." Now we feel at home.

SULFANILAMIDE VICTORIOUS OVER CHILDBED FEVER.

ONE of the world's greatest tragedies is the death of a young mother in childbirth. While accidents may happen, nevertheless, if the patient is in skilled hands, the process is relatively safe.

From the beginning of recorded history to only a few generations ago, the infection known as childbed fever—which sometimes appeared in epidemics—terrorized whole communities. About the second or third day after delivery came the dreaded chill, succeeded by a high fever; then the fight for life was on and all too often victory failed to come. Enough books, pamphlets, and monographs have been written on the subject to fill a good sized library, but it was not until the time of Charles White of Manchester, Alexander Gordon of Aberdeen, and the discovery of the antiseptic properties of chlorine that much progress was made.

While parturition was less risky with the dawn of the nineteenth century, the epoch making discoveries of Louis Pasteur and the practical application of the microbe theory by Joseph Lister were needed to teach us that clean obstetrics was the price of security. With better instruction and more accurate training available to physicians, with modern hospitals and scrupulous cleanliness, the malady has been reduced to a low level.

Occasionally, however, it still strikes with the force of a hurricane. Even though the obstetrician has used every precaution possible the patient may have a sore throat with tonsils filled with streptococci some of which—entering the blood—may usher in the ailment.

On at least two occasions we have mentioned a potent enemy of certain bacteria—sulfanilamide. A recent report on 100 cases of puerperal fever treated with that drug in Queen Charlotte's hospital, London, is of great interest. The compound was given to all patients who were found suffering from streptococcic infections and—because it is readily absorbed by the intestinal tract—it was administered by mouth at 4, 6, or 8 hour intervals. Only in those instances accompanied by persistent vomiting was a solution injected into a vein.

On the whole, the effect was striking. Fever subsided within two to four days and there was no further extension of the trouble. In about one-third of the patients a low grade temperature returned, but did not persist for more than a day or two. Of the 100 women treated all but eight survived. Many had been suffering from blood stream infection [blood poisoning] for several days before treatment was begun. According to the article, there was only one case of the eight in which there seemed to be even a fair chance of success.

Two women with breast involvement received the dye. After evacuating the abscesses, the absorption of the drug was followed by a drop in temperature and recovery.

Much has been said about the possible poisonous influence of this powerful chemical and it must be admitted that in more than 50 per cent of these victims some blueness of the lips, the finger nails, and the skin of the cheeks was observed. This was due apparently to the combination of the drug with the hemoglobin of the blood. But the manifestations did not last for any great length of time and the patients were none the worse off. Joint pains occurred in a few cases and slight jaundice in two. All unusual symptoms, however, vanished rather promptly. In the entire series there was no reduction of the white cells, particularly the type known as granulocytes.

It seems almost too good to be true that a specific adversary against the most virulent of all organisms—the streptococcus—has been found. Evidence, however, is accumulating daily. But it is sufficiently dangerous in the required doses to demand expert management. It is now utilized not only against puerperal fever but other diseases have yielded to its influence, such as erysipelas, septic sore throat, mastoid disease, arthritis, and endocarditis.

ABOUT DEMENTIA PRECOX.

E. G. writes: What are the symptoms of dementia precox and is the cause known? Is there any definite cure for it? Do patients ever regain their normal health after they have it?

REPLY.

There are four varieties of dementia precox, all of which are characterized by dissociation of the emotional from intellectual life. General behavior shows many odd, bizarre, silly reactions, with mannerisms, impulsive outbreaks, slovenliness of personal dress and manners, and tendency to fixed postures. The exact cause is unknown, but the glandular changes of adolescence play an important rôle. Until recently, permanent improvement has been hopeless. New methods, such as the use of metrazol or insulin shock therapy, may change the whole outlook for cure.

EXTRA HEART BEATS.

R. writes: How serious is an extra systolic beat in a woman 57 years old? Blood count and blood pressure are normal.

REPLY.

Extra or premature beats are almost universal; only the occasional individual escapes them at some time in his life, although they may pass unnoticed. The premature beat is of no clinical importance except in these respects: [1] individuals with heart disease show a relatively higher incidence and greater frequency of premature beats than do those with normal hearts; [2] the premature beat is sometimes a source of great discomfort or fear that must in itself be treated; [3] the premature beat is now and then directly traceable to some toxic substance such as tobacco, the reduction of which banishes the symptom. The diagnosis of heart disease depend not on the presence or absence of premature beats but entirely upon other evidence of trouble.

ABOUT STREPTOCOCCI.

G. E. N. writes: Will you write on the streptococcus germ? What can be done to cure it?

REPLY.

Infections caused by streptococci present a problem of great complexity. The organisms may be divided into three main groups which differ not only with regard to their action on red blood cells, but also in the character and severity of the infections induced. Streptococci are the causative agents in suppurating wounds, tonsilitis, septic sore throat, dental abscesses, otitis media, and a host of other diseases. The severity of the trouble depends on the virulence of the parasite and on the resistance of the individual. Bed rest is essential until fever has subsided and for several days thereafter.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—"The best place to spend the winter is the Chicago flophouse." This was the advice of one knight of the road to the other and the topic in every jungle. Consequently, every hillbilly and New Jersey cowpuncher, not to mention the few unemployed from New York to Frisco, are making the city their vocational rendezvous.

The Chicago Relief administration should appoint at Grand Crossing and the several freight yards official greeters to meet and welcome their guests and escort them in princely fashion to their palatial hotels, the Pandemonium and the Bedlam.

Since our educational institutions are turning out, en masse, sociologists, dietitians, and welfare workers of every kind there must be a field for the benevolent activities of these humanitarians and the "I Will" city is certainly doing its bit to supply the need, and evidently likes it. Thanks to the taxpayers!

BERLIN.—Germany's new aristocracy is formed by the "old fighters" who first sided with Adolf Hitler and his lieutenants in the early days of the National Socialist movement.

Membership in the Nazi party is in itself a distinction, but to have fought at Hitler's side in the "beer hall putsch" at Munich in November, 1934, is an even greater honor. The 1923 warriors now have obtained permission to wear a special uniform on festive occasions.

The new uniform will be given to all bearers of the "blood order"—a decoration given by Hitler to those who fought with him in the "beer hall putsch." They will wear gray lumbershirts and gray storm troopers' caps like the ones they wore in the "battle days." The uniforms will be given to the warriors by the "Office for Nov. 8th and 9th, 1923."

Uniformed members of the army and police force, who are already wearing a national uniform, will not wear the new garb, which will supplement the regular brown and black shirts of the Nazi service.

ESTATE PROPERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Will you please tell me whether one must probate when a will is made?

2. It is a piece of property, a lot and a house. If will says house should be sold [3] must we sell it?

4. Must we probate it and [5] how much time have we to probate? My father died Oct. 11.

6. How should we go about this?

7. The lawyer who drew the will doesn't seem much good.

8. Can he do something, such as make us sell it and collect a big fee for it?

9. Do I have to give the will to him?

C. J.

1. In general, the presence or absence of a will has nothing to do with the necessity of probate. Probate may be necessary in order to produce a merchantable title to real estate or in order to reduce personal property to possession.

2. Ordinarily this would require probate.

3. It seems probable that the will shows the purpose of the sale to be a reduction of the assets to a shape in which they can be equally divided. If the parties can agree this would remove the force of this purpose and the court might excuse the sale. Presumably you will employ an attorney for the probate proceedings and he will be in a better position to advise than we are.

4. See preceding answers.

5. Since, as above stated, probate can be entirely dispensed with in some cases, we do not clearly understand your present question.

6. Ordinarily the first step is to employ an attorney.

7. Employ the lawyer of your choice.

8. We see no reason why he should have anything to do with the probate.

9. Not as far as the facts stated are concerned.

TRAILER LIFE.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—If, in order to give its readers accurate information dealing with hunting conditions in surrounding states, a newspaper were to send a representative who had never handled a gun or who had never hunted in his life, or if this same newspaper, in order to acquaint its readers with the newest in automobile equipment, comparative riding qualities, etc., of current automobile models, were to send a representative who had never ridden in, let alone driven, an automobile, isn't it likely that THE TRIBUNE together with the readers of this paper would be laughing up its sleeve?

Isn't this what has happened in relation to the trailer tour and the story thereof now being conducted by your representative Mr. H. Foust? Obviously unfavorable to the trailer, inexperienced in its operation, and out of sympathy with all that trailer life stands for, Mr. Foust is certainly not the one to tell the story of trailer life and trailer road conditions to your readers.

We protest the fact that Mr. Foust "damns with faint praise" trailer life. Thirty years ago when the automobile was in its infancy one did not find a gasoline station on every corner, and by the same token with the comparatively recent development of house trailers it is unreasonable to expect a fine trailer camp at every crossroads.

With its hundreds of thousands of readers, THE TRIBUNE, because of Mr. Foust's article, is causing untold damage to the trailer industry. Persons who, under ordinary conditions, may be interested in trailer life are having this interest ridiculed because only some of the facts are given. We only hope that before his return Mr. Foust will have become sufficiently acquainted with trailers and trailer life to overcome his present very evident personal animosity.

KIPLING AND HAMSUN IN AMERICA.

Riverside, Ill., Jan. 2.—In your issue of Jan. 2 you take the British government to task for its failure to provide proper honors for the late Rudyard Kipling, but you neglect to point out that the English public gave the great writer an opportunity to reveal and enhance his genius. You failed to mention that Mr. Kipling was a resident of our eastern states in early manhood and that he submitted his first compositions to various well known American magazines, only to have them rejected on the ground that they were not up to the standard required by these publications. Also you appear oblivious to the fact that another Nobel prize winner, Hamsun, almost starved to death in Chicago, eking out a precarious existence as a street car conductor. Why a genius must first have his merits recognized in Europe seems hard to explain, but the truth remains that the prophet [American] finds no honor in his own country.

ANOTHER RED HERRING.

EVOLUTION IN THE GRAPHIC SECTION.

Hinsdale, Ill., Jan. 2.—Often have I wondered why you keep up the pretense of having an editorial page. The propaganda you wish your readers to accept as news is subtly contained in your news stories—written by such "brilliant" correspondents as Henning, Edwards, Trohan, etc. Many times have I been tempted to write you but have always refrained from doing so, realizing that by so doing I would be wasting my time because your scandal sheet is controled by big business. However, on the first page of your so-called Graphic section today appeared something which could not be lightly passed over.

Placed in brilliant colors and using dates as though you really knew what it was all about appeared an article which cannot but do a great amount of harm to the Christian church. Today thousands of children observed that page and now are convinced they are the direct descendants of apes. This belief they may unfortunately hold till death. Because of your miserable display many may be lost to the Christian church.

Your "fact finding experts" are not even up on modern facts. If they were they would know that leading scientists have rejected entirely the evolution theory and a few have declared that a higher being must have been in charge of the creation. You yourself do not believe what you write. But, as you may laugh as you read this, remember that long after you are dead and gone and your theories discarded the Bible shall still remain and its first verse shall still say to all, simply but powerfully: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

CITY WAGES.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—In connection with the budget hearings before the council I notice that Mr. Sullivan wants the prevailing scale for his men. I think they are paid more per year than the men on the outside. They do not pay an income tax nor a social security tax and their pension is much higher. Many union men would be willing to work in a steady job at that pay.

The policemen and firemen want $3,000 a year. That is a high minimum for a large body of men. We pay letter carriers and postal clerks $2,100 a year, but they pay a tax on their income, and they pay their fares on the cars, "L," and suburban trains. Their pensions are lower.

HIT AND RUN AUTO KILLS PEDESTRIAN IN RIVERDALE

Hold Inquest Into Death of La Grange Woman.

Frank Prando, 46 years old, 2024 West Adams street, died in the St. Francis hospital in Blue Island yesterday, the victim of a car which sped away after striking him. Police said the motorist saw Prando, tried to stop his car, but skidded and struck the pedestrian in front of 13851 South Halsted street, Riverdale.

Charles Day Jr., 21 years old, 6603 Drexel avenue, died last night in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries suffered in a motor accident New Year's day. He was riding with Leonard Hunt, 21 years old, 6450 Kimbark avenue, when Hunt lost control of his car in 67th street, and crashed into the fence of Oak Woods cemetery, 1035 East 67th street.

Hold Inquest Into Death.

An inquest was held late yesterday in the Hinsdale police station into the death of Mrs. Dorothy E. Pelnar, 26 years old, 112 North Ashland avenue, La Grange. She and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Welsh, 51 years old, 327 South Brainerd avenue, La Grange, who was severely injured, were struck by a car which bounded over the sidewalk in La Grange Wednesday night.

The driver, Mrs. Josephine Lucas, 51 years old, 4216 Raymond avenue, Brookfield, admitted driving over the curb but denied knowing the women had been struck. She was arrested at a garage where four tires on her car were being repaired.

The jury found Mrs. Pelnar's death accidental, but recommended that authorities of Cook county, where the accident occurred, investigate.

Injuries May Be Fatal.

Miss Eleanore Kane, 35 years old, 1252 North La Salle street, was probably fatally injured yesterday when her car collided with another at Wacker drive and Clark street. Walter Carlson, 22 years old, 6151 South Carpenter street, was charged with reckless driving.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, there had been 30 deaths in Cook county as the result of automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. In Chicago there were 21 deaths and 260 persons injured in the same period.

Public Service Department Reports on Tests of Meters

In an annual report yesterday Commissioner Jeffrey A. O'Connor of the city public service department stated his department tested 149,175 gas meters already installed and 25,000 new meters, rejecting 1,000. Similarly 214,301 electric meters were tested for accuracy and 98.32 per cent found correct. He also reported that combined trafic of the surface and elevated lines increased 2.9 per cent in the morning rush hours and 4.3 per cent in the evening over 1936.

THREE RECKLESS MOTORISTS GET JAIL SENTENCES

Seven Others Barred from Driving.

Three men were sentenced to jail for reckless or drunken driving and seven other motorists were barred from using their cars by Judge J. M. Braude in the Safety court yesterday.

A sentence of sixty days in the county jail was imposed on Joseph Eicha, 55 years old, 867 North Dearborn street, who was seized on Dec. 18 after his car injured a pedestrian and went on until it struck several parked cars three blocks away. His right to drive was suspended for a year.

Samuel Sherman, 27 years old, 1039 North La Salle street, a Checker taxicab driver, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail and suspended for sixty days. Driving in the wrong lane on Jackson boulevard, his car struck two others at St. Louis avenue on Dec. 13.

Thomas Buckles, colored, 37 years old, 5232 Indiana avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail and suspended sixty days for reckless driving. He was driving a 1920 model automobile when it went through a crossing gate at 71st street and Stony Island avenue and crashed into an Illinois Central freight train.

The other motorists penalized for reckless driving were:

H. G. ATWELL, 39 years old, 11258 Vernon avenue, fined $10 and suspended thirty days.

JOSEPH O'CONNELL, 22 years old, 4923 Washington boulevard, fined $10 and suspended for ninety days.

PAUL H. CHADWELL, 37 years old, of the Lawrence Arms hotel at Lawrence and Kenmore avenues, placed on probation for six months and driving rights suspended for a similar period.

SYPHILIS TESTS GIVEN WARDS OF ILLINOIS SOCIETY

Officials of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society announced yesterday syphilis tests have been given to more than 500 of their 800 wards in Cook county. Dr. Mandel Spivek, medical director of the society, said that less than 1 per cent of the children tested were found to have infections, and these cases are now under treatment.

Tests will be given to the remainder of the society's wards in the county within the next few months and then examinations of 1,200 wards in other parts of the state will be undertaken. The society places children in private homes.

When the tests were begun last July, Chauncey McCormick, president of the society, said the medical program was the first of its kind carried on by any children's aid organization in the country.

Business Bad, So Trafic Violator Gets Off Easy

Robert Zwikel, 5135 Kenwood avenue, young real estate salesman who locked himself in his automobile and refused a trafic ticket Dec. 29, was asked, "How's business?" by Judge Eugene J. Holland in the South State street court yesterday. "Terrible," was his reply. So fines of $2 and $3 costs were imposed for each of three charges—making a "U" turn, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct. If business were better the fines would have been heavier, the court indicated.

WIFE FINDS HUSBAND HANGED.

TRAILER TOURIST DISCOVERS MIAMI RENTS ARE DOWN

New Building Ventures Lower Rates.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Rents at moderate price hotels and apartments here are down this year, according to reports from informed but unofficial sources. The official sources, surrounded by tax supported press agents, won't confirm this news.

This indeed is news for northerners of modest incomes contemplating a winter vacation. And official confirmation, lending a tone of authenticity, might be beneficial locally to the tourist trade, the main industry in this community and in this state. Those who control the publicity policy here believe, however, that such an announcement might influence new construction investments.

New Hotels Built.

Two competent Miami newspaper men here [in interviews and not in their writing] cited a number of illustrations substantiating their observation that prices are down. A 50 million dollar building program of 60 additional hotels and apartments and hundreds of new homes in the last two years is the main explanation for this reported rental trend.

"The city won't issue any statement on rentals," said one of the editors of the Miami publicity bureau. "Our last announcement forecast a record winter season of 3 million visitors, and that statement still stands."

"The cheaper places are cheaper this year than last," said the Miami Beach publicity bureau, "but the rents at the new places are higher than last year."

Appearances Hint Prosperity.

It's rather futile to seek accurate information directly from the resort operators. It's like asking a circus manager if his production is popular. Furthermore, resort operators' respect for accuracy in news probably has been influenced by association with the official publicity bureaus in Florida.

Both Miami and Miami Beach, even to a casual visitor, have an appearance of prosperity disregarding any promotion talk. Peewee golf courses have returned to vacant lots, with archery courses and ten pin alleys to attract quarters from tourists who are not spending dollars at horse races, dog races, golf clubs and night clubs.

At Miami Beach, on an island of eight square miles, building permits totaling 32 millions have been issued in three years.

The homes of millionaires are cloaked in tropical gardens. New hotels and apartments have abandoned the heretofore prevailing Spanish architecture for the modern chromium and glass with rounded corners.

REPORT NEGOTIATIONS ON CALIFORNIA ESTATE FOR DUKE OF WINDSOR

San Mateo, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Agents of the duke of Windsor have been negotiating to lease the fifty acre estate of Leon F. Douglass, inventor and scientist, it was reported here today.

The inventor's daughter, Mrs. Latton W. Langdon, said representatives of former King Edward VIII. of England had inquired of her brother, Earl Douglass, about renting the San Francisco peninsula showplace. The Douglass home on Valparaiso avenue is named Victoria Manor and includes fifty acres and extensive gardens.

POLICE TO ARREST 400 AUTOISTS FOR LACK OF STICKERS

Four hundred motorists who have failed to get their 1938 city motor vehicle licenses will be issued arrest slips in the loop today, Police Commissioner James P. Allman announced last night. On Monday general orders will be issued to the police department to start arresting violators in outlying sections.

City Clerk Peter J. Brady said his office issued 17,861 auto licenses yesterday, or a total of 197,707 this year. The state license bureau at 120 South Ashland avenue issued about 13,000 license plates yesterday, bringing the total this year to 190,000.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

New Bird Mystery.

Jan. 6, 1938.

THE boys on the farm have another bird mystery to solve this week. Some weeks ago they were puzzled about a blue goose which was found dead near one of the farm ponds. Now the boys are trying to figure out what killed a Canada goose. This goose, which was hatched on the farm ponds, was found dead the other day when one of the men went back to put out the daily supply of feed for the waterfowl. It had been wounded in the head. Some of the men believe that the bird was killed by a skunk; others believe that it was shot by a poacher.

When found, the body of the bird was still warm, with no other wound except on its head. There was just a little blood on the ice, indicating that the bird had not struggled when it was attacked or shot. The men who believe that the bird was not killed by a predatory animal say that the goose would have fought if it had been attacked and would have left many signs of the struggle on the ice. Furthermore, they say that the animal would have eaten part of the goose, instead of leaving it as soon as it had done the damage.

Skunk's Tracks Nearby.

On the other hand, there were skunk tracks nearby. An animal may have killed the goose and been scared away before getting a chance to eat it, or the bird may have been shot and the animal may have passed that way later. Future clews may explain how the goose was killed, but at present the boys are puzzled.

A hen pheasant was killed on the farm this week, but there is no mystery about that. One of the men was driving down a farm road a few days ago when he noticed a hawk chasing a pheasant. The pheasant flew over the fence. The hawk wasn't that smart. It banged into the fence, so the ringneck escaped. When the boys walked over the ground nearby they found that on the other side of the road the hawk had just left a hen pheasant which it had killed and had been eating. When the second pheasant flew past, Mr. Hawk evidently decided that one wasn't enough for him, so he went after it. The fence saved the second bird.

A mink chasing a rabbit furnished still another outdoor thriller on the farm this week. The flockmaster noticed the swift brown mink after the scared cottontail. The race was close, but after a short chase the rabbit outdistanced his pursuer and ran into the timber. The mink disappeared down a groundhog hole.

Saw-mill Made Ready.

It won't be long now until the singing blades of the sawmill will be heard in the woods of the Tribune farm near Wheaton. When we were on the farm the other day the men were making plans for getting the saw sharpened and the log carrier lubricated. Already there are logs piled up and ready to be cut for rail fences. One of the farm tractors, which will be used in providing power for running the sawmill, has been "dressed up" with a new metal cover for its radiator. This contrivance will prevent the motor from freezing during cold weather, and it is adjusted to close automatically when the motor becomes too cold and to open when the motor becomes overheated.

We were surprised to find a large black haw with lots of fruit on it in the woods the other day. Apparently the birds haven't found this tree or else they care nothing about the sweet soft berries of the black haw.

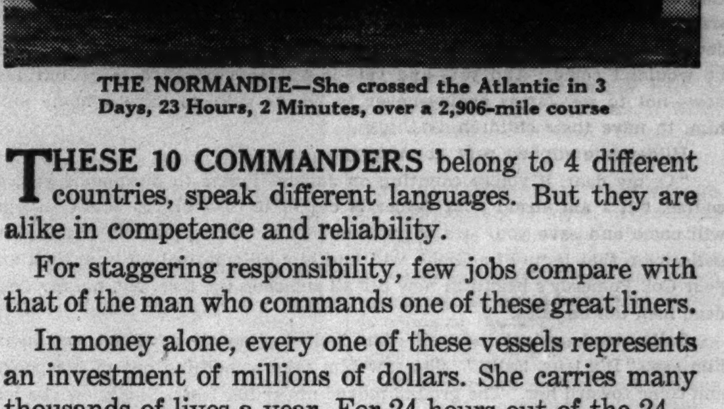
Life Begins At 40

10 Liners Over 40,000 Tons Make Regular Crossings of the Atlantic

Not One of Them Has a Commander Under 45 and MOST Are Over 50



THE NORMANDIE—She crossed the Atlantic in 3 Days, 23 Hours, 2 Minutes, over a 2,906-mile course

THESE 10 COMMANDERS belong to 4 different countries, speak different languages. But they are alike in competence and reliability.

In money alone, every one of these vessels represents an investment of millions of dollars. She carries many thousands of lives a year. For 24 hours out of the 24—in all weathers and all conditions—up to the time he brings her safely into port—the burden of this floating world rests on her captain's shoulders.

It is a responsibility that is never, by any chance, given to young men.

"No man can expect to get the command of one of these big liners before he reaches 40," one of their captains said. "In fact, you are generally some years over that age."

"In my own case," he said, "I have felt better and more competent in every way since I passed 40 than I did before."

In Any Responsible Job, Physical Fitness is Essential

Few jobs demand the terrific physical strain of the ship captain—who knows what it is to stay on the bridge for sixty hours without relief. But every responsible job demands good health. A man's ability does not decrease after 40. It increases—if he keeps his health.

Their Lives Grew Brighter After 40 —SO CAN YOURS

Hours of Figure Work Don't Tire Him

Jerry Bonnett
Recovered ambition

Dear Life Begins:

A few years ago I was let out of a good job in the accounting department of a big company, and took a job driving a truck. I thought getting outdoors would do me good, but found I didn't feel up to much—was tired all the time and got discouraged, too.

Then a relation of mine advised Fleischmann's Yeast. I ate it regularly and it sure did the trick.

After a few weeks my appetite improved and I didn't feel nervous any more. My pep and energy came back. I began to have some ambition.

My health and mental outlook were so improved that I really think my new job was the result. I have a good position again with my old company as a time-rate setter, and, at 42, I can work with complicated figures, under pressure, for 9 or 10 hours without getting tired and cross.

JERRY BONNETT

At 56—Has Energy for Two Jobs

Mrs. Ralph Chew
Regains good health

Dear Life Begins:

Besides my housekeeping, I have an excellent job as a bookkeeper.

Some years ago I found myself slowing up. My digestion seemed to be particularly affected and my whole system was sluggish.

Fleischmann's Yeast was suggested to me as a mild digestive stimulant, which would tone up my digestion and thus help me regain my former good health.

So I tried it, and after a week or so my health trouble began to disappear. In another two weeks I noticed a decided improvement—I didn't have any more indigestion.

I still continue to eat the yeast and am much peppier, never get tired and run-down. I have to travel sometimes, in connection with my accounting work, and the trips don't tire me out as they used to.

46—Gets Coveted Promotion

A. T. Stover
Back in his stride

Dear Life Begins:

Selling in the men's retail clothing business has been my work for many years.

A year ago a better job opened up. I wanted that promotion. With all my experience, I thought it was mine for the asking. Well, I was wrong.

Afterward, I was able to guess why I hadn't gotten the job. At 45 I was beginning to lose my grip. Where before I'd been able to stand on my feet selling all day, I'd take every chance I could get to sit down.

I started to eat Fleischmann's Yeast to help me get back my strength and energy and soon I began to feel better. As my health improved, I gradually got back into my old stride at the store. A month ago I was given the position I hadn't been able to get last year. Thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast, I feel and look 20 years younger.—A. T. STOVER

When Digestion Slows Down You Slow Down All Over

DIGESTIVE ACTION is likely to slow down soon after 40. This happens because the gastric juices usually tend to flow less freely and to lessen in digestive power as one grows older.

The symptoms of this digestive decline are only too familiar: Weariness, run-down health, lack of self-confidence due to lowered vitality.

In many cases, however, this slowing down can be helped.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a natural food which aids digestion by stimulating it. It promotes a freer flow of richer gastric juices, giving people over 40 the special help so many of them need. This stimulating digestive action is found only in fresh yeast with its millions of tiny, live yeast plants.

Fleischmann's Yeast also brings you 4 vitamins—the Nerve Vitamin, the Cold-Resistance Vitamin, the Bone Vitamin and the Vitality Vitamin. Their names tell you how they help your health.

Begin eating Fleischmann's Yeast 3 times every day—plain or in a little water. Be faithful about the time you eat the yeast—one cake ½ hour before meals—so that a plentiful flow of gastric juices may be prepared to digest your food. Even if you don't at first—you'll soon learn to like the fresh, malty yeast flavor. And watch the difference in your health—see how much more vigorous, younger you feel!

RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1938: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house he finds the front door ajar. Entering, his flashlight reveals a girl, who commands him to "run!" A shot whistles after them as they flee. At his cousin Daphne's, James later meets the girl. She is Sally West, sister of his college chum, Jocko West. She hints of danger to him—because of what he saw—her brother, and herself. Jackson, a rival salesman, takes credit for driving the car the night of the fog and is run over and killed. Sally is in fear of Ambrose Sylvester, the novelist, who is her guardian and was her late Aunt Clementa's trustee; also his wife, Hildegarde, and the latter's cousin, Henri Niemeyer, who wants to marry Sally. The money Sally's aunt left to Jocko comes next to her and, if she dies, to Ambrose. Jocko, after receiving a letter from his dying aunt, was pushed off a cliff. After the accident the letter is missing and Jocko cannot remember its contents. The aunt, supposedly bed-ridden, discovered that her ancestral home, Rere place, was being used for some criminal purpose and found and hid the evidence. Sally and James fall in love. James drives Sally to Rere place, where Jocko is staying. A driverless motor lorry nearly smashes into them. Jocko dreams that the evidence his aunt hid is placed behind the family emblem of a bat. They conduct a futile search of the house. While putting his car up James is knocked out by Henri and put in the hayloft. Regaining consciousness, he escapes through the hay chute. Meanwhile Jocko goes to investigate the cellars and Sally is confronted by Henri and Hildegarde.

AN ACCIDENT ARRANGED.

Anger gave Sally a voice and words. She pulled away from Henri, and he let her go.

"If that's a joke, Hildegarde, it's a very stupid one."

Hildegarde laughed.

Sally had her back to the wall. She felt the cold of it right through her clothes.

"I think it would be better for you if it was a joke, because it is known that I'm here, and if I don't turn up, you'll have something to explain." She was listening, listening for the click of the latch, the sound of the closing door, James' step in the hall, and with all her heart she was hoping that he wouldn't come. And yet—and yet—it was so very hard to go out just now—not to see James again—never to be his wife, to have a home with him, to have their children. . . .

Hildegarde slipped past her into the pantry.

"O, my dear, if you're counting on James—I hate to disappoint you, of course, but I am afraid your James is out of it. No use to count that he will come and save you. He is quite out of it. And presently the Staling policeman, that lump of a Gibbs, will find him all smashed up in a ditch and poor Col. Pomeroy's beautiful new car all smashed up, too. No, no, my dear, dead men tell no tales."

Sally stood against the wall. She looked piteously at Henri, and heard him say, "It's true, Sally." She saw him take something out of his pocket and come toward her. The ground moved under her feet. She knew she was going to faint, but through her faintness she was aware of the heavy, sickly smell of chloroform.

"It is a pity about Sally," said Henri Niemeyer. He had just straightened up after laying her down upon the cold flagstones of the butler's pantry. He spoke in a quiet, meditative tone, and if, as was possible, he wished to annoy Hildegarde Sylvester, he certainly succeeded.

She stood in front of the baize door with her hands in the pockets of a short black lether coat, a bizarre, arresting figure in the candlelight. A black beret hid her hair. Eyebrows plucked to an upward slanting line, black eyes enhanced by makeup, and lips the color of orange peel accentuated the irregularities of a face which, if it lacked beauty, certainly did not lack intelligence. She looked at Henri in a cold fury and said:

"You say that to me—a pity about Sally? And why?"

Henri laughed. He had a singularly charming laugh.

"O, my dear Hildegarde—need you ask? She has three thousand a year which will go to Ambrose. How much pleasanter to marry her and have it come to me. No risk, no trouble with the law, a charming wife, and three thousand a year. Naturally, I say it is a pity."

"You will have your share," said Hildegarde.

"O, yes—a share of Sally's three thousand, and also a share of Jocko's. It will not be too bad. But still——" he heaved a sigh—"you must allow me my regrets."

"And will you indulge them until Jocko comes back? You should have got him first. I tell you there is no time to be lost. It must be all over before Ambrose comes. He is like you—there is a soft place in him for Sally. He is not to see what must be done." She laughed harshly. "You know Ambrose—he must have her money, and he will stand by, but some one else must do the dirty work." Her tone changed abruptly. "And now you will get on with your share of it!" She stood away from the baize door and flung it open. "Hurry, my friend! He is down there."

Henri smiled.

"I am to go down into the cellars and leave you here with Sally whom you love so much? O, no, my dear, I think not. You might—well, we will not say what you might do." He spoke with sudden briskness. "O, no, I have a much better plan, and so simple. It is you who will go down into the cellars. Our dear Jocko will search them all. There are three among those cellars which have a bolt on the outside of the door, as you will remember—two of them old, and one which I put on myself—in case. Well, into one of these Jocko will certainly go, and as soon as he is in, voila—you shoot the bolt and we have him safe."

Without another word she turned and ran down the cellar steps.

Sitting on the corner of the table and swinging a careless leg, Henri looked down at Sally West. She might have been dead already. She was pale enough. She was bareheaded, her hair very black about the pallor of her face, her eyes half closed, one arm across her breast, the other straight beside her, her mouth relaxed and a little open like that of a sleeping child. How old was Sally—twenty? She looked much younger than that, much younger. Yet, it was a pity about Sally—a great pity.

He jumped down from the table as Ambrose Sylvester came into the room.

Sally came back to the sound of voices—Hildegarde's voice. It said: "We will go up now. There has been enough time lost already."

She opened her eyes and saw Ambrose bending over her. He said:

"Sally—you're not dead—you can't be dead! Sally!"

Sally sat up. She had really had very little chloroform. She was fainting before the pad came down over her nose and mouth. She felt giddy and queer. But she would not really go off again now. She propped herself with one hand on the rough stone floor. She was in the pantry.

Ambrose was getting up from his knees as if her movement had startled him.

"Sally—are you all right?"

Sally heard her own voice say "yes."

And then Ambrose was helping her to a chair. She leaned her arms upon the table and rested her head upon them. The room seemed to be shaking, rocking. And then his hand was on her shoulder, shaking her.

"Sally—wake up! You've got to listen before they come back. There won't be any more time after that." He spoke in a low, uneven voice, the words hurrying, halting, tumbling over one another.

Sally said wearily, "What do you want to say?"

He had pulled up a chair and sat across the corner of the table from her, leaning toward her with a hand still resting on her shoulder. His extravagant tawny hair was dishevelled, his brilliant eyes more brilliant than ever. Even to Sally's dizzy gaze there was a wildness about his look. Perhaps it steadied her. She felt fear, and the courage which controls it.

"There's so much to say, and so little time to say it, because there's got to be an accident. It's all arranged. Hildegarde has arranged it all. You see, Jocko won't leave things alone. He and that fellow Elliot, they keep interfering and butting in, and it's too dangerous. You shouldn't have got mixed up with them, and I might have got you off. But I don't know —Hildegarde doesn't like you, and then there's the money."

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

In my lifetime I've known one or two persons who professed a dislike for ice cream and several who couldn't get excited about chocolate cake, but never have I heard of a single soul who avoided apples simply because he didn't like them.

It's fortunate that apples are so universally liked, because they are one of our most healthful fruits and available to almost every one. These apple recipes are a few which I consider very choice. I think that the variation of apple pie may prove especially popular with readers.

BACON, CHEESE, AND APPLE SAUCE SANDWICH.

Butter a trimmed slice of toasted bread and spread thickly with heavy apple sauce. Top with two strips of bacon with a thin slice of cheese between them. Place in a moderately hot oven or under a broiling unit until bacon is crisp and cheese melted. Serve hot.

Baked Ham and Apple Roll.

2 large, thin slices ham
1 teaspoon dry mustard.
2 teaspoons vinegar
1 tart apple
½ cup brown sugar
Butter

Remove bone from ham. Mix mustard and vinegar and spread thinly over each slice. Slice apple very thinly and cover ham slices with a layer of apple slices. Sprinkle the brown sugar over the apples and roll the slices, starting at the fat side, so that the fat will be inside the finished ham rolls. Skewer the two ham and apple rolls to hold them firm while baking. Place in buttered pan and brush the outside of each ham roll with butter. Bake at 350 degrees until the meat is tender and apples are cooked through. Baste several times during cooking. Fruit juice may be used for basting.

Candied Sweet Potatoes with Apples and Chestnuts.

2 cups sliced cooked sweet potatoes
1 cup sliced apples
1 pound chestnuts, boiled
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup butter

Alternate layers of sweet potatoes, apples, and chestnuts in a buttered casserole, sprinkling each layer with sugar and dotting with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for an hour. Cover the casserole for the first half of the baking period.

Apple Pie with Whipped Cream and Cheese Topping.

8 apples, peeled and sliced
¼ cup cold water

FOOD SHOPPER FINDS BARGAINS ALL OVER TOWN

But Few of Items Belong on Staple List.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

There are bargain sales all over the town for today and tomorrow. Retail food stores widely scattered over the city and suburbs have more than a hundred items reduced for the week-end, but most of these are foods not ordinarily on the housewife's list.

On the regular list checked weekly in THE TRIBUNE'S survey, several standbys have been reduced in price since last week. They include butter, which is a penny a pound less, Lard is off one-half to 2½ cents a pound. Sugar is on the bargain counter this week in dozens of stores, many merchants having reduced sugar 5 to 7 cents a 10 pound bag.

Egg Prices Vary.

Egg prices are jumping around according to what the various stores are asking. The lower priced grades in some places are off 2 cents a dozen; higher priced grades are off a similar amount in other stores, while still other stores have made no changes.

Green grocers reduced prices on comparatively few items this week. Cabbage is lower in a few stores. Carrots are off in some places. Green beans are lower in several cases. Some merchants cut one cent a bunch off the price of green onions. Radishes are lower in some and higher in other stores.

Some of the butcher shops will have surprises for shoppers today and tomorrow. Most shops lowered their pot roast beef prices 1½ to 2 cents a pound. Some retail butchers have their refrigerated cases filled with round, sirloin and porterhouse steaks, offered at 2 to 6 cents a pound under last week's prices. Stewing chickens are 2 cents lower in the same shops.

Lamb Cuts Lower.

Fresh spring lamb cuts are less than last week, but still considered relatively high. But a variety of cuts will be featured in many shops this week-end. Leg of lamb is off 1 to 2 cents a pound in most retail markets. A few butchers have it on sale at as much as 8 cents a pound below their prices a week ago. Loin lamb chops are 2 to 4 cents less in most places. Rib lamb chops are at least 3 cents a pound lower in some shops.

Comparatively few items were marked up in the grocer stores or butcher shops. Pork loin roasts are a penny a pound higher in some shops; several added 2 to 4 cents a pound to the price of pork sausage, and still others raised the price of ham 2 cents a pound.

Idaho baking potatoes are slightly higher; 6 cents a peck was added to the price in a few places.

Steer Prices Steady.

Steers of the good and choice kind and dressed beef from such animals are about the same as last week at Union Stock yards, according to federal reporters. The top on steers this week is $11.75 a hundredweight. Farmers were paid about 25 cents a hundred pounds less for hogs; the top is $8.45 a hundred for this week. Dressed pork is off 50 cents a hundred pounds. Fat lambs are about the same; the week's top, $9.15 a hundredweight. Dressed lamb, however, jumped up $1 to $2 a hundred.

COOK, SPARE THOSE MUSHROOM STEMS; THEY'RE FINE FOR SOUP

The thrifty housewife needn't throw out tough stems and skins of mushrooms which she is cooking. She can use them to make mushroom stock, which is used in making creamed vegetable soups. Substitute one cup of the stock for one cup of milk in making soup to serve six persons.

MUSHROOM STOCK.

Add one small onion, celery ribs and leaves, carrots, and a small amount of parsley, all chopped, to mushroom skins and stalk ends. Cover with cold water and simmer for 30 minutes. Strain stock and season with salt and paprika when ready to use.

APPLES STUFFED WITH DATES A TASTY DESSERT

It used to be that the best dates were reserved by decree for the elders and tribal chief of the desert. Now the best dates are found in puddings, cakes and all sorts of good dishes on the American housewife's table. Maybe the sheiks don't like the idea, but the American family certainly does.

DATE STUFFED APPLES.

[Serves Four.]

4 apples
½ cup chopped dates
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup water
1 egg white, beaten stiff
4 tablespoons sugar
½ cup tart jelly

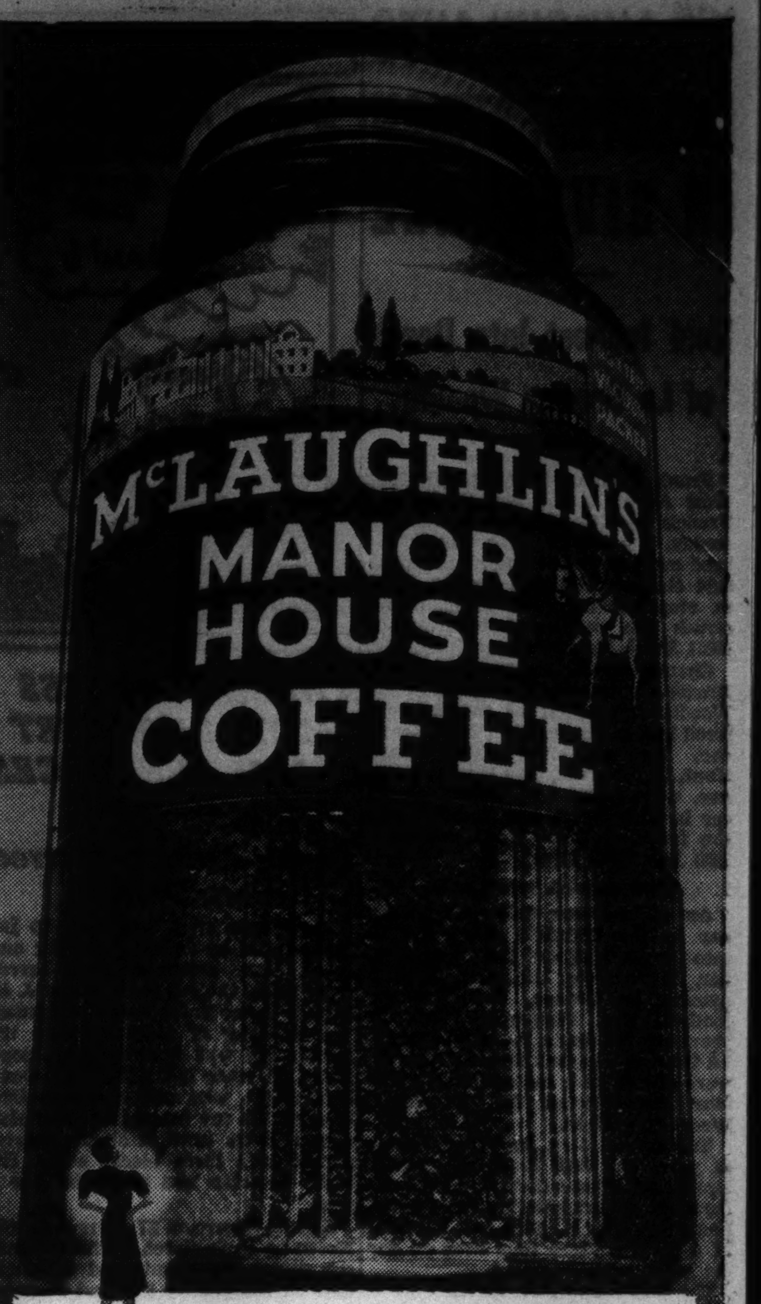
Peel and core large firm apples. Fill centers with dates, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and dot with butter. Add water and bake in moderate oven [250 degrees F.] until apples are tender. Remove apples from oven and set aside to cool. Just before serving beat egg white until stiff, then gradually add sugar and continue beating until smooth and fine grained. Add jelly and continue beating until jelly is dissolved. Place on top of apples and serve.

ORIENTAL DELIGHT.

[Serves Six to Eight.]

2 tablespoons gelatine
½ cup water
2 cups strong coffee
⅓ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa or ½ square chocolate, melted
2 cups dates
½ cup nut meats chopped
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cream

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Pour strong coffee over it and stir until dissolved. Add sugar and cocoa or melted chocolate. Chill. When mixture begins to thicken add sliced dates, chopped nuts, and vanilla. Fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Pour into mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm.



This is BE-NICE-TO-YOUR-FAMILY WEEK. Serve them McLaughlin's MANOR HOUSE Coffee.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

A Columnist's Clock

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—

9 a. m.—To my horror I pick up a Los Angeles paper and a query shrieks in 48 point italic from the printed page: "Reader, what have you done with each day of the new year?" Newspapers shouldn't scare the life out of people with questions like that at that hour of the morning. It's a nasty question. Certainly it was for me, because this reporter certainly has done nothing noble or distinguished or heroic in 1938. Like a twinge from the blue come the distressing recollections of my procrastination in interviewing Cary Grant.

For three months and a half Cary and I have been running into each other at parties. Each time we agreed solemnly that we'd meet on the morrow for an interview. It had developed into a running gag. At the Virginia Bruce wedding I said to Cary: "Tomorrow," and he said, "You bet." So I read the Los Angeles paper again and, full of refreshed resolutions, I hied myself to the set where Katharine Hepburn and Grant were emoting in a station wagon for Director Howard Hawks.

9:30 a. m.—The technique of an interview requires a circuitous approach. You just don't rush up and say "Where were you on the night of Jan. 16?" Arriving at R-K-O, I sought out Howard Benedict and discussed golf with him at some length. Then Eddie Rubin came in and I borrowed a cigaret from him, and it was evident that this cigaret case was part of his Christmas loot.

Then I looked up Pandro Berman and asked him where was the gefultefish he and his good wife had promised some weeks back. In due course of time we arrived on the set. Mr. Grant, his clothes covered with chicken feathers for the purpose of the scene, nodded an abstracted hello. Miss Hepburn shook hands. I chatted with Director Hawks about mutual friends, Dan Topping and Shipwreck Kelly. Inch by inch I was edging up on an interview.

10 a. m.—Schools of journalism will insist that this delayed approach technique is wrong, but don't you believe them. Economically, my technique is sound. I got one cigaret from Rubin, as related, and a renewed promise of gefultefish from Berman. In these difficult times creature comforts are not to be sneered at.

11 a. m.—"How did I break into the profession?" asked Cary. "As a stilt-walker. You see, I came over from England with Bog Pender's knockabout troupe. We'd been engaged for a Fred Stone show at the old Globe theater in New York, and the stilt-walker was the finale of the act and a sock finish. When we rehersed at the Globe we found that the stage was too small for us, so, as the management of the theater also controled the Hippodrome, we were switched to the Hipp. The troupe went back after the engagement, but I stayed on. I wanted to be an actor, but my affection for the stage wasn't reciprocated. I got a room for $11 a week between 8th and 9th avenues and ate for 70 cents a day at Ye Eatte Shoppe." He heaved a sigh.

11:15 a. m.—"However," he continued, "there are several things to recommend stilt-walking as a profession. The hours are good, the exercise beneficial, you get a second story view of life, and you can always get a job. I got a job at Coney Island as a shill, an elevated barker. I got $3 on week days and $5 on Saturday and Sunday because the crowds were so huge on the week-ends that I was always getting knocked down. The extra $2 kept me in liniment and bandages. Then one of the tilyous hired me to stalk through Steeplechase park and I developed some rackets of my own. The hot dog man gave me three hot dogs a day to walk past his place to attract crowds. I tried to work out a similar deal with an automobile agency, but it was no go. But I did all right in a small way."

11:30 a. m.—"In the meantime summer was drawing to a close and stilt-walking is no good in the winter unless you're in vaudeville. So I tried to get a job in a musical comedy show. The answer always was the same. Finally I got into 'Boom Boom,' the Jeanette MacDonald show. After that there was a series of flops and short runs and then 'Nikki,' which went seven weeks. It was after that closed that Phil Charig and I drove out to the coast. He's over at Universal now, a nice kid. 'Blonde Venus' was my first good picture part, and I had a pretty good rôle in a Mae West picture. And now, this."

12 noon—Grant, now the No. 1 light comedian of the screen, adopted that name for the cinema. His full monicker, given to him as a baptismal endowment at Bristol, England, is Archibald Alexander Leach, and on the Broadway stage he used the name of Archie Leach.

He is, in every sense, a thoroughly nice guy. I asked him why it was that so many comedians develop from acrobatic or juggling acts, as witness himself, Eddie Cantor, W. C. Fields, Fred Allen, and others: "I'd never thought of that angle before," he said, "but an obvious conclusion is that an acrobat or a stilt-walker or a juggler develops two important stage assets—timing and a relaxed posture."

Like most comedians, Cary wants to play serious rôles, and I suggested that if he forfeits his present comedy rôles it might be well to start practicing on his stilts again. On the way out I clipped Eddie Rubin for another cigaret. It's the best day I've had in months.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bent of Milton, Mass., and 201 East Delaware place announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Robert R. Thompson, son of Mrs. Frederick W. Thompson of 311 Belden avenue. Miss Bent attended Miss Bowé's school in Boston and Mr. Thompson was graduated from Cornell university. After the wedding, which is to take place in September, Mr. Thompson and his bride will live in Kansas City, Mo.

Major and Mrs. Asa Irwin, formerly of Chicago, now of Philadelphia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Francis Murry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dine Murry of New York.

San Carlo Fans Are Treated to Excellent 'Aida'

BY CECIL SMITH.

The loyal San Carlo Opera fans who found their way to the Auditorium theater last night were rewarded by an excellent businesslike version of Verdi's "Aïda." Despite the fact that the company foregathered for the season right here in Chicago only last Monday, the performance gave a pleasant impression of midseason routine.

Maru Gastagna, an experienced contralto from Italian opera houses and the New York Hippodrome, made her Chicago début as Amneris. Her voice is not of the sort most widely fancied by American audiences, for she draws heavily upon the resources of a deep, tenorlike chest voice. The transition into the upper register is fairly skilfully handled, however, and her singing usually sounds smooth. Her musical conception of the rôle is closer to the best Italian traditions of style and phrasing than any other we have heard in Chicago for many seasons.

She projects her vocal art rather forcefully, and keeps her music moving at an enthusiastic pace. Her allure to the eye is not quite so great, less because she is short and far from willowy than because she does not know how to costume herself tastefully.

Bianca Saroya and Aroldo Lindi were the lovers who breathed their last gasps together in the stone blockaded tomb. Both singers have profited enormously by the enforced rest provided by Fortune Gallo's suspension of San Carlo activities during the fall. Neither singer has sounded as fresh vocally in two or three seasons.

Mr. Lindi has sung the rôle of Radames an incalculable number of times in many corners of the globe, but I had never heard him sing it satisfactorily until last night. His voice was responsive and pliable, and his high C above the chorus in the triumphal scene was sturdy and telling.

Mme. Saroya sang most of the first two acts well. She has as lovely an upper voice as any one could ask. In the middle of her voice there are, unhappily, three or four notes she can almost never produce on pitch. It is amazing that a singer of her potentialities has not come to grips with this difficulty. The difficult Nile scene aria went utterly on the rocks, both because of this trouble and because of a fear of the high C that led her to transpose the music to a lower key.

Stefano Ballarini approached the rôle of Amonasro with serene confidence and assured vocalism. The other singers put the right notes in the right places, except for Charlotte Bruno, whose unevenness in the priestess' music could scarcely have escaped any one's notice.

The ballet appeared in the triumphal scene with striking new costumes. Some of the new men of the group, however, seemed not to have heard the music before, and were decidedly tardy in their movements.

Gowns of Noted Women Copied for Velvet Ball

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.] — Reproductions in velvet of gowns of wives of former Presidents, queens of England, and other famous women were worn tonight by their descendants and others at the velvet ball given at the Mayflower hotel. A gown of Martha Washington was worn by a kinswoman, Miss Emily Custis Lewis Stevens of New York. Miss Mary Virginia Williams, great-granddaughter of President Benjamin Harrison and a distant relative of President Lincoln, wore a reproduction of a gown of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln.

House Dresses Make Clever Use of Color

The house dress in printed color fast cotton features a short gathered shirt with suspenders of the print. The short sleeved blouse is of soft beige tone repeating the beige coloring in the printed material. A scarf handkerchief is worn either around the neck as illustrated or tied over the head.

House Dresses Get Benefit of Smart Styling

BY RHEA SEEGER.

With January encouraging housewifery by special prices on towels, linen, and other domestic necessities, it's no more than right that the house dresses get a break.

Considerably dimmed by faint praise and a utilitarian title, these house dresses deserve a much better name. All the new models are fetching, even coquettish affairs, guaranteed to make the gentleman across the breakfast table beam with approval.

All of them are form revealing, streamlined like the newest and most sophisticated of satins or dull crêpes. The skirts are short and snappily flared, and the sleeves, of course, are short, sometimes being mere caps over the shoulders. None is expensive and most of them could go south as supersmart spectator sports or daytime frocks. The materials and colors are delightful. Huge plaids use such colors as raspberry, jade green and king's blue, gold, green, and brown. The printed floral effects copy expensive silk prints. And you can find checks and snappy stripes.

The collections include button down the front styles, fitted shirtwaist tops, decorative as well as practical pockets, and unusual colored trim in bindings, pipings, straps, or braid. The shops have the best navy and white and black and white prints we've ever found in house dresses.

Fashion photograph . . . from the west coast comes this cheerful young looking house dress made of a lovely yellow, green, and coral red print of desert scenery, complete to skylines and foliage. The skirt is peasant style gathered into a band top. The suspenders accent a short sleeved blouse and the handkerchief can be tied around the head or worn as a scarf.

Thomas Ideals Live in Concert to His Memory

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With a performance of Strauss' "Heldenleben" which would have delighted Theodore Thomas exceedingly, Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night concluded the annual concert designed to honor the memory of the founder and first conductor. Preceding the Strauss were the Beethoven "Prometheus" overture and the same composer's "Pastoral" symphony.

Aside from the sheer competence of last evening's playing of the "Heldenleben," the performance offered ample proof that in the thirty-two years since Thomas' death the organization which he nurtured has not degenerated into a virtuoso orchestra. Those purely musical ideals for which he fought so valiantly were transmitted from him to the violinist who played under his baton. They remained the most important part of the orchestra's invisible assets when that violinist, Frederick Stock, succeeded to the conductorship.

So the "Heldenleben" had simplicity and honesty of style, majestically flowing lines of the type which absolutely forbid even a suggestion of the unctuous in phrasing, and tone which welled naturally up according to the demands of the music.

Very seldom in recent years has the orchestra given any standard work a more revealing performance than last evening's "Pastoral" symphony. The tone was luminous and serene through most of the work, reasonably powerful, yet safely remote from stridency in the pathetic, early nineteenth century "storm" which so terrified Beethoven's contemporaries.

The open-hearted little melodies in which the "Pastoral" is so rich, flowed along with that impression of inevitability which is at once the most difficult and the least spectacular of all the tricks in an orchestra's bag.

This first Friday morning in January, which falls between the memorial concert of last evening and the repetition due this afternoon, is the proper time each year to meditate on the fact that, although the Chicago Symphony orchestra does not satisfy every one, it was founded and it is being continued on the principle that there are certain artistic values which are timeless.

When we fret about the fact that there are more brilliant orchestras in the world than ours, and that even a canvass of the telephone directory could produce at least twelve potential conductors with gestures far more violent and picturesque than Mr. Stock's, we should remember, too, that no organization in the land has been more consistent in living up to the letter of that majestic charter given by the Orchestral association to Theodore Thomas in 1891. He was endowed therein with "the power and responsibility for the attainment of the highest standard of artistic excellence in all the performances given by the association."

Eight Years of School Ahead, Boy Proposes!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I am 18, still go to school, and I intend going to college. The girl with whom I am in love is 19. We have kept company for two years and we fully realize by now that we were meant for each other. There can be no doubt that our love is real. BUT——

"Her parents object to her going with me exclusively, because they know that the course I intend to take will require eight years for me to complete. They think that this period is much too long to ask a girl to wait.

"My parents object for another reason. They say my mind should be kept on my studies and that traveling alone is best for a young man.

"To keep things quiet in our respective homes, we have been seeing each other quietly and without parental knowledge. Our parents think we are taking their advice.

"Lately I proposed to Bee and asked her if she would be willing to wait the eight years to give me time to work out my career, at the end of which time I surely would marry her. Because the university I plan to attend is far away, she probably will have little chance ever to see me, or I her. She agreed that she would wait an eternity if need be. Now, here are my questions:

"Do you think it is wise for us to have a pact between us?

"Do you think I am fair, asking this of a girl when I know that I couldn't stand eight years of separation and remain absolutely true and loyal to any girl?"

Your last query redeems you. When you get around to wondering, were you in the other person's place, what you would do, you are beginning to show real signs of intelligent thinking. You started out by introducing yourself as a young man wanting to monopolize a girl's time and love selfishly, we thought. But you are all right.

We would only suggest to you young persons to be open and above board about seeing each other. There is something unpleasant about these surreptitious meetings that bodes ill to your friendship. Why not tell the parents that you have decided it would be selfish and ridiculous to sign an eight year pact, but you would like to keep on being the inspirational friends you two young folks have been and are? Then let your future rest in the laps of the gods.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

One of the best looking as well as one of the most practical inventions in modern oven glassware is a new set of thin custard cups or casseroles and a low, shallow, larger casserole to match. These items are much thinner than the usual heatproof glass and can be used on the dining table as decorative assets.

Of course, they are not limited to custards. You can make individual fruit cakes in them, or puddings of any sort, or Bavarian cream, or fruit jelly.

This new set is proving immensely popular for it's as inexpensive as it is good looking.

Edgewater Hospital Staf Holds Dinner Tomorrow

'Turkey in the Straw' Played for Garner at White House Musical

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—"Turkey in the Straw," had a place on the program at the White House tonight, sandwiched between Brahms and Tschaikovsky, just to please Vice President Garner.

The occasion was the President's annual dinner for the vice president. The vice president doesn't like evening parties, doesn't like white ties and long tailed coats, and wouldn't swap any piece of Brahms for a good American square dance number.

So Percy Grainger, the American pianist and composer, agreed to play the time-honored "Turkey."

Some 70 guests were invited to the 8 o'clock dinner, and another 250 to hear Grainger and Madame Elisabeth Schumann, the soprano, after dinner.

Palmer house, and wives of Yale alumni are invited.

Yale-in-China was founded in 1924 and reorganized in 1929. Each year two members of the graduating class at Yale go to Yale-in-China to teach English at the preparatory school in connection with the college for two years. One of the instructors, Oscar Rand of New Hampshire, will be at the luncheon today, for he is spending the month in Chicago on his way from China to New Haven.

Dr. Wei has been appointed visiting professor of ethics at Yale. He was a dinner guest Wednesday of William B. Benton, vice president of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Benton. Dr. Francis S. Hutchins, brother of President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, is head of the American staf at Yale-in-China. The college has three schools—arts, education, and science.

Twelfth Night Party of Colony Club Tonight.

Tonight brings the traditional Twelfth Night party of the University Colony club, an evening when all of the members of the club and their children gather at Ida Noyes hall for a big family party. The program always includes a play, a burning of the greens ceremony, madrigal singing, supper, and dancing. Mrs. George O. Fairweather, as president of the club, is in charge of the party which climaxes a round of gay parties the club plans each holiday season.

The English-Speaking union has cards out for a musical tea at 4 o'clock Monday, Jan. 17, at the Casino, to meet Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, famous piano duo. Miss Bartlett and Mr. Robertson will give a short musical program at the tea. They are giving a concert the following night at Orchestra hall.

The Paul Rowans have cards out for cocktails from 4:30 until 7 o'clock Sunday at their East Division street apartment for Capt. and Mrs. Ambrogio Cassinerio of Vicenza, Italy.

Among the young married couples who were in Chicago over the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Collier, who visited Mrs. Collier's mother, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick. Mr. Collier's business called him back to Boston after New Year's day, but Mrs. Collier is staying on with her mother for a few days longer.

Frank W. Richardson is arriving from New York today to spend ten days with his son and daughter-in-law, the George A. Richardsons, while he attends the seventh annual conference of the American Institute of Decorators next week. Mr. Richardson is head of one of the oldest firms of interior designers in the country and is chairman of the board of governors of the American Institute of Decorators.

Bride-to-Be Hurt in Auto Accident.

A disappointment to the friends who were planning to give parties for Miss Virginia Healy before her wedding on Jan. 19 to Richard Page Sunderland, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sunderland of Hubbard Woods is the news that she will have to forego the gayeties because of an automobile accident the first part of the week. Her injuries were not serious, but she will have to stay rather quietly at home.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Edward S. Hill of Evanston, the former Miss Janet Healy, will be matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Robert Taylor of Plainfield, N. Y., who was the former Gorgiana Fowler of Winnetka, and Miss Betty Sunderland, sister of the bridegroom. Harry Neil of Chicago will be the best man. Mr. Sunderland has not yet completed the list of ushers but among them will be William F. Healy Jr., Mr. Hill, and Albert Stemwedel of Chicago.

Woman Talking Excessively Loses Great Deal of Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One recent evening we had occasion to observe a large group of women at an affair including a dinner and entertainment.

Suddenly our attention was arrested by a woman seated with a man at a table opposite. And was she laying down the law to him! Talk, talk, talk, and an expression on her face indicating that he'd better take it or he would get worse. Now, we may be all wrong on what was being said. We doubted our first judgment when we looked around at other tables to see what was going on. We counted one, two, four, seven table groups with women all doing the talking, the men patiently listening or, maybe, impatiently, just bored. Our curiosity now was thoroughly aroused and we continued counting the number of women holding forth. Curiously, with the talkers, when they held forth, their bearing and expression had that same "command" element noticed first at the nearby table. Arguing, for the sake of argument. Opinionated, that's it, as our escort dismissed the group in one word.

It was a group of so-called successful business women with a spattering of those in the professions.

"Why," said the escort, "don't you try to convince women that they never appear less attractive than when they're arguing somebody down? Why don't you broadcast the message that an opinionated woman is her own worst enemy, beauty and social?"

Well, our answer was that we get that way ourselves at times, but we would try to reform and, for his sake, pass the message on.

It is in the interests of charm, of course, that the topic is introduced here. Certainly, if a masculine vote were taken on charm features, no girl with an opinionated voice or manner would get a vote. We women know that. We hear it often enough, goodness knows. We hear the little women with not too much to say extolled by the sex that matters. Yet, we forget our cue. Probably we think that if we get ourselves up with the smartest coiffure, hat, and frock we can outdo that little woman with the well practiced listening ear. But we're wrong, so heaven help me, I am going to swear off this minute voicing opinions.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Tissue guest towels are really news. And good news. If you haven't seen them you must. They're just exactly what the name implies—guest sized towels made of tissue that strikes us as being about perfect in texture. It doesn't fall away in your wet fingers to stringy, pulpy wisps but neither is it harsh. They're in pastel colors, come twenty-four to a box, and are cleverly packed in a dispenser that takes little space and is in itself pretty easy to look at.

There's a good idea back of this. There have been jokes for as long as we can remember about the fancy towels put out for guests. Towels so fancy many guests are terrified to use them. And maybe they're wise in their terror. Lots of hostesses are only fooling when they hang the things on the rack.

These tissue guest towels will be a tremendous help in a house where there are children. They're cheap and easily disposed of. And from time immemorial children have smudged linen towels to the point where they look like shoe cloths. Training them to use these every day is one way to save the wear and tear on linen. And, of course, leaving them in the bathroom is a convenience for guests.

The container is tricky; we wish we were better at describing miraculous arrangements of flaps and folds than we are. The outer box has a cellophane window. The towels are folded into an inner carton with which you can do a couple of tricks. You can arrange the lower flaps so that it stands up, with towels accessible at the top, or you can hang it over a rack. The towels are arranged like tissues. You know . . . you pull out one and as it lifts out another pops up ready for the next reaching hand.

These are revolutionary, and we feel strongly that they're a swell invention. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Lectures on Textiles to Show Public How to Determine Quality

A course of public lectures on the textile industry was announced yesterday by the university college of Northwestern university. In nontechnical language, with slide and motion picture illustrations, the course is designed to appeal to consumers and housewives as well as merchants and sales people.

Beginning Feb. 10, the lectures will be presented on Thursday evenings in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus. Against a historical background of the textile arts, the lectures will give information so that all may judge more expertly all kinds of fabrics, recognize synthetic fibers, and judge the quality of textures.

The group of authorities supervising the planning of the lectures includes experts from Chicago merchandising concerns.

According to CULBERTSON

POOR EXPLORING.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is a remarkable fact that often, in the search for the correct final contract, the best suit is not even mentioned. In a recent eight table duplicate game in Crockford's club, New York, where the standard of play is certainly above average, only one North-South pair reached the correct final bid. All the others mistakenly pinned their faith to the higher trick value, but much lower flexibility, of no trump.

The bidding at several tables was as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

At other tables South bid only one spade over one diamond. North then rebid two diamonds and South next jumped to three spades. This turned out no better, since North's next action was to bid three no trump, and South retired from further bidding.

The top score team took quite a different view of the matter. In this case the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	7 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

Having located the two aces in South's hand, North chose to bid six diamonds rather than six clubs, as a combination small slam bid and grand slam "try." North felt that if South had the ace and one or two other diamonds he would pass to six diamonds, which, of course, would be quite satisfactory. If he had the blank ace he would go to seven clubs, which would be equally so.

Obviously the grand slam in clubs was made without difficulty, the diamond king being easily ruffed away.

From a purely academic viewpoint it usually is correct to rebid a six card suit before showing a four card suit. But, in this case, North took the sensible view that it surely could do no harm to show his respectable club suit before rebidding his longer but anemic diamond suit.

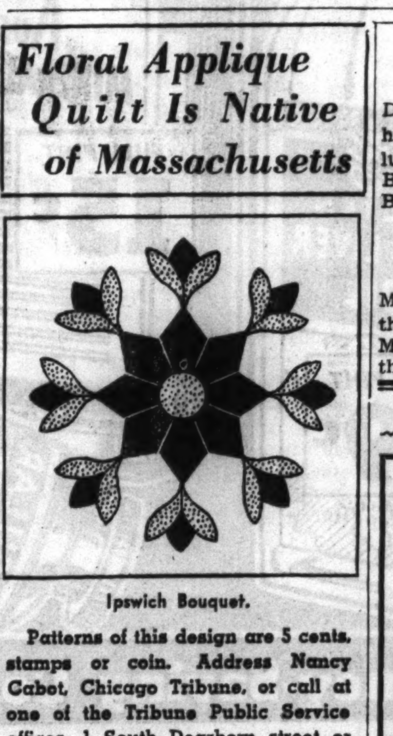
Floral Applique Quilt Is Native of Massachusetts



Ipswich Bouquet.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

There is no question as to the origin of this inspired applique block. From the town of Ipswich in Essex county, Massachusetts, came this 12 inch applique block. It was created about the year 1859. It marched bravely west with the rest of the pioneers and soon became as well known as the early quilts brought west by the '49ers. The applique blocks are set together with four inch bands of white material. The original color scheme was turkey red, green, and white. Fortunate women with English relatives were able to obtain an orange printed material to combine with green and white. The overall dimensions of the coverlet are 91 by 107 inches.

Bridge Luncheon.

The Martha Washington club for Dependent Crippled Children will have its annual membership bridge luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. William B. Bowers is president.

Mothers Often Guilty of Too Much Talking

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Just because we are parents and because children have so much to learn and because they make so many mistakes and because we have to watch over them and direct them, we necessarily do a lot of talking.

Perhaps this is the reason why it is so easy for mothers, particularly those who are with their children all day long, to talk too much. I am sure there are lots of little children who, if they had that kind of awareness, would feel like saying a dozen times a day, "Oh mother, please don't talk all the time!" I am sure there are lots of our older sons and daughters who, if they did not think it would be rude, would often want to say, "O, mother, please don't talk all the time." Being children they don't say these things. However, I think we might all do a little private research on this subject—research being so popular these days!

To begin with we all give our children directions about what to do and how to do things a good deal of the time. But instead of letting it go at that, we often get into the habit of actually deluging them with directions, even when they are quite capable of doing the thing alone with only the normal number of mistakes, which is part of their experience.

When reproving a child, we are apt to repeat ourselves unnecessarily.

In scolding a child we are very apt to go "on and on and on," long after we have covered the subject completely.

Now let's see what some of the objections of talking too much are:

In the first place, you spoil the effectiveness of what you already have said by talking beyond a certain point.

In the second place, you are apt to magnify a very simple thing.

In the third place, your children are pretty sure of becoming what we can best describe as "mother deaf."

And in the last place, talking takes a great deal of energy. You will be surprised how much of this valuable commodity you will save yourself and how much more peaceful you'll feel if you pare away, as much as possible, this unneccessary talk.

"Tips for Tired Mothers," is a leaflet that may help you through your day. This will be sent to you upon receipt of a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your request to Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

FIRST CUBS TO LEAVE FOR TRAINING CAMP FEB. 21

GRIMM PICKS 17 FOR ROOKIE ADVANCE SQUAD

Contract Business Is Now Only Worry.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Grimm, the Cub manager, and Owner P. K. Wrigley, after two days of searching for each other, finally collided yesterday in the latter's office and made short work of a few unsettled details pertaining to the spring training junket to the Catalina Island proving grounds.

One piece of business was to pick a date for starting the freshman squad to the conditioning lot. This was disposed of by naming Feb. 21, exactly one week before the previously determined getaway for the regulars. Sorting of names for the No. 1 and No. 2 squads also was completed. Now all that Manager Grimm has to do before returning to his Missouri farm chores is to talk with Wrigley about the figures to be inserted in the contracts which will be shipped out shortly to the boys.

So far Outfielder Carl Reynolds, Coach and Utility Infielder Tony Lazzeri, and, of course, Grimm are the only gentlemen under contract.

17 in First Squad.

Until Grimm arrived in the city the club officials had hinted that the kindergarten class might extend over a period of ten days to two weeks. The manager apparently won that argument, if there was an argument. Grimm also held his ground on the matter of permitting regulars to drift in with the first squad. The regulars will be advised that they will not be provided with uniforms and free board until the daily steamer docks at the island on March 3.

The rookie squad, a few of whom hardly rank under that heading, will be made up of 17 players, as follows: Pitchers Clay Bryant, Albert Paul Epperly, Kirby Higbe, Clyde Shoun, Leroy Parmelee, Bob Logan, Newel Kimball; Catchers Gabby Hartnett, Ken O'Dea, Bob Garbark; Infielders Steve Mesner, Bob Mattick, Tony Lazzeri, Tony York; Outfielders Jim Asbell, Herman Coaker Triplett, Carl Reynolds. Coaches Roy Johnson and John Corriden, Secretary Robert C. Lewis, Trainer Andrew Lotshaw and Grimm will accompany this group.

Personnel of Regulars.

The departure of the regulars from Chicago the night of Feb. 28 won't be much of a ceremony. Only four or five will be in the contingent, the others reporting in California. This entire squad now consists of Billy Herman, Tex Carleton, Phil Cavarretta, Rip Collins, Curt Davis, Frank Demaree, Larry French, Charley Root, Linus Frey, Augie Galan, Stanley Hack, Bill Jurges, Bill Lee, Joe Marty, Tuck Stainback, Julian Tubb, and Harold Sueme.

Between Wednesday and yesterday, Pitcher C. W. Flowers vanished from the roster, probably in the direction of the Birmingham, Ala., club. Tubb, a kid pitcher from Helena, Ark., and Sueme, a catcher recalled from Birmingham, also may disappear within the next few weeks. Their departure would give Grimm a squad of 32 players unless a deal such as the much talked of Van Lingle Mungo affair should be put over.

When the kindergarten class opens the members won't be permitted to cut paper dolls or ride around the island in kiddie kars. They'll be treated to one thorough daily drill on the ball field.

Bonura's Annual Act Opens.

From J. Louis Comiskey's White Sox headquarters yesterday, came intimations that Zeke Bonura, the muscular first baseman, had gone into training for his annual salary debate. Comiskey is supposed to have submitted an offer and it bounced back from New Orleans just as he anticipated. Zeke always asks for about double the salary tendered, knowing that in the end that he will sign for a couple of hundred over the original bid.

However, with training almost two months away Bonura's ideas of high finance can hardly put him in the holdout class. Zeke is merely negotiating and as he delights to see his name in the public prints he'll keep it going as long as possible. Salary negotiations also are going on between Comiskey and Catcher Luke Sewell, who while here for the last December baseball meetings, furnished his employer an idea of what is expected in the shape of salary for 1938.

A. A. WILL USE NEW NATIONAL LEAGUE BALL

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—(AP)—George M. Trautman, president of the American association, announced today that the eight club league had cast its lot with the National league for 1938 and had adopted a less lively ball. The National league adopted the new ball, while the American circuit has decided to retain the "rabbit ball."

Famous Diamond Protests

Johnny Evers of Cubs Registers a Complaint and Reds Get Balled Up

[This is the fifth of a series of articles covering big league games, the outcomes of which, because of difference of opinion over fine technical points, were protested to the league presidents.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Between Johnny Evers, the Cub firebrand of ancient days, and a couple of baseballs on the field at the same time, Umpires Hank O'Day and Bob Emslie experienced a few stormy minutes at the now vanished Chicago west side park on Sept. 8, 1911. The Cubs won, 3 to 2, in eleven innings, but, because of a protest filed by the opposition, the Cincinnati Reds, a week elapsed before a decision by Thomas J. Lynch, the league president, made the victory official.

Evers contributed to the strange mixup by getting himself tossed out of the game, that being a common occurrence for the Trojan. The other contributing factor was the habit at the old west side park of throwing back on the field balls which had been retrieved from spectators or from kids outside the grounds. The extra ball and the Evers explosion came while a play was in progress, making ideal grounds for Cincinnati's plea that the game be replayed.

Before he cooled off, Clark Griffith, manager of the Reds at the time, sat down and compiled his complaint. He covered the matter in this fashion:

"In the sixth inning, score 0 to 0, Bates was on second and Marsans on first with two out. Esmond hit a ball between third base and short. Tinker got it with one hand after a hard try. Bates attempted to score and Tinker threw home. Bates was caught in a run-down, but in tagging the runner Pitcher Richter of the Cubs dropped the ball. Both Bates and Marsans scored and Esmond got to third.

"Evers made a kick to Umpire O'Day, claiming Bates had knocked the ball out of Richter's hand. O'Day ordered Evers out of the game. Just before Evers was ordered out, a ball that had been fouled off was thrown onto the diamond. Evers had it in his hand when O'Day ejected him. Evers, in a rage, threw the ball down on the ground. Esmond, thinking that it was the ball in play, started for home. At this stage Richter ran over and touched Esmond with the other ball and O'Day called Esmond out. I immediately notified Mr. O'Day that the Cincinnati club would play the game under protest.

It Seems There Were Too Many Balls Around.

"My claim is based on the two following points: First, there were two balls on the diamond at the time Esmond attempted to score. Second: Evers was out of the game at the time Esmond attempted to score. Chicago had only eight men in the game at the time the decision was made. When Evers was put out of the game time should have been called until he had left the field and a substitute player had taken his place."

August Garry Herrmann, president of the Reds, fired a broadside from Cincinnati. In his plea to President Lynch the Reds' executive cited rules to show that Umpire O'Day had erred. One of these rules says that "in no case shall more or less than nine men be allowed to play on a side in a game." The other rule to which Herrmann referred covered suspension of play by the umpire's orders. In this rule is a stipulation that time shall be called in order to remove an objectionable player from the grounds.

Umpire O'Day, in his report to Lynch, substantiated the Reds' statement of facts, except that he put them in their correct order.

Johnny Must Have Thought It Was Football.

"Tinker and Evers claimed Bates knocked the ball out of Richter's hand," O'Day reported. "I would not allow the claim. While the Chicago men were kicking, Esmond moved over to third base. I was trying to get the Chicago men to go back to their positions. While they were still kicking Esmond came running in to the plate. Richter had the ball waiting for him and touched Esmond ten feet away from the plate.

"I then saw Tinker, Chicago shortstop, kicking a ball. This ball had been fouled into or over the stand and was thrown in the diamond, as they do here with all foul balls which are recovered. Evers used insulting

LOYOLA DEFEATS UTAH FIVE, 53-28; KAUTZ IS STAR

Ramblers Lead, 37 to 8, After First Half.

Loyola university's fifth basketball victory of the season, scored at the expense of the University of Utah in Alumni gymnasium last night, was little more than a light workout. Running up a 37 to 8 margin in the first half, the Ramblers coasted the rest of the way to a 53 to 28 decision.

Even Wilbur [Wibs] Kautz, Loyola's high scoring guard, who added eighteen points to make his total for the season 103, was content with a lone free throw in the second half. Kautz fed passes to Mike Novak, who counted eleven points, nine of them after the intermission.

Utah, which usually cuts quite a figure in its own Rocky Mountain conference, is a better basketball team than the score indicates. The players, tired from a close battle with the Bradley five Wednesday night, plainly were off form in passing and, to add to their woes, Center Howard Berg, scoring mainstay, was ill and unable to play more than a third of the game.

The westerners took full advantage of Loyola's letdown in the second half. Entering the period with the score 37 to 8 against them, they collected 20 points while Loyola was making 16.

UMPIRE OWENS RETIRED; THIRD TO LEAVE STAF

Clarence [Brick] Owens, who umpired for twenty-two years in the American league, has been placed on the retired list, President William Harridge announced yesterday. Illness was advanced as the reason for Owens' retirement. Owens umpired over a 35 year period, his career including service in several minor leagues and both majors.

Owens is the third member of last year's staf to depart. Charles Johnston, who with one or two other umpires was reported to have complained that the league president was too lenient in disciplining players for unruly conduct on the field, was recently released to the American association. Bill Dinneen resigned and was later placed on the newly created retired list, which carries a monthly remittance from the league.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night abandoned their happy habit of beating the New York Rangers. The Hawks, after winning five straight from the New Yorkers, including three in a row this season, were obliged to submit to a 4 to 1 whipping before 10,000 at the Chicago Stadium.

The Hawks fought hard enough, but seemed to have the feeling that Ol' Man Percentage was skating with the Rangers. At least, they did not seem surprised when they finished on the short end of the score after two 3 to 1 successes in New York and a 2 to 1 triumph they negotiated when the Rangers were here Dec. 2.

Jiggers! The Wings!

The defeat had some ominous aspects beyond the breaking of the Hawk success chain in competition with the skilful New Yorkers. The Detroit Red Wings, by tying the New York Americans, gained a half game on the Hawks, thus trimming the Hawks' lead a game and a half in three nights. As a consequence Hawk chances to get into the Stanley cup playoff are dimming considerably.

The lone Hawk goal last night was a lucky one in the first period by Doc Romnes. For the victors, Alex Shibicky and Butch Keeling scored in the first period. Cecil Dillon counted in the second period, and Bryan Hextall whanged one in in the final session.

Rangers Score Quickly.

Midway in the first period the Rangers scored two goals in a span of less than two minutes, thus exceeding their total score in each of their three preceding games with the Hawks. The first goal was scored by Shibicky in 10:12, a few seconds after Watson had returned to the ice after serving the first penalty of the game.

After the Hawks had eased up their power attack with the return of Watson, the Rangers moved into the Chicago defense zone. They executed a ring-round-rosie maneuver which the Hawks seemed powerless to break up, though Goalie Karakas repeatedly kicked out the rubber in the frantic hope that eventually it would find a teammate's paddle. But it never did and finally Shibicky smacked in a goal from closein, with Watson and Dillon getting assists for routine nudges which preceded the tally.

A Lucky One for Keeling.

The second Ranger goal was not as pure in execution as the first one, though a rush by Watson and Cooper to the mouth of the cage was skilled enough. But the goal was lucky, for Keeling batted the puck while it was two feet off the ice and the darned thing went in. The time of Keeling's goal was 11:35.

If there was ground for calling Keeling's goal lucky the Rangers may have said something about the score which Romnes rang up 17 seconds before the close of the first period. Doc, March, and Thompson were sniping at Goalie Kerr's boots and seemed to be without luck when Romnes took a mighty back hand swing at a rolling puck. And the thing went spinning right past Goalie Kerr. The time was 19:43.

Dillon Gets Third Goal.

The Rangers' third goal, which tied their previous season total against the Hawks, was scored by Dillon in 9:47 of the second period. Pratt picked up the puck deep in his own defense zone, skated unmolested down left center ice, then passed to Dillon on his right, after feinting Karakas out of Dillon's way. Dillon had no difficulty in beating Karakas from about 12 feet out.

The fourth New York goal was scored by Hextall in 13:49 of the final period, after the puck had been retrieved from a mêlée in front of the Ranger cage. Kirk took the rubber down the rink, then passed laterally to Keeling and Hextall, the latter taking the final pass for a close-up goal.

2 MORE CLUBS ENTER SILVER SKATES DERBIES

Olympic, Midwest Groups to Compete.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Entries from the Olympic Skating club and the Midwest Athletic club for the 21st Silver Skates Derbies Jan. 15 and 16 at Garfield park were received yesterday. These are two of the clubs which probably cannot press the Northwest Skating club and the Catholic Youth organization in their fight for the team championship in the eight Derbies, but, like the Latko Skating club, Tilden Tech, Aurora, and Elgin teams, they hope to win one or more of the eight pairs of Silver Skates.

The Midwest team is active again after several seasons. John Bretz, former national half mile and 5 mile champion, who was an alternate on the 1936 United States Olympic skating team, is coach.

Developing Young Skaters.

"The club is not attempting to gather a group of stars," Coach Bretz said in submitting his list of entries, "but rather is working with young boys in the hope of developing them into stars in the future. At the present time the Midwest Athletic club has Buddy Solem, who was last year's Silver Skates champion in the midget class and who will compete in the Juvenile Derby this year. Tom Baacke, Intermediate Silver Skates champion last year, now has advanced to the Men's Senior Derby."

Walter Boberg also is entered in the senior division, while Bob Josephson, Harry Nelson, and Raymond Meyers have been nominated in the Boys' Junior Derby.

Albert Fischer, president of the Olympic Skating club, has entered 26 skaters in seven of the eight Derbies. The men's senior list, headed by Wilbur Marks-Menne, numbers eleven of the group. Helen Swierkos is the representative in the Girls' Senior 1 mile championship. The Olympic Skating club entries follow:

BOYS' JUNIOR—Charles Reid, Arthur Dalton.

BOYS' JUVENILE—Eddie Planert, Edward Malinowski, Ray Dalton.

BOYS' MIDGET—Robert Cerva, Donald Cerva.

GIRLS' SENIOR—Helen Swierkos.

Playgrounds Enter Teams.

Otto Kaecke of Belding playground yesterday submitted the names of seventeen boys who will skate Jan 15 and 16. John Gotz of Mozart playground has entered forty-eight boys who will compete in the Derbies for those under 18 years of age. The list is approxmately divided between four Derbies, with fourteen entered in the Boys' Juvenile race.

Three days remain in which to enter Silver Skates. No entry will be accepted if postmarked later than midnight Sunday.

307 ENTER ELGIN MEET

Four states have filed entries for 307 contestants for the Tri-State skating meet to be held at Lord's park, Elgin, on Sunday afternoon.

Although there are 20 events listed, fourteen of them are non-championship contests, for youngsters and men and women in the various classes and age groups. Only fifty men and twenty-five women will compete in the championship events.

The fastest men from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri will start in the four events for Tri-State honors. The distances are 440 yards, one-half mile, one mile, and two miles. The twenty-five women who will race in the two title tests are also the speediest in the four states. They are scheduled to race the 440 yard dash and one mile events for a diamond watch award.

Former Olympic Stars Entered.

Wisconsin will have two former Olympic stars of 1936 in Bob Petersen and Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee. Other Wisconsin stars include Gerald Guttormsen of Kenosha, Walter Jaeger of Watertown, Joe Yanz of Beaver Dam, and Eugene Lamb and Bob Goodman of Milwaukee.

Missouri has a former Canadian title holder among its stars, Alex Hurd, who was a star in 1933 and who, two years ago, moved to St. Louis to become a member of the Missouri squad.

Iowa's best are the Dennis brothers, Larry and Bob. But the largest list comes from Chicago. The favorites among Chicagoans are Eddie Schroeder, Vic Ronchetti, Bernie Canatta, Bob Sherman, Tony Neberz, Ray Doersam, and Al Kucera.

KAISER INN WINS.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Kaiser Inn of Valparaiso defeated the Michigan City Dictators in a basketball game tonight, 41 to 32.

Apostoli Meets Steele; Title Bout at Stake

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Fred Apostoli realizes that it is up to him either to win decisively on points or to score a knockout when he meets Freddie Steele, middleweight champion, in a 12 round nontitle bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

A knockout or a decisive victory on points would raise Apostoli to the position of outstanding challenger. If he achieves this, he expects to file a challenge with the New York boxing commission to prevent Steele's meeting any one else in this state before giving Apostoli a chance at the title.

Natural for Next Summer.

The boys are rivals of long standing. There is no friendship between their managers, and to complete the grudge angle, Steele has been criticized for his apparent unwillingness to give Apostoli a chance at his title.

The champion is a 5 to 8 favorite with the gamblers.

They've Met Before.

It will be the second meeting of the two. Three years ago Steele was awarded a ten round technical knockout when the referee stopped the fight after Apostoli's eye had been cut. Apostoli had been floored for a short count in the ninth round.

JEFFRA MEETS ESCOBAR

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Harry Jeffra of Baltimore, recognized holder of the world's bantamweight boxing championship, will defend his title on Feb. 19 or 20 against Sixto Escobar, former champion, at San Juan, Porto Rico. Arrangements for the bout were completed today following a conference between Gov. Blanton Winship of Porto Rico and Bill Farnsworth, vice president of the Twentieth Century Sporting club. Escobar, who lost the crown to Jeffra last September, will sail for Porto Rico tomorrow to begin training.

South Chicago Y. M. C. A. Beats Sears, Roebuck

The South Chicago Y. M. C. A. lightweights defeated the Sears-Roebuck quintet, 19 to 15, in the Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament last night. In a practice game the South Chicago heavies won from Sears, 43 to 38.

BROWN BATTLES ZIVIC; AMATEURS HAVE NIGHT, TOO

Wrestling Fans Also May Indulge Fancy.

A professional boxing card will be held at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue; a professional wrestling program is scheduled at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and amateur boxing shows will be presented at Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, and Northwest arena, 3968 Milwaukee avenue.

Eddie Helstrom vs. Johnny Rock [4], welterweights.
Jack Pumphrey vs. Eddie Dykes [4], heavyweights.

Big Jim Clintstock vs. Andy Moen.
Pat Murphy vs. Scotty McDougal.
Rudy Hoffman vs. Johnny Mason.

The amateur bill at the Madison club will be featured by a five round bout between Lou Angelucci, 124th Field Artillery armory star, and Eural McLaughlin of the Savoy Athletic club. In the five round secondary feature Chester Kozen is paired with Wood Wells.

A capacity crowd of more than 3,000 is expected at the Fronton when Brown seeks his tenth straight victory at the expense of Zivic. The Chicago Golden Gloves product went undefeated in 1937, his third season as a professional. Zivic, in his second appearance since winning a hard batale against pneumonia last summer, lost a ten round fight to Tommy Bland at Pittsburgh Christmas afternoon. In his first comeback start, however, Fritzie knocked out Frankie Portland in the second round at Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 27.

Jimmy Clark, professional rookie from Jamestown, N. Y., who distinguished himself in the 1936 American Golden Gloves Olympic tournament, will make his Chicago debut in a six round contest with Bob La Monte.

All entrants in the annual amateur boxing tournament at the Illinois Athletic club Wednesday, Thursday, and Jan. 19 must report to be weighed in and examined on the opening day of the meet, Edward Parkes of the Central A. A. U. announced yesterday. Any candidate weighing more than one pound over his classified weight division must enter the next class or be disqualified. Entries close Sunday. The Catholic Youth organization's team entry will be submitted today, Tom O'Connell, C. Y. O. boxing director, said last night. This list, which is expected to exceed twenty-five names, will bring the total entry to approximately 100. F. M.

MARKSMEN OF 4 CLUBS TO SHOOT AT GLEN VIEW

Seventy-five marksmen from four Chicago district clubs will compete in the first interclub trap shoot of the season at the Glen View club tomorrow. The home club will be represented by 30 shooters, South Shore by 20, Exmoor by 15, and Onwentsia by 10. The traps will be open for practice at 10:30 a. m.

I get a laugh—
Because we sell more MEISTER BRÄU than any other Bottled Beer around here . . . and we still make it like they made it when I was a boy
By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

We Bottle or Can with NATURAL DRAFT BEER CARBONATION
—thus we get the true draft beer flavor without "gassy bite"

Lots of folk think the public doesn't know the difference between beer made with machine-age methods and the old-time, slow-made beer. But I know better. Because people in this vicinity buy more Meister Bräu than any other bottled beer. And I'm mighty proud that we still make it just as we did 'way back in 1891.

I'll admit our methods are slow. We had Meister Bräu in cans for eight months before releasing it to the public. We took all that time to satisfy ourselves we could satisfy you.

Then we're just as slow in our method of brewing. We could save time and trouble by using sugars or syrups. But we prefer to rely on our skill in brewing our beer directly from old-time ingredients.

We pay a premium for the finest malt and hops. We clean them carefully before boiling. This enables us to reduce the boiling time one-half.

I'm sure you'll agree that our methods make a real difference in the beer. Order Meister Bräu today in bottles or cans. You'll be glad you found a beer made with old-time care.

WELLS SENIORS DEFEAT AUSTIN, 33-24, IN 2D HALF

Du Sable Beats Harrison; Farragut Wins.

Wells High school, defending champion in the senior division of the City High School Basketball league, opened its schedule with a 33 to 24 victory over Austin yesterday in the Wells gymnasium. After trailing, 13 to 12, at the half, Wells went on a scoring spree that netted sixteen points in the third quarter and clinched the decision.

Ten other senior games were played yesterday. Led by Clark with twenty-three points, Du Sable ran up the highest score, a 45 to 28 triumph over Harrison.

A seventeen point last quarter enabled Farragut to pull out a 32 to 30 victory over Kelly in the closest battle of the day. After being blanked in the second quarter, Farragut trailed, 16 to 9, at the half. Kelly increased its lead to 24 to 15 in the third period, then the Farragut boys started hitting the hoop so consistently that they could not be denied victory. Lineups:

MORGAN PARK, BOWEN FIVES PLAY 24-24 TIE

Ten more teams joined the race for the City Public high school league junior basketball championship yesterday. All the games were close and one ended in a tie.

The deadlock involved Bowen and Morgan Park, which left the floor with the score at 24 apiece without attempting an overtime period. Each team was awarded one point in the league standings, but in the event that either is involved for the south section title, the game will be replayed. Bowen led, 16 to 4, at the half, but Morgan Park was decidedly superior in the last two periods.

Von Steuben, with ten free throws to its oponent's five, defeated Waller, 38 to 35, in the highest scoring junior game. Clark contributed three baskets and six free throws to the winners' total.

In other games, Hyde Park vanquished Parker, 22 to 19; Schurz whipped Lake View, 26 to 19; and Wells beat Austin, 27 to 23. Lineups:

Pick U.S. Track Committee for 1940 Olympics

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association, tonight announced the names of twelve men nominated for membership on the United States Olympic track and field committee for the 1940 international games at Tokio.

The twelve were nominated by the National Collegiate Athletic association and the Amateur Athletic union. The American Olympic association executive committee, meeting here Saturday, will approve the makeup of the various committees.

Heading the nominees announced by Brundage was Earl J. Thomson, 1920 Olympic hurdles champion and now head track coach at the United States Naval academy. He was one of a half dozen named by the N. C. A. A., which also nominated Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson of Northwestern, Alfred Masters of Stanford, W. C. Hunter of Southern California, Wilbur Hutsell of Auburn, and Emett Brunson of Rice institute.

Donoghue Named.

The A. A. U. selections were Judge Thomas T. Reilley, New York; Ward Waylett, Kansas State college; Edward S. Parsons, Northeastern university; George T. Donoghue, Chicago; Edwin F. Schaefer, Buffalo, and John S. Coates, San Francisco.

In the track and field committee for the Olympics the group will be made up of six members each from the N. C. A. A. and the A. A. U. This dozen will select a thirteenth member.

Brundage announced Walter Wright of Chicago as an A. A. U. nominee for the ice hockey committee. Other Chicago nominees were J. Lyman Bingham, basketball, and M. D. Vail, yachting.

Executive Committee Enlarged.

The executive committee of the association brought its membership to 37 with the election of ten new members. The new members are:

Romeyn Berry, former graduate manager of Cornell university, now with the New Yorker magazine; Dr. John Brown, New York, secrtary of the international board of the Young Men's Christian association; William J. Bingham of Cambridge, Mass., graduate manager of athletics at Harvard and manager of the 1936 American Olympic track and field team; J. Frank Facey, Cambridge, Mass., member of the 1936 Olympic committee; Clement B. Newbold, Jenkintown, Pa., manager of the 1936 American Olympic rowing squad; Prof. William Owens, Stanford university, president of the N. C. A. A.; Roswell R. Rosengren, Buffalo, N. Y., president of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce; Prof. L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State university; Fred L. Steers, manager of the women's track and field team in the 1936 Olympics; and Maj. Patrick Walsh, New York, quartermaster of the 1936 Olympic team.

Morton Junior Beats La Salle Five, 40 to 30

Diamond Protests

language. That is in my previous report. I put him out of the game after three men were out. I waved Evers back to his position before that, but did not order him out of the game at that time. No time was called as Esmond was the third man out. When the Chicago team took the field in the next inning Doyle had replaced Evers."

President Lynch, after deliberating over the evidence, handed down this decision:

"The protest of the Cincinnati club is based on the fact that Evers' ejection from the game carried with it suspension of play until another player took his place.

"If the submitted evidence substantiated the above claim, the protest would have been well taken. In the evidence submitted by Umpire O'Day he states that while Evers and Tinker were disputing with him and while he was waving them back to their positions, Player Esmond tried to score from third and was declared out when touched with the ball by Pitcher Richter. Umpire O'Day further states that he did not put Evers out of the game until after three were out and that time was not called.

"The fact of another ball being thrown in the diamond from the stands does not enter into the case, as this very often happens while a play is in progress. The evidence shows that the umpire violated no rules in rendering his decision and the protest of the Cincinnati club is disallowed."

Owens' Chances of Reinstatement Considered Slim

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The plans of Jesse Owens, colored track star of the 1936 Olympic games, for reinstatement as an amateur apparently are doomed to failure, according to information obtained today at the offices of the Amateur Athletic union. Although officials refused to be quoted, it was pointed out that no athlete under A. A. U. jurisdiction ever has been reinstated.

Officials said that Owens, who applied for reinstatement through the Northwestern Ohio section yesterday, probably did not receive any payment for his race against a horse at Havana a year ago, but that undoubtedly his manager did. They also said they understood Owens had been paid for his work as a speaker in Gov. Landon's presidential campaign. They said they had been given to understand that the former Ohio State university track captan had paid $15,000 in income tax.

It was said at the A. A. U. offices that Owens' application was intended as a publicity stunt for the basketball team with which he is now touring the central states before going on to the Pacific coast.

AMERICANS MAY PROVIDE THRILLS AT NORGE MEET

They Prefer Distance to Form on Skis.

Skiers who have learned their jumping on American slides may give the crowd most of its thrills in the annual international tournament sponsored by the Norge Ski club, to be held at Fox River Grove, Ill., Sunday, Jan. 16.

Foreign stars, who are stylists, are expected to show better form, but the American jumpers, who sacrifice form for distance, are considered likely to prove more popular with the crowd.

Among American skiers who will compete are Sverre Fredheim, who won the most important tournament held in the central district so far, that at Devil's Lake, Wis., in which he jumped 175 and 177 feet; Jimmy Hendriksen, Eau Claire, Wis., who made jumps of 170 and 178 feet for second place at Devil's Lake, and Eugene Wilson, Coleraine, Minn., who was third. Other stars who will compete are Alf Engen, who holds distance records for most of the hills on which he has jumped; Roy Mikkelsen, formerly of the Norge club who now represents Auburn, Cal., and Paul Bietila of Ishpeming, Mich.

One-way approaches to the club grounds are to be arranged by the Chicago Motor club to prevent trafic congestion.

W-G-N TO CARRY 'IN OLD CHICAGO' PREMIERE JAN. 14

Hollywood Show Will Be Described—and How!

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Hollywood's première of the movie, "In Old Chicago," which pictures the great fire of 1871, is to be aired over W-G-N-Mutual exclusively from the Four Star theater at 10:30 p. m., Friday, Jan. 14. Don Ameche, Alice Faye, Tyrone Power, Alice Brady, George Fischer, Jack Haley, and other headliners all will be heard. Andy Devine, the gravel tongued comedian of the Jack Benny program, is to describe the opening from a blimp, and the Ritz Brothers will make some comments from atop a horse drawn fire engine.

June Meredith, long popular on W-G-N's Behind the Camera Lines and on First Nighter, is to take over the leading rôle of Joan Houston in the NBC serial, A Tale of Today, starting Sunday. Ethel Owen takes over the part of the stepmother, and Bob Jellison is an addition to the cast.

The address of Herbert Hoover at the annual luncheon of the Women's National Republican club in New York on Saturday, Jan. 15, is to be aired over CBS from 2 to 2:30 p. m. . . . Tom M. Girdler, militant leader of the Republic Steel corporation, will reply to Robert H. Jackson's recent attack on "big business" in an address before the Lehigh club to be broadcast over Mutual at 9 p. m. Thursday, Jan. 20.

Radio associates are extending sympathy to A. J. Kendrick, vice president in charge of the World Broadcasting system here, whose wife, Betty McLean, died suddenly following an operation. She was widely known in studios both as an actress and writer.

Bob Becker, back from a quail hunting expedition in Florida, is polishing off the first of his new dog program series, which will reach the air via W-G-N at 2:45 next Sunday. The program will also be heard on an NBC network. Bob plans to use a "talking dog" to put over at least a part of the sponsor's sales talk.

NBC is experimenting with various nonrustling materials for the programs which are distributed to the 1,400 guests each Saturday night at the Toscanini symphonic broadcasts. The idea is to find some material that will not rustle or crackle over the sensitive NBC microphones — and in the still more sensitive Toscanini ears. A heavy type of blotting paper was first tried, then sheets of rayon. This Saturday a cork composition will be tested. You might listen and ascertain whether cork gets in your ears.

George Biggar of WLS reports that the station through its Christmas Neighbors fund collected more than $6,000 from 4,000 listeners. With the money 125 new wheel chairs were purchased for children's wards in sixty-five midwestern hospitals. . . . A broadcast over WJJD at 2 p. m. Sunday is to launch the city-wide drive for funds for a civic monument dedicated to the great Czech leader, Thomas Masaryk. . . . Sylvia Clark, NBC monologist, will go east this week-end for a series of radio engagements in New York and theater appearances in Boston.

Edward N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor and manager of labor's radio station, WCFL, left a $25,602 estate, according to an inventory filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Nockels, who died last Feb. 27, left his estate to his widow, Edna.

It consists, according to the inventory, of goods and chattels worth $1,325; $18,327 in currency, $3,800 in government bonds; $1,650 in postal savings certificates; a $500 bond in a benevolent association; and a certificate for two breeding units in the Montana Muskrat company.

Charitable Trusts Left by Browning Are Upheld

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Surrogate James A. Delehanty today upheld the validity of the six charitable trusts established in the will of Edward West Browning, real estate operator who died in 1934, and at the same time ruled that his adopted daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Browning Hood of Dunn, N. C., is to receive $25,000 a year until a trust is established. Mrs. Hood fought the charitable bequests on the ground that they exceeded the amount allowed by law. Mrs. Hood also lost a suit in which she sought to be declared sole heir to Browning's estate of 7 to 10 million dollars. Frances Heenan [Peaches] Browning won a dower right to one-third of the estate.

Sharp Reduction Shown in Pneumonia Deaths

A sharp reduction in deaths from pneumonia occurred in Chicago last year, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, reported yesterday. There were 8,010 cases during the year resulting in 2,183 deaths, or 519 fewer than in 1936. He attributed part of the decline to better treatment of patients by physicians using specific pneumonia serums.

Will Disposes of Estate Valued at $300,000

Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday admitted to probate the will of Mrs. Agnes H. McBride, widow of a Detroit manufacturer, who died Nov. 25 in her home at 33 East Bellevue place. Most of her $300,000 estate is left to a son, Walter Paul McBride, 1390 North Lake road, Lake Forest.

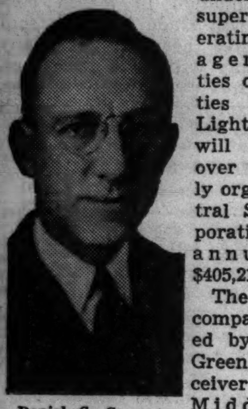
COURT ORDERS PLAN TO MANAGE UTILITIES POWER

Service Company to Get Annual Fee.

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday approved an arrangement under which the supervision of operating and management activities of the Utilities Power and Light corporation will be turned over to the newly organized Central Service corporation for an annual fee of $405,215.



Daniel C. Green.

The service company is headed by Daniel C. Green, former receiver of the old Middle West Utilities company and president of the successor Middle West corporation until a few Utilities Power, holding company for utility properties valued at more than $400,000,000, has been in federal court for several months, seeking to reorganize under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

Trustee Recommends Plan.

Willoughby G. Walling, trustee for the company, recommended the hiring of Green's firm to service the subsidiary properties. The step was opposed by the Associated Investing corporation, a minority holder of Utilities Power securities, and counsel for a general security holders' protective committee.

The service company will act in conjunction with the operating departments of Utilities Power subsidiary properties. It will operate similarly to the service companies that are maintained by most of the large utility groups, and will receive compensation on a straight fee basis.

Operations which will be under the supervision of the service company include engineering, accounting, financial, rates, secretarial, taxes, and purchasing.

Will Take Over Personnel.

Central Service will take over the personnel of the Utilities Power and Light Operating company, which now services the various utilities properties.

Green said last night that specialists on the staf of his concern will be retained to service the new job. The company now has a staf of 12 and will take over 41 individuals now employed by Utilities Power and Light Operating company.

According to estimates submitted to Judge Holly the company will effect a saving of about $11,000 by turning over the activities to the service company. It would cost the company an estimated $417,769 to perform the same activities that will be furnished by Green's company for $405,215, the court was informed.

Officials Estimate Cost.

The estimates, prepared by the company's officials, were submitted in support of Trustee Walling's application for permission to make the contract.

The arrangement becomes effective immediately. Utilities Power will continue to operate nominally as a holding company, but most of the management functions will be vested in Central Service, which will keep the books and records and perform other activities for the parent concern.

Walling, who is president of the Personal Loan and Savings bank, was appointed trustee for Utilities Power late in 1937 over the objections of several litigants in the case who opposed placing the company under the trustee.

FORD'S OUTPUT IN WORLD PLANTS 1,314.369 UNITS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—World production of the Ford Motor company during 1937 totaled 1,314,369 units and was exceeded only twice in the last ten years—in 1930 and 1935. Ford world sales and world production both passed the million mark for the twelfth year since 1920, which was the first year that output exceeded a million units.

Domestic assemblies amounted to 1,027,701 cars and trucks during 1937, and production in Canada and assemblies in the British dominions and other territories accounted for 78,874 units. The balance of 207,794 was built or assembled in Europe, Asia, and Latin America.

The company's world production in 1936 was 1,194,800 cars and trucks, including 1,079,591 in the United States.

TWO MEN WITH MIGHTY KICKS ACTIVELY ENTER THE LIQUOR BUSINESS

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—James J. [Gene] Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, today was elected chairman of the board of the American Distilling company. Tunney for some time has been a director of the company and its parent concern, the American Alcohol corporation. At the same time word was received of the granting of a tavern license at North Bergen, N. J., to James J. Braddock, also former heavyweight champion.

Gene Tunney.

Russell R. Brown, president of both companies, in making the announcement tonight, indicated that Tunney would henceforth take a more active part in the development of the company's business.

Jim Braddock.

Tunney, expressing his gratification at his election, alluded to the great opportunities in the distilling industry and said that high pressure salesmanship must be discarded and that such advertising as road signs which the public has no choice in rejecting or accepting should be curtailed.

Railroads Pull Stock List Into Broad Upturn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—A long list of stocks advanced 1 to 3 points today and some of the more volatile issues gained 5 or more points. Railroad shares led the upturn, influenced by the Reconstruction Finance corporation's announcement that it would aid the financially troubled Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Wall street interpreted the announcement as an indication that the administration was prepared to tide the railroads over their present difficulties, and the whole stock list benefited. The turnover was 1,209,840 shares.

Baltimore and Ohio Leads.

Baltimore and Ohio took the leadership, rising 1⅜ points. Erie added 1⅝. Other leading rails gaining 1 to 3 points included Atchison, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, and New York Central.

Industrial shares were strong throughout the session, absorbing profit taking without difficulty. U. S. Steel, up 2⅝ to 59⅛, and Bethlehem, up 2¼ to 63⅛, were leaders in the steel division.

Chrysler and General Motors were in the forefront in the automobile section, advancing 3⅞ and 2¼ points, respectively. Chemicals made among the most substantial gains, Allied rising 5½ and Du Pont 5¾.

Copper Shares Active.

Copper shares were among the stocks most in demand, reflecting, it was believed, the reports of stronger market for the metal abroad and the purchase of a substantial supply of copper by the government. Anaconda, International Nickel, Kennecott and American Smelting were active with gains from 2 to 3¾ points.

Oil stocks, notably Standard of New Jersey and Texas corporation, which added more than 2 points each, had better support. Public utility issues moved up in the afternoon after lagging in early dealings.

Farm and electric equipment shares also participated. Case added almost 7 points, International Harvester 2½, Westinghouse 4⅜, General Electric 1½, and Deere and Allis Chalmers more than 1 each.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck led the merchandising group. Rubbers gained up to about 2 points.

G. A. TOMLINSON ELECTED HEAD OF ALLEGHANY CORP.

Tomlinson, Great Lakes ship operator, was associated with George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., capitalist, in the purchase of Alleghany control from a Wall street banking group at a foreclosure sale in New York two years ago.

Young also announced the election to the Alleghany board of Tomlinson, Herbert Fitzpatrick, and Robert McKinney. Frank F. Kolby, who was associated with Young in the latter's acquisition of Alleghany, retired from the board.

HAMILTON CLUB LOSES ITS HOME ON RENT CLAIM

Old Republican Unit Plans Comeback.

The historic Hamilton club of Chicago, for forty-seven years the headquarters of stanch Republicans, today lost its clubhouse as a result of court action yesterday. The club's lease on its sixteen story building, 20 South Dearborn street, for which President Taft laid the corner stone twenty-five years ago, was forfeited yesterday to the owner of the land, the Melvin Fuller estate, by order of Federal Judge William H. Holly.

The entire furnishings, except the stuffed seated elephont [Republican symbol], were sold to Zazove & Brown, auctioneers, for $22,500. The action resulted from a default of $190,000 in leasehold rent.

"Provides" for Elephant.

Special provision was made for the elephant. The court ordered that it be placed in a museum or left in safekeeping with a Republican organization, but if neither museum nor Republicans would have it, it must be burned. An observer remarked that a museum or funeral pyre would make a sad ending for an elephant that had gone merrily to Washington with Hamilton club crowds on their special trains for every Republican inauguration since 1892.

As for the thirteen resident club members still at the old stand, they must bid their good-bys by 6 p. m. Saturday.

The future of the old clubhouse and the old club seems uncertain. It was understood that the estate of Melvin Fuller, for which the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company is trustee, had leased the building for about $14,000 a year to Herman Neiburger, real estate broker, acting for an unnamed client, who plans to operate the building as the Hamilton Hotel company.

Determined to Move Back.

However, some members of the Hamilton club declared they were determined to move back into their clubhouse as a newly organized Hamilton Club of Illinois "under the old Republican banner."

Frederick A. Rowe, four times Hamilton club president and member in good standing for 40 years, asserted that the old guard had two objectives—to move into their old clubhouse by subleasing it and to give back old jobs to more than 150 employés. He said that 200 members had signed a petition for this program and that within 90 days 1,000 of the old guard could be found who would give their support and be ready to pay dues of $100 a year.

Comeback Possible.

"We can build up one of the greatest fighting Republican organizations this town ever has had," Rowe declared. "The club was closed for a matter of only $7,500 that wasn't paid on time, but we hope to have it again."

And so hangs the fate of the Hamilton club; the club founded when Benjamin Harrison was President; the club where Theodore Roosevelt once refused to dine; the club in whose beds Presidents Harding and Coolidge slept; the Republican club which desperately tried to save its clubhouse in 1935 by admitting Democrats; the club which, with 200 members where it once had 3,800, is, in the words of ex-President Rowe, "still a fighting unit."

INDIANA UTILITY SEEKS TO ENJOIN PRICES ON COAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Indiana Gas and Chemical corporation of Terre Haute, Ind., asked a federal court here today to enjoin the bituminous coal commission from enforcing certain minimum coal prices so far as they affected the Terre Haute area.

This was the first court challenge of the price schedules the commission put into effect Dec. 16. Coal men generally agreed that the whole minimum price structure would have to be suspended if the court granted the injunction.

A. M. Ogle, president of the company, said in the petition that his coal bill had been increased $9,000 a month by the new prices and that the $2,000,000 investment in his company's plant was threatened. The commission, he contended, had exceeded its powers.

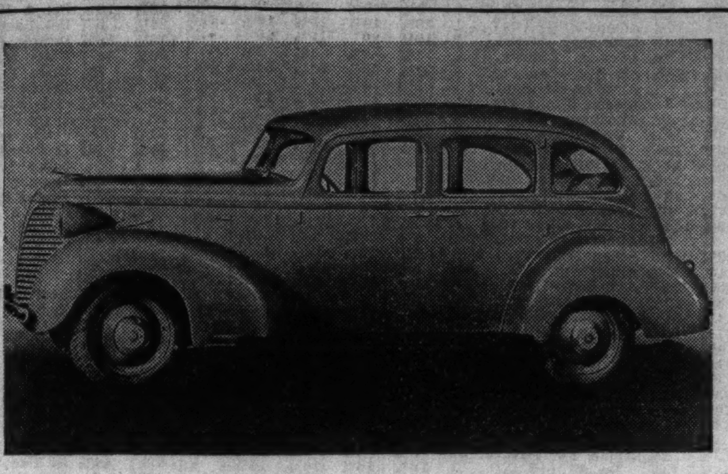
Hudson's New Low Price Car



Hudson's latest entry into the lowest priced field includes this 112 sedan, which completes the Hudson line for 1938. The new car is equipped with an 83 horse power motor.

Gen. Motors' 1937 Profit Is $4.46 a Share

General Motors corporation earned $4.46 a share on the common stock in 1937, compared with $5.35 a share in 1936, W. S. Knudsen, president, disclosed yesterday in Washington in his testimony before the senate committee on unemployment and relief. Comparison of the company's nine months' statement with Knudsen's figures indicated that profit for the last quarter of 1937 was $1.02 a share against $1.43 in 1936.

The increase in car costs was 13.5 per cent in 1937, forcing an increase in prices of 8.5 per cent, Knudsen testified. He asserted that General motors tax bill for 1937 reached a total of $73,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 over 1936.

Sales Fall Late in Year.

Discussing the decline in orders which caused a layoff of 30,000 men, Knudsen pointed out that retail deliveries in the United States of new General Motors cars were 225,109 in October and November of 1937, compared with 199,630 in 1936, but that during the last 10 days of November a "severe drop" in sales occurred and continued in December.

John B. Stetson company, Philadelphia, Pa., hat manufacturer, yesterday reported net income for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1937, was $94,520, or $1.58 a preferred share, compared with net income of $485,334, or $8.09 on the preferred, in the preceding year. The 1937 figure includes an extraordinary loss of $96,767.

HEAVY BUILDING AWARDS SHOW GAIN OVER 1936

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards in 1937 amounted to $2,437,623,000, a gain of 4 per cent over 1936, the Engineering News-Record reported today.

Geographically, the middle Atlantic states, with a volume of $1,058,364,000, were 39 per cent above last year, and the middle west, with $422,723,000, was 2 per cent ahead. Losses ranging from 13 to 23 per cent were reported in other sections.

Private construction awards for the year aggregated $1,115,866,000, a gain of 48 per cent over last year, while public awards amounted to $1,321,757,000, a decrease of 17 per cent.

Of the public awards, $208,588,000 was federal, a decline of 35 per cent under last year, and $1,116,169,000 was state and municipal, a decrease of 13 per cent.

For the current week awards amounted to $49,178,000, an increase of 9 per cent over the previous week and 22 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago. The comparative table showed:

	This week.	Previous week.	Year ago.

RFC REFUSES AGAIN TO AID ERIE RAILROAD

B. & O.'s $8,233,000 Loan Approved.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, again late today refused to sanction an RFC $6,000,000 loan to the Erie railroad unless the Chesapeake and Ohio, which controls the Erie, guarantees the loan. Approval by the interstate commerce commission of an RFC loan to the Baltimore and Ohio was granted this afternoon.

In reiterating his stand against a loan to the Erie without a C. & O. guaranty Jones said that "a matter of principle is involved." Jones has asked that the C. & O. either guarantee the loan or add $2,500,000 of collateral to the collateral that Erie has available as security.

"Won't Nurture Own Child."

"If the Chesapeake and Ohio won't nurture its own child, I don't see why the government should," Jones asserted. "Apparently it is able to support its own child and won't since it has shown no interest whatever, and the only word I have had from it has been in reply to telegrams I sent. Each reply was a firm refusal to assist."

Jones told reporters to "draw their own conclusions" when asked if he would continue to refuse to make a loan to the Erie without C. & O. aid, even if this meant bankruptcy to the Erie. He said that "he assumed" the C. & O. might want to see the Erie go into trusteeship and come out with reduced fixed charges.

Asked why he thought the C. & O. wanted to control the Erie if not willing to help it obtain the loan, Jones said it "looks like they might want to milk the cow and then turn her out." Asked if he planned any steps to "save the child," he said he believed the "court should do that," but did not specify what court.

Seek to Avoid Reorganizing.

In Cleveland, Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie railroad, and his advisers continued conferences on possible ways to meet the road's defaulted bond interest and avert the necessity of seeking a reorganization under the federal bankruptcy laws.

The I. C. C., in approving an $8,233,000 RFC loan for the B. & O., directed the road to deliver to the RFC as collateral for the loan approved today, and previous loans, an assignment of its interest in the collateral securing $50,000,000 of notes maturing Aug. 1, 1939, and additional security with an aggregate value of $14,424,150.

Proposed Use of Loans.

The B & O. proposed to use $6,000,000 of the loan for maintenance and the remaining $2,233,000 to meet equipment trust maturities on Feb. 1 and March 1.

Chairman Jones said that the RFC was ready to proceed immediately with the loan to the B. & O. He believed that the money would care for the needs of the road "right on through until there is an improvement in trafic."

COTTON

Spot cotton was .10 cents higher with New Orleans, 8.70 cents; New York, 8.60 cents; Houston, 8.50 cents, and Galveston at 8.45 cents a pound. Prices follow:

JAPANESE BUY LESS U. S. GOODS THAN YEAR AGO

Warfare Also Dislocates Trade with China.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Japanese purchases of American goods dropped sharply in November, according to the department of commerce monthly report on trade between the United States and other leading nations, released today.

Exports to Japan in November, the report stated, were $18,133,000, compared with $24,100,000 in the corresponding month of 1936.

The undeclared war in China also dislocated trade with that nation, according to the figures given out by the department. Exports to China proper in November were shown as $2,895,000, compared with $3,227,000 in November, 1936.

Export More to Hongkong.

This seeming decline in shipments to China, however, was more than offset by a big increase in exports to the British port of Hongkong, through which much goods have been routed since the Japanese seized Shanghai and other northern ports along the China coast. American shipments to Hongkong in November totaled $3,958,000, compared with only $543,000 a year before.

Purchases by the United States from both China and Japan increased. Imports from China rose from $4,035,000 in November, 1936, to $6,026,000 in November, 1937. Imports from Japan increased from $15,304,000 to $17,190,000 during the same period.

Export, Import Comparisons.

Total November exports were $314,682,000, compared with $226,364,000 a year before. For the eleven months ended Nov. 30 exports were $3,026,872,000, compared with $2,226,177,000 in the corresponding period of 1936.

November imports of $223,226,000 compared with $196,400,000 a year before. For the eleven months imports totaled $2,875,202,000, against $2,177,431,000 in the 1936 period.

Exports by principal countries in November, 1936, and November, 1937, follow:

DECEMBER'S STEEL OUTPUT SETS A NEW LOW FOR 39 MONTHS

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The unusual feast and famine year through which the steel industry has just passed was emphasized today as the American Iron and Steel institute reported December ingot production was the lowest for thirty-nine months.

However, the small December total of open hearth and Bessemer ingots, 1,472,241 gross tons, was sufficient to bring the total for 1937 to 49,507,766 tons, the third largest annual tonnage in history. This compared with 46,807,780 in the preceding year. It was below the 49,865,185 of 1928 and the 54,312,279 of 1929. Tonnage was 2,153,781 in November and 4,424,367 in December, 1936.

December production was equivalent to 25.36 per cent of capacity, but the year's outturn was 72.39 per cent.

Business Bits

Jurgen Petersen.

Jurgen Petersen, president of the Petersen Furniture company, 1048 Belmont avenue, has been awarded the Cavalier cup of the National Retail Furniture association. The award is made on the basis of store management and service to the industry. It is the first time that the cup has been awarded to a Chicago merchant. Petersen's citation lauded him as a self-made man for his unselfish service to the industry, as well as for an outstanding modernization job and distinctive advertising.

Three other Chicagoans were among the eleven "all-American merchants of 1937" chosen by the association. They are Houlder Hudgins, manager of the Montgomery Ward & Co. furniture department; Irving Rusnak of Rusnak Brothers, and Leonard Stratton, home furnishings merchandise manager of Wieboldt Stores.

The John M. Smyth Furniture company won the national prize for having the outstanding advertisment of the 1937 National Furniture week.

Bacon, Whipple & Co. announced the admission to partnership of Donald M. Haseltine, manager of the statistical and research department. Haseltine has been associated with the firm since 1929.

BROR DAHLBERG ANSWERS CRITICS OF STOCK DEAL

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Declaring that he personally had negotiated the terms of the Celotex corporation's proposed acquisition of a substantial stock interest in the Certainteed Products corporation from the Phoenix Securities corporation, Bror Dahlberg, president of Celotex, today charged that the banker critics of the deal were judging the merits of the company's expansion plans by day to day stock market fluctuations. Criticism was made by Distributors Group, Inc., underwriters. He said:

"I cannot resist the conclusion that . . . you are thinking in terms of the stock market while I am thinking in terms of productive industrial operation. . . . Maybe the time has come for some business man to say that a given day's stock market quotation does not necessarily represent the real value of an issue."

RAIL BONDS RISE 1 TO 9 POINTS ON LOAN PROMISE

Many Corporate Issues Gain Substantially.

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Secondary rail bonds climbed 1 to 9 points or more today on assurances of Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation that the government agency would lend a needed $8,223,000 to the hard pressed Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Jones' announcement was initially taken by Wall street to mean the RFC stood ready to help needy railroads through the present business recession with funds as required. Rail issues turned up quickly and stayed strong all day.

One Issue Rises 9¾ Points.

Baltimore and Ohio refunding 6s of 1995 closed at 43, up 9¾; 5s of 2000 [D] at 37, up 7½, and first 5s of 1948 at 75, up 7.

The 5s of 1975 of Erie railroad, which is asking an RFC loan of $6,006,000, closed at 31, up 5¾. Illinois Central 4¾s finished at 37, up 6¾; Southern railway 4s at 46, up 4, and New York Central 5s at 69, up 3½.

Despite the broad gains, traders late this afternoon were pondering the course rail liens may take tomorrow. Shortly after the close today, Jones asserted in Washington that the Erie will not get the RFC loan it asks unless Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, dominant Erie stockholder, guarantees the loan. The C. & O. has thus far refused.

Others Gain Substantially.

Substantial gains were recorded in the corporate list. Studebaker 6s closed at 67, up 4, and Armour 4s at 92, up 2. Gaining 1 each were Bethlehem Steel 4¼s at 103 and Remington Rand 4¼s at 92.

United States governments were ¼ of a point higher to 3-32ds lower, with the broadest gains among the longer term issues.

PRESIDENT ASKS LEGISLATION TO AID RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—In an effort to clear up the chaotic situation of many of the country's largest railway systems, to keep solvent roads that are now on the brink of bankruptcy, and to end railroad receiverships involving thousands of miles of trackage, President Roosevelt has asked Joseph B. Eastman of the interstate commerce commission to draft legislation for early presentation to congress.

Eastman, former federal coördinator of transportation, has been conferring with Senator Burton K. Wheeler, chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce; Representative Clarence F. Lea of California, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce; Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and others as to the best way to meet the problem.

Less than a month ago, President Roosevelt said that rehabilitation of the rail systems could not long be delayed.

BANK CLEARINGS BELOW YEAR AGO AS 1938 STARTS

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Bank clearing of twenty-two leading cities in the first week of the new year continued to lag behind figures of the preceding year, although a moderate gain was made over figures of the last week in December, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Aggregate volume, aided by checks incident to the first of the month, was $5,810,966,000, against $6,538,195,000 in the corresponding week of 1937, a decline of 11.1 per cent. In the preceding week the aggregate was 14.5 per cent below the figures of the preceding year.

The Chicago turnover of $345,600,000 was a gain of 1.0 per cent over $342,300,000.

WHEAT CLIMBS TO BEST PRICES IN TWO MONTHS

Traders Talk of Inflation and War Abroad.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.96⅝	$0.93⅝	$1.33⅝
Corn	.62⅛	.62⅜	1.10⅛
Oats	.32	.31⅝	.53⅜
Rye	.76⅜	.74⅝	1.14
Soy beans	.98⅜	.97⅛	1.60

Wheat prices were on the upgrade yesterday in North American markets, with Winnipeg leading the advance. The July delivery in the Canadian market touched $1.21¼ at the top, or 5 cents a bushel above Wednesday's close, the permissible limit of fluctuation for one day's operations.

Prices in all leading markets were in new ground since Nov. 1. Profit taking caused some recession from the high point, but closing prices in American markets ranged up to 3¼ cents higher, and Winnipeg prices gained 3¼ to 4¼ cents a bushel.

A marked increase in general speculative buying of wheat futures was reported.

Europe Lacks Milling Wheat.

A scarcity of desirable milling kinds of cash wheat was said to have developed in Europe, and purchases of Canadian grain for shipment as far ahead as next July were reported to have been made. The trade also had rumors that the United Kingdom was in the market yesterday for a liberal quantity of Canadian cash wheat.

The world's available supply of wheat for the 1937-'38 season, it was recently estimated by the department of agriculture, was only 34,000,000 bushels in excess of the preceding crop year, when it was necessary to draw nearly 300,000,000 bushels from the reserve in order to cover requirements. The current supply is the smallest in 11 years, with the exception of 1936-'37.

Estimate World Wheat Supply.

The world's wheat crop and carryover, which constitutes the available supply, exclusive of Russia and China, as officially estimated for the last three years follows [millions of bushels]:

	'37-'38.	'36-'37.	'35-'36.
Carryover	518	727	915
Total, bu	4,297	4,265	4,497

Corn futures held within narrow limits. The May delivery was under pressure and closed ¼ cent lower, and the deferred futures were unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel higher. Some selling of May corn was said to have been against purchases of May wheat. At the close yesterday May wheat was about 34 cents a bushel above May corn, compared with a premium of only 28 cents recently.

The export demand for American corn was dull yesterday, sales being estimated at 250,000 bushels.

BIG CITY BANKS LEND LESS, BUY FEDERAL BONDS

Demand for Commercial Credit Shrinks.

A shifting of bank funds from commercial loans and investments into government securities was disclosed in the weekly statements of New York and Chicago banks issued yesterday.

The statement of all member banks of the federal reserve system, also issued yesterday, likewise reflected the shrinkage in the demand for commercial credit, the unemployed funds of the banks rising 110 million dollars over the preceding week.

Commercial Loans Decline.

The shrinkage in commercial bank loans in Chicago in the week ended Wednesday amounted to 14 million dollars. In New York loans fell 41 millions. Loans to brokers and dealers in New York declined 45 millions from the preceding week.

Chicago banks added 21 million dollars of government securities to their investment accounts and New York banks purchased 32 millions. Investments other than government securities declined 3 million in Chicago and 15 million in New York from the preceding week.

Expansion in bank reserves over the entire country was caused in part by the return of currency to the banks after the seasonal gain in circulation during the holiday period.

Less Money in Circulation.

Total currency circulation dropped 61 million dollars. Bank reserves at the close of the week were 1 billion 270 million more than required by the reserve board quotas.

A decline of $5,000,000 in monetary gold supplies was reported by the central reserve banks. One shipment of that amount left New York for France during the week. The central banks reported no change in their government security holdings.

RESERVE BANK OFFICERS, BOARD ARE RE-ELECTED

Officers and directors of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago were reëlected yesterday at the annual meetings. Two directors were added to the board of the bank's Detroit branch. They are Joseph M. Dodge, president of the Detroit bank, and Walter McLucas, president of the National bank of Detroit. Dodge was chosen to fill the unexpired term of the late John Ballantyne.

The bank announced reappointment by the federal reserve board in Washington of Frank J. Lewis, chairman of the F. J. Lewis Manufacturing company, as a class C director of the Chicago bank. Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was designated by the board to serve again as deputy chairman of the Chicago bank, and Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank of Chicago, was renamed as Chicago district representative on the reserve board advisory council.

Indiana Harbor Belt R. R.

Investors' Guide: Can you tell me the total capital stock, funded debt, gross, and net earnings for last seven years and other relevant information concerning Indiana Harbor Belt railroad? I understand it is a closed corporation and you may not have information.—H. W.

Answer: This road operates 628 miles of track in the Chicago metropolitan area, including 124 miles of first track and 425 miles of yard and siding track. All of its 76,000 shares of $100 par stock are owned by four roads—30 per cent each by the New York Central and Michigan Central, and 20 per cent each by the Chicago and North Western and Milwaukee roads.

Revenues were $7,976,000 and net income was $973,000 in the first nine months of 1937, compared with revenues of $7,495,000 and net of $1,265,000 in the first nine months of 1936. Fixed charges were covered 3.89 and 4.69 times, respectively.

Net income was $1,611,000 in 1936, compared with $1,322,000, $1,810,000, $1,420,000, $1,054,000, and $1,069,000 in the preceding five years.

Funded debt, consisting principally of noncallable 4 and 4½ per cent bonds due in 1957, amounts to $9,400,000. The bonds, guaranteed by the stockholder roads, are sound.

Take Inventory.

Investors' Guide: I own a few shares of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet stock. It has declined rather sharply in the last few months. Is there anything particularly wrong with this company or has my stock gone down because of the general decline in the market?—Mrs. R. C.

Answer: Investors' Guide makes no attempt to account for movements in the stock market, but we think you are wise to investigate carefully at this time the companies in which you hold stock. Colgate-Palmolive-Peet stock, you will note, has declined no more than the stock in many other strong companies. We are, however, enclosing a detailed report on this company.

Help on Income Tax.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me how much was paid on Standard Oil of Indiana common stock on March 15, June 15, and Sept. 15, 1937. I wish this information for income tax report next March and neglected to make a note of the amounts.—Mrs. K. M. C.

Answer: In addition to regularly quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share on each date, extras of 15 cents each were paid on March 15 and June 15, and a 25 cent extra was paid on Sept. 15.

LEGAL NOTICES.

TO THOSE OWNERS AND HOLDERS OF THE 7% SINKING FUND GOLD NOTES OF THE CINCINNATI ABATTOIR COMPANY WHO HAVE NOT PRESENTED THEIR NOTES FOR PAYMENT OF ALL OR PART OF THE DIVIDENDS HERETOFORE ORDERED PAID:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the undersigned receiver of The Cincinnati Abattoir Company, having been appointed by the Court of Common Pleas, Hamilton County, Ohio, on the 4th day of May, 1922, in the case of Joseph Pfeister, plaintiff, vs. The Cincinnati Abattoir Company, a corporation, defendant, No. 181864 on the dockets of said court, has filed his eighth report in said court which shows that the aggregate amount of claims allowed by the court on which the dividends hereinafter referred to were authorized to be paid is $2,208,104.69, including the then issued and outstanding 7% Sinking Fund Gold Notes, amounting to $775,000.00 par; that in 1924 the first dividend of 10% on the principal of said indebtedness, without interest, was authorized and paid; the second dividend of 5% was authorized and paid in 1926; the third dividend of 8.20% was authorized and paid in 1927, and the final or fourth dividend of .0072% was authorized and paid in 1930. The court by order provided that as all said Sinking Fund Gold Notes were payable to bearer, and no list of the owners or holders thereof available, that said notes should be sent to the Trustee of the Trust Indenture under which said notes were issued, to wit: The Central Union Trust Company, now The Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company of New York, who would certify the notes it receives, the Receiver would then pay the dividends thereon and the Trustee stamp such payments on said notes.

That at the time of authorizing said final dividend of .0072% the court ordered the receiver to notify all creditors that that was the final dividend and that the receivership was closed except only as to the sum of $10,029.60 which was the aggregate of unpaid dividends on said gold notes at said time, and which the court ordered held as a separate fund and said dividends on said gold notes paid until the further orders of this court.

Said report further shows that the owners and holders of $10,000.00 par of said gold notes have never presented the same for payment of any of the dividends and the aggregate of said four dividends as to said notes is $2,392.00; that in addition to said $10,000.00 par aforesaid, the owners and holders of $24,000.00 par of said notes have never presented the same for the third and fourth dividends aforesaid, which dividends on said $24,000.00 par of notes aggregate $2,140.00; that in addition to the $10,000.00 par and $24,000.00 par gold notes aforesaid, the owners and holders of $411,000.00 par have never presented the same for payment of the fourth dividend of .0072% and the dividend on said notes aggregates $2,959.20, making a total of dividends unpaid on all of said gold notes of $7,492.00.

Said report further shows that said receiver now has on hand United States Government bonds of the par value of $8,500.00 and $975.00 cash in bank, the difference between that amount and the unpaid dividends consisting of income on said bonds and outstanding unpaid checks over six years old, less taxes. He also holds a lot in Cincinnati and stock in the John C. Roth Packing Company, neither of which is of any value.

In said report the undersigned receiver asked the court to terminate said receivership as to said fund, and to make such order for the distribution of said fund, including allowance to said receiver and his counsel, as the court may determine.

That said eighth report was filed in said case on the 27th day of December, 1937, and on said date presented to the court. Whereupon the court made its order requiring that this notice be given and further notifying you that unless you appear in said Court of Common Pleas, Hamilton County, Ohio, on the 12th day of January, 1938, at ten o'clock A. M. before his honor, Judge Charles S. Bell, sitting in Room 3, of said court, or otherwise make proper legal objection, your claim to any further dividends will be forever barred and the court will make such orders for the closing of said receivership and the distribution of said fund as it may then determine.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

ANNOUNCEMENT
We are not quoting sale prices in this announcement because our reductions on used cars are so enormous that the new low prices might seem unbelievable—but

"Seeing Is Believing" —so come in and see for yourself.

A complete line of 1931 to 1937 Dodges, Plymouths, Fords, Chevrolets, and other makes. Also a few trucks.

The cars we are showing in this sale carry the same guarantee of honest dealing that has been our reputation for 18 years.
